Cuban Military Considers Fate Of 3 Americans

SILENT LECTURER—Willard Uphaus, of New Haven, Conn., says he is ready to go to jail in New Hampshire for contempt rather than disclose names in a subversive activities inquiry. Two Face Death But Deportation May Be Decreed

HAVANA (AP)—Military tribunals Wednesday weighed the fate of three Americans caught up in a roundup of suspected foes of Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime.

Accused of counterrevolutionary activity, two face death sentences demanded by the prosecution. But there was speculation that deportation, not the firing squad, awaited them. A long prison term has been demanded for the third.

The three, all pilots, are:

Frank Austin Young, 38, Miami, Fla., who returned to Cuba last September, three weeks after his release from a Havana prison on currency manipulation charges. He was captured in eastern Pinar del Rio province and accused of leading an armed band of rebels. He denied the charge. The prosecution asked the death sentence.

Rafael del Pino, 33, Miami, Cuban-born naturalized American captured last July when he landed a light plane on a highway near Havana. He is accused of trying to help anti-Castro Cubans flee the country. The prosecution asked the death sentence.

Peter John Lambton, 24, Nassau, Bahamas, London-born naturalized American captured with Young. Lambton said he came to Cuba to take pictures of counter-revolutionists for sale to American magazines. The prosecution asked a 30-year term.

The president of the tribunal told newsmen the court would not announce its verdict before Thursday.

Del Pino, unable to stand because of wounds suffered when police gunfire hit his plane, denied he worked against Castro. He admitted working in the United States against some members of Castro's government.

Tried with him was Luciano Linares Castell, former policeman, for whom the prosecutor also has asked the death penalty.

French Dam Breaks; Score Reported Dead

FREJUS, France (AP)—A river dam burst with a thundering crash near here Wednesday night after five days of devastating rainstorms on the French Riviera and spread torrents of destruction in the valley below.

First reports — lacking official confirmation in a maze of broken communications — said rescuers pulled 20 bodies from flood waters.

Cars, trucks, trees and paving stones were reported tumbled and uprooted by the massive surge of water.

The Malpasse hydroelectric dam about four miles north of Frejus was holding back some 52 million cubic yards of water when heavy rains of the past five days drenched the watershed along the Little Reyran River.

The break came at 9:45 p.m. The waterhead gushed down the valley for three-quarters of an hour. Parts of the city were under six feet of water.

Among French Riviera residents who suffered considerably property damage in the five-day downpour were Prince Rainier and Princess Grace of Monaco and movie people who holiday hereabouts.

Damage along the Gold Coast was counted in millions of dollars from the worst lashing in years by Mediterranean surf and a storm.

The scene for miles along the Mediterranean shore was desolate. The same storms lashed the coasts of Italy, the Greek islands and North Africa.

At Moncao about 40 boats were sunk in the harbor. Among them was one belonging to Prince Rainier. Princess Grace's swimming pool was littered with tons of rock and sand dumped in by the sea.

IRATE MICKEY — Mickey Rooney, breathing fire, tells a friend on a telephone yesterday he plans to punch Jack Paar's nose unless Paar makes a public apology for his remarks when Rooney appeared on his television show in Hollywood Tuesday night. Later, Paar and Rooney got together, talked things over and buried the hatchet. (AP Photofax)

Rooney, Paar Have Long Talk, Bury Hatchet

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mickey Rooney threatened to punch Jack Paar in the nose Wednesday because Paar accused him of being drunk on his national television show Tuesday night.

But the little actor decided later to leave Paar's nose unshattered. Instead, he said, he had a nice talk with him.

Earlier, Rooney's agent had demanded an apology from Paar's network—NBC — and Mickey had snapped: "You'd have to be loaded to go on that show. Paar has no talent."

Mickey told an Associated Press photographer at his home earlier in the day that he was going over to Paar's hotel and punch the TV star's nose.

"I went over there," Rooney said later, "and we had a long conversation. It was all out of hand. We talked it over and it's all straightened out. Just a misunderstanding. Everything is fine."

Paar confirmed they had made up and said Mickey will appear on his show as a guest again Thursday night.

Rooney, celebrating the first anniversary of his fifth marriage, was invited to leave the nationwide program early Tuesday night. He was giving Paar a going over.

Paar was giving him something of a going over too—accusing him at one point of being drunk.

First Mickey said he thought Jack's show as above par. Then he said he didn't like it.

"I stayed up to watch you until I couldn't sleep any more," Rooney said.

Paar, turning to the audience, said: "Don't sober him up or you'll ruin it."

Mickey said he thought Parr was laughing at him.

Paar said he thought Mickey was loaded.

"Not necessarily," said Mickey.

"Would you like to leave?"

Mickey nodded, arose, shook hands with the host, and left.

As Mickey departed and the audience applauded, Paar said: "It's a shame. He has a great talent."

Steel Dispute Move Hinted By President

McDonald Charges Worker Speedup Ordered By J&L

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower hinted Wednesday the government may be considering an extraordinary move to settle the prolonged steel dispute. Unless that is, an early voluntary agreement is reached.

Eisenhower said at his news conference he has brought every bit of official and personal influence to bear on both sides to reach an agreement on their own, and will renew that appeal in his nationwide address Thursday night.

"I just know this," the President added, "if we can't get anywhere on this thing, then finally the government cannot sit idly by on its hands."

But if the point comes that the government has to act to end the dispute, he said, it will be a "sad day for the United States."

Mediators, meanwhile, toiled at separate sessions with industry and union negotiators without much hope that an agreement can be reached before the present 80-day injunction expires on Jan. 26. The court order halted a 116-day strike.

Union Boss Accuses

David J. McDonald, Steelworkers Union president, charged in an address to a labor union convention here Wednesday morning that the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. has ordered a worker speedup and has lowered quality standards to recoup strike losses. McDonald said it was typical of what he called "a cold-blooded, ruthless" industry attitude.

McDonald called for an investigation on whether the purported J&L orders to foremen violate "the status quo" terms of the injunction. He sent complaints to President Eisenhower, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, and to Senate leaders.

J & L Policy Letter Quoted

In Pittsburgh a spokesman for J&L said that Avery C. Adams, board chairman and president of the firm, sent a letter to company employes Nov. 7 — the day the Taft-Hartley injunction went into effect — which stated the company policy. Quoting from the letter, the spokesman said:

"The same terms and conditions of the agreement which were in effect in the J&L mills before the strike will be honored by the company. Your (the workers') rights, your dignity and your grievances will be respected as always."

The spokesman said he knew of no other letter.

The purported orders were over the name of Supt. J. M. Imel of the strip and sheet department of J&L's Hazlewood mill in Pittsburgh. The document displayed by McDonald called for maximum production at minimum cost while reducing "all forces to a minimum."

Gates Sworn In As Defense Chief

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thomas S. Gates Jr. was sworn in as defense secretary Wednesday and plunged into a heavy schedule that will take him to Paris next week and then before Congress for a prolonged defense of the new military budget.

Gates, who took his oath at a White House ceremony witnessed by President Eisenhower, aligned himself firmly with the military policies and budget plans of Neil H. McElroy, who resigned as defense chief Tuesday.

Network Heads Pledge Strict Policing Of Ads

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bosses of the big broadcasting networks Wednesday pledged more stringent industry policing of television and radio commercials.

They gave the pledges at a conference called by the Federal Trade Commission to help develop a joint government-industry attack on the broadcasting of false and misleading advertising.

"We are convinced that you mean business," FTC Chairman Earl W. Kintner said at the end of the session. "We hope you are convinced we mean business."

Robert F. Kintner, president of the National Broadcasting Co.—and no kin to the FTC chief — said the National Assn. of Broadcasters will act this weekend to tighten up its advertising standards.

The NBC president also said his network is reviewing its own standards and practices to see if they need revision.

Dr. Frank Stanton, president of the Columbia Broadcasting System, said CBS is taking steps to insure the integrity of material it broacasts. He did not specify what these were.

The conference settled on no specific program. However, Earl Kintner said the FTC staff aides wosld work closely with the networks in attacking specific problems.

He said the FTC's determination will be demonstrated in the months ahead by the filing of charges against a number of TV commercials.

"We will keep the pressure on as long as deceptive advertising remains a problem," he said.

Crippled Plane Lands Safely

HONOLULU (AP)—A big military transport plane carrying servicemen and dependents limped safely back to Hawaii Wednesday with two of its four engines out.

The C121 Super Constellation turned around when it was 335 miles out of Honolulu en route to Wake Island.

The pilot, Navy Lt. Cmdr. A. E. Pearsall, 37, of Sunnyvale, Calif., landed the crippled plane at International Airport after 90 tense minutes.

"I don't know what went wrong," said Pearsall. "There must have been some internal trouble.

"The passengers were concerned but not anxious. They had their lifejackets on."

Among the 76 passengers were three women and five children.

The Military Air Transport Service plane was headed for Tachikawa Air Force Base in Japan from Travis AFB in California.

Four U.S. Fliers Killed In Crash

OSLO, Norway (AP) — A U.S. Air Force twin-engine plane crashed in a fog and burned in a forest preserve in northern Oslo Wednesday. The four men aboard were killed.

The bodies of all four victims were found Wednesday night by a team of Red Cross volunteers, Oslo police and lumberjacks.

The U.S. Embassy listed the four crewmen, all attached to the Military Assistance Advisory Group in Oslo, as: Lt. Col. Henry J. Pascho, Reading, Mass.; Lt. Col. Pete W. Kuba, Struthers, Ohio; Sgt. Frank Rice Jr., New Cumberland, Pa., and Sgt. Walter H. Brandt, Wilmington, Del.

13 Hurt In Crash Of Army 'Copter

FRONT ROYAL, Va. (UPI) — A big troop-carrying Army helicopter developed trouble over the Blue Ridge Mountains Wednesday, flashed a distress signal and crashed. Thirteen of the 15 men aboard were injured, one seriously.

The pilot, Warrant Officer Beverly T. Heim, 29, of Ft. Belvoir, was seriously injured.

Heim was transferred from the Ft. Belvoir Hospital to Walter Reed Hospital in Washington for surgery. He suffered head injuries.

Several of the injured were treated at the scene, only about 300 yards off the Skyline Drive about 47 miles south of here and a mile north of the little community of Big Meadow Va.

The Army said in Washington three H-21 helicopters were carrying a platoon of 25 men from the Third Infantry at Ft. Myer, Va. to intercept an "aggressor" parachute force which had landed at Big Meadow as part of the tactical exercise.

Rockefeller Will Expand Midwest Swing

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York announced Wednesday expansion of a swing into the Midwest later this month.

He said he expects it to be his last expedition before he decides on trying for the Republican presidential nomination.

Rockefeller, the only prospective rival to Vice President Richard M. Nixon's ambitions for the nomination, arrived at a conference of governors here with something of a splash — literally and figuratively.

He had to change flights plans because of the weather, and got in during a rain.

Soon after, he staged a news conference at which he disclosed his intentions to expand his travels to Oklahoma, Texas and Florida.

He is scheduled tentatively to visit those states respectively on Dec. 16, 17 and 18.

Rockefeller has firm commitments to go to South Bend, Ind., Dec. 12. He is adding St. Louis, Mo., on Dec. 13. The governor will fly into Minneapolis the following day and Milwaukee on Dec. 15.

He was asked whether what he learns on the forthcoming journey will be the factor controlling whether he bids for the GOP presidential nomination. To this question, Rockefeller replied: "No it will be the last in a cumulative series of impressions."

Envoy Due Monday

HAVANA (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Philip W. Bonsal will go to Washington Monday for consultations.

It will be Bonsal's second trip to Washington since U.S.-Cuban relations were strained by repeated attacks from Prime Minister Fidel Castro and expropriation of American property there.

Out To Prove To Allies U.S. Wants Peace

Eisenhower Leaves Washington Tonight Following Broadcast

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower declared Wednesday the major aim of his 22,000-mile visit to 11 countries, beginning Thursday, will be to prove to foreign peoples that the United States is a "good partner" in the search for a just peace.

Eisenhower told a news conference that "such prestige and standing as I have" will be used during his last year in office to carry out that theme.

The President is scheduled to leave Washington after making a broadcast to the nation about his 19-day journey. That trip will take him, at its farthest point, to four days of talks with Prime Minister Nehru of India, then bring him back to Paris for a Western summit meeting Dec. 19-21.

Discussing the trip and other foreign issues at his meeting with newsmen, Eisenhower made these main points:

1. He has received medical clearance from his doctors who found in a physical examination three days ago that he was "capable of doing it." But he said his family is understandably concerned that he "is probably here and there taking on a load that he shouldn't.

Nehru Policy Endorsed

2. Nehru is right in trying to settle the border dispute with Red China by negotiation and that China's leaders are wrong in using force.

3. The President will be prepared to discuss the border issue and other specific problems with Nehru, including hopeful signs of an improvement in relations between Pakistan and India.

4. He will discuss other specific problems as he visits other capitals and everywhere will emphasize the need to resolve issues by negotiation rather than force.

5. Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi of Japan will visit the United States, probably in January. Kishi's visit is expected to bring completion of negotiations for a revised . S.-Japanese mutual defense treaty.

6. Eisenhower is more hopeful now than a few months back that some constructive result will emerge from U. S.-British negotiations with the Soviet Union for a ban on nuclear weapons testing backed up by an international inspection system.

Hopes To Erase Doubts

The brighter prospect evidently is due to the Soviet Union's recent agreement to join in a scientific study, now under way, of the problems of preventing sneak underground explosions.

As he got into a discussion of his aims in going on the journey, Eisenhower said there is a great deal of doubt remaining "in the minds of many people, and including our friends, allies and other friends, as to America's real sincerity in pursuit of peace."

He and other high officials, including the secretary of state, have tried to emphasize this country's peaceful purposes, he said, yet "it doesn't seem to come through."

"Now, I have a relatively few months left," Eisenhower said, "and I decided to make something —make an effort that no president ever was called on before to make, but I do feel a compulsion to visit a number of countries, and through them hoping to reach many others, and tell them exactly what I believe the United States is trying to do: That our basic aspiration is to search out methods by which peace in the world could be assured with justice for everybody. . . ."

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Jackie Foster, 7, is back home, blind but lively, and with a grasp beyond his years of how big the human heart can be.

Jackie is the boy who had Christmas before Thanksgiving. Had he waited he could not have seen the dazzling magic of the tree nor the array of gifts under it.

On Nov. 24, Jackie's cancerous right eye was removed. The disease had cost him his other eye when he was a baby.

So the family and the neighborhood made sure there would be a party ahead of time. Everyone bravely closed the door for a day on pain and poverty and a most uncertain future for the Fosters.

It was an early Christmas for the 28-year-old father, Eugene, too. The day before Thanksgiving, at Jackie's bedside in Wills Eye Hospital, he said goodby and went to a sanitarium in Browns Mills, N.J. A tuberculosis sufferer, he may be there for a year or more.

Thus upon Mrs. Foster, mother of four other children, all younger than Jackie, fell the burden of keeping the family going, almost entirely from relief payments.

Millions of Americans learned about Jackie. Many did something about it, if only to write sympathetically. Money has been coming in as well, not in big donations, but in small contributions from people who have been up against it themselves.

Most of the money and most of the letters, wires and telephone calls have gone to the hospital since the Fosters' address is not generally known.

Mrs. Foster said she will not touch a penny of Jackie's money.

"It goes into the bank for him, and it stays there," she asserted. "I am sure that is the way all the good people who gave it would want it to be. As for the rest of us, we'll manage somehow. Things could be worse."

When Jackie went home Tuesday he was given glasses to wear for appearance's sake.

"I want blue ones," he said, grinning.

The little boy's voice, punctuated by sobs, came clearly over the wire to Shirley Klein, a desk officer at Miami Beach police headquarters

"What's your name, sonny?" Mrs. Klein asked.

"Israel Adler."

"Don't cry, Israel. Maybe she's not dead. Are you sure she's dead?"

"Yes," he said. "I shook her, but she won't wake up."

"Where do you live?" Mrs. Klein asked. Writing out the address, she passed it to Officer R. T. West and whispered: "Send everything up there; squad car, ambulance, oxygen—and the medical examiner."

Mrs. Klein was back on the phone: "All right, Israel, there'll be somebody there in a minute. Now don't hang up. Talk to me. Tell me what happened."

"I don't know," said Israel. "I woke up when the alarm went off and I went to wake my mommy in her bedroom and she was dead."

Mrs. Klein kept the boy talking. She asked his age. He said he was 9. She talked soothingly to him. Gradually the sobs subsided. Then the boy broke in with, "There's somebody at the door."

It was the police. Within seconds, Patrolmen Karl Kimmel and Fred Walder confirmed that the boy's "mommy" — in reality his great-aunt and foster mother, Esther Adler 64 — was dead of natural causes.

Mrs. Adler, a wealthy widow, adopted Israel three years ago. His parents were killed near the Canadian border in an auto accident.

Israel was born in Montreal. Only one month ago, he became a U.S. citizen.

Peace Justice Mavlin Englander, father of four children, said he was taking Israel home with him.

"My wife is used to things like this," he said.

Asked how he reached police headquarters, Israel, a fourth-grader, replied: "I just dialed the operator and said I wanted the police station. The operator asked me, 'Is this an emergency?'

"And I said, 'Yes'."

Ray Acquitted, Promptly Faints

DETROIT (AP)—Singer Johnnie Ray was found innocent on a morals charge Wednesday and promptly fell off the prisoners bench in a dead faint.

Revived amid a bedlam of applause and cheers, Ray told the all-woman jury in Recorder's Court: "It's the nicest thing I could hear."

Ray was accused of accosting and soliciting here Nov. 21. Patrolman Eugene Caiston of the Detroit police vice squad testified that the singer made an indecent proposal to him outside a downtown bar. Caviston, in plainclothes had posed as a salesman.

The 12-woman jury acquitted him on the second ballot after 50 minutes of deliberation.

Ray who pleaded guilty and was fined $25 on a similar charge in 1951, took the stand for 40 minutes Tuesday and denied the police officer's accusation. He said Caviston asked for his autograph in the bar and then Ray invited the new acquaintance to a party at his hotel suite.

Network Heads Pledge Strict Policing Of Ads

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bosses of the big broadcasting networks Wednesday pledged more stringent industry policing of television and radio commercials.

They gave the pledges at a conference called by the Federal Trade Commission to help develop a joint government-industry attack on the broadcasting of false and misleading advertising.

"We are convinced that you mean business," FTC Chairman Earl W. Kintner said at the end of the session. "We hope you are convinced we mean business."

Robert F. Kintner, president of the National Broadcasting Co.—and no kin to the FTC chief — said the National Assn. of Broadcasters will act this weekend to tighten up its advertising standards.

The NBC president also said his network is reviewing its own standards and practices to see if they need revision.

Dr. Frank Stanton, president of the Columbia Broadcasting System, said CBS is taking steps to insure the integrity of material it broacasts. He did not specify what these were.

The conference settled on no specific program. However, Earl Kintner said the FTC staff aides wosld work closely with the networks in attacking specific problems.

He said the FTC's determination will be demonstrated in the months ahead by the filing of charges against a number of TV commercials.

"We will keep the pressure on as long as deceptive advertising remains a problem," he said.

Crippled Plane Lands Safely

HONOLULU (AP)—A big military transport plane carrying servicemen and dependents limped safely back to Hawaii Wednesday with two of its four engines out.

The C121 Super Constellation turned around when it was 335 miles out of Honolulu en route to Wake Island.

The pilot, Navy Lt. Cmdr. A. E. Pearsall, 37, of Sunnyvale, Calif., landed the crippled plane at International Airport after 90 tense minutes.

"I don't know what went wrong," said Pearsall. "There must have been some internal trouble.

"The passengers were concerned but not anxious. They had their lifejackets on."

Among the 76 passengers were three women and five children.

The Military Air Transport Service plane was headed for Tachikawa Air Force Base in Japan from Travis AFB in California.

Four U.S. Fliers Killed In Crash

OSLO, Norway (AP) — A U.S. Air Force twin-engine plane crashed in a fog and burned in a forest preserve in northern Oslo Wednesday. The four men aboard were killed.

The bodies of all four victims were found Wednesday night by a team of Red Cross volunteers, Oslo police and lumberjacks.

The U.S. Embassy listed the four crewmen, all attached to the Military Assistance Advisory Group in Oslo, as: Lt. Col. Henry J. Pascho, Reading, Mass.; Lt. Col. Pete W. Kuba, Struthers, Ohio; Sgt. Frank Rice Jr., New Cumberland, Pa., and Sgt. Walter H. Brandt, Wilmington, Del.

13 Hurt In Crash Of Army 'Copter

FRONT ROYAL, Va. (UPI) — A big troop-carrying Army helicopter developed trouble over the Blue Ridge Mountains Wednesday, flashed a distress signal and crashed. Thirteen of the 15 men aboard were injured, one seriously.

Another helicopter taking part in the same training exercise reached the crash scene minutes later and evacuated nine of the injured to the Army hospital at Ft. Belvoir, Va.

The pilot, Warrant Officer Beverly T. Heim, 29, of Ft. Belvoir, was seriously injured.

Heim was transferred from the Ft. Belvoir Hospital to Walter Reed Hospital in Washington for surgery. He suffered head injuries.

Several of the injured were treated at the scene, only about 300 yards off the Skyline Drive about 47 miles south of here and a mile north of the little community of Big Meadow Va.

The Army said in Washington three H-21 helicopters were carrying a platoon of 25 men from the Third Infantry at Ft. Myer, Va. to intercept an "aggressor" parachute force which had landed at Big Meadow as part of the tactical exercise.

Rockefeller Will Expand Midwest Swing

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York announced Wednesday expansion of a swing into the Midwest later this month.

He said he expects it to be his last expedition before he decides on trying for the Republican presidential nomination.

Rockefeller, the only prospective rival to Vice President Richard M. Nixon's ambitions for the nomination, arrived at a conference of governors here with something of a splash — literally and figuratively.

He had to change flights plans because of the weather, and got in during a rain.

Soon after, he staged a news conference at which he disclosed his intentions to expand his travels to Oklahoma, Texas and Florida.

He is scheduled tentatively to visit those states respectively on Dec. 16, 17 and 18.

Rockefeller has firm commitments to go to South Bend, Ind., Dec. 12. He is adding St. Louis, Mo., on Dec. 13. The governor will fly into Minneapolis the following day and Milwaukee on Dec. 15.

He was asked whether what he learns on the forthcoming journey will be the factor controlling whether he bids for the GOP presidential nomination. To this question, Rockefeller replied: "No it will be the last in a cumulative series of impressions."

Envoy Due Monday

It will be Bonsal's second trip to Washington since U.S.-Cuban relations were strained by repeated attacks from Prime Minister Fidel Castro and expropriation of American property there.

Out To Prove To Allies U.S. Wants Peace

Eisenhower Leaves Washington Tonight Following Broadcast

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower declared Wednesday the major aim of his 22,000-mile visit to 11 countries, beginning Thursday, will be to prove to foreign peoples that the United States is a "good partner" in the search for a just peace.

Eisenhower told a news conference that "such prestige and standing as I have" will be used during his last year in office to carry out that theme.

The President is scheduled to leave Washington after making a broadcast to the nation about his 19-day journey. That trip will take him, at its farthest point, to four days of talks with Prime Minister Nehru of India, then bring him back to Paris for a Western summit meeting Dec. 19-21.

Discussing the trip and other foreign issues at his meeting with newsmen, Eisenhower made these main points:

1. He has received medical clearance from his doctors who found in a physical examination three days ago that he was "capable of doing it." But he said his family is understandably concerned that he "is probably here and there taking on a load that he shouldn't.

Nehru Policy Endorsed

2. Nehru is right in trying to settle the border dispute with Red China by negotiation and that China's leaders are wrong in using force.

3. The President will be prepared to discuss the border issue and other specific problems with Nehru, including hopeful signs of an improvement in relations between Pakistan and India.

4. He will discuss other specific problems as he visits other capitals and everywhere will emphasize the need to resolve issues by negotiation rather than force.

5. Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi of Japan will visit the United States, probably in January. Kishi's visit is expected to bring completion of negotiations for a revised . S.-Japanese mutual defense treaty.

6. Eisenhower is more hopeful now than a few months back that some constructive result will emerge from U. S.-British negotiations with the Soviet Union for a ban on nuclear weapons testing backed up by an international inspection system.

Hopes To Erase Doubts

The brighter prospect evidently is due to the Soviet Union's recent agreement to join in a scientific study, now under way, of the problems of preventing sneak underground explosions.

As he got into a discussion of his aims in going on the journey, Eisenhower said there is a great deal of doubt remaining "in the minds of many people, and including our friends, allies and other friends, as to America's real sincerity in pursuit of peace."

He and other high officials, including the secretary of state, have tried to emphasize this country's peaceful purposes, he said, yet "it doesn't seem to come through."

"Now, I have a relatively few months left," Eisenhower said, "and I decided to make something—make an effort that no president ever was called on before to make, but I do feel a compulsion to visit a number of countries, and through them hoping to reach many others, and tell them exactly what I believe the United States is trying to do: That our basic aspiration is to search out methods by which peace in the world could be assured with justice for everybody. . . ."

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Jackie Foster, 7, is back home, blind but lively, and with a grasp beyond his years of how big the human heart can be.

Jackie is the boy who had Christmas before Thanksgiving. Had he waited he could not have seen the dazzling magic of the tree nor the array of gifts under it.

On Nov. 24, Jackie's cancerous right eye was removed. The disease had cost him his other eye when he was a baby.

So the family and the neighborhood made sure there would be a party ahead of time. Everyone bravely closed the door for a day on pain and poverty and a most uncertain future for the Fosters.

It was an early Christmas for the 28-year-old father, Eugene, too. The day before Thanksgiving, at Jackie's bedside in Wills Eye Hospital, he said goodby and went to a sanitarium in Browns Mills, N.J. A tuberculosis sufferer, he may be there for a year or more.

Thus upon Mrs. Foster, mother of four other children, all younger than Jackie, fell the burden of keeping the family going, almost entirely from relief payments.

Millions of Americans learned about Jackie. Many did something about it, if only to write sympathetically. Money has been coming in as well, not in big donations, but in small contributions from people who have been up against it themselves.

Most of the money and most of the letters, wires and telephone calls have gone to the hospital since the Fosters' address is not generally known.

Mrs. Foster said she will not touch a penny of Jackie's money.

"It goes into the bank for him, and it stays there," she asserted. "I am sure that is the way all the good people who gave it would want it to be. As for the rest of us, we'll manage somehow. Things could be worse."

When Jackie went home Tuesday he was given glasses to wear for appearance's sake.

"I want blue ones," he said, grinning.

The little boy's voice, punctuated by sobs, came clearly over the wire to Shirley Klein, a desk officer at Miami Beach police headquarters

"What's your name, sonny?" Mrs. Klein asked.

"Israel Adler."

"Don't cry, Israel. Maybe she's not dead. Are you sure she's dead?"

"Yes," he said. "I shook her, but she won't wake up."

"Where do you live?" Mrs. Klein asked. Writing out the address, she passed it to Officer R. T. West and whispered: "Send everything up there; squad car, ambulance, oxygen—and the medical examiner."

Mrs. Klein was back on the phone: "All right, Israel, there'll be somebody there in a minute. Now don't hang up. Talk to me. Tell me what happened."

"I don't know," said Israel. "I woke up when the alarm went off and I went to wake my mommy in her bedroom and she was dead."

Mrs. Klein kept the boy talking. She asked his age. He said he was 9. She talked soothingly to him. Gradually the sobs subsided. Then the boy broke in with, "There's somebody at the door."

It was the police. Within seconds, Patrolmen Karl Kimmel and Fred Walder confirmed that the boy's "mommy" — in reality his great-aunt and foster mother, Esther Adler 64 — was dead of natural causes.

Mrs. Adler, a wealthy widow, adopted Israel three years ago. His parents were killed near the Canadian border in an auto accident.

Israel was born in Montreal. Only one month ago, he became a U.S. citizen.

Peace Justice Mavlin Englander, father of four children, said he was taking Israel home with him.

"My wife is used to things like this," he said.

Asked how he reached police headquarters, Israel, a fourth-grader, replied: "I just dialed the operator and said I wanted the police station. The operator asked me, 'Is this an emergency?'

"And I said, 'Yes'."

Probers Sift Wreckage Of Airliner; Experienced Pilot's Role Big Puzzle

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — Wednesday on why the craft Federal and state investigators crashed, killing 25 of 26 persons sifted through the wreckage of an aboard.
Allegheny Airlines plane for clues. One of the biggest puzzles is the role of the experienced pilot just before the Martin Executive type twin-engine aircraft plunged into the rock-strewn slope of 1,400-foot high Bald Eagle Mountain.

David Miller, senior vice president of the airlines, said there was no evidence that the pilot, 30-year-old Thomas R. Goldsmith, made a wrong turn in an attempt to land at the Williamsport-Montoursville airport during a snow storm Tuesday.

"The man had flown the route since 1950," he said. "Every pilot of our system is alert to the mountain. To me it is inconceivable that he turned into it."

The single survivor of the disaster, Louis Matarazzo, 35, a Springfield, Pa., textile executive, was under sedation after suffering an eye injury and burns over most of his body.

"The Lord opened my side of the plane, and I was able to jump out," Matarazzo explained.

Three others who lived through the crash died shortly afterwards without regaining consciousness.

Airline officials offered their assistance to government investigators in probing the plane crash.

"There are conflicting reports of various types," Miller said. "A formal investigation is under way to clarify them."

Governors Say Road Fund Cut Stirs Turmoil

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (UPI) — The governors conference committee on roads and highway safety charged Wednesday that the possibility of a billion-dollar cut in federal funds has thrown the interstate superhighway program into turmoil.

Gov. Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut, committee chairman, said "the highway program was one of the models of state and federal cooperation. Now, for the first time in 40 years there is complete confusion."

Ribicoff called for meetings with President Eisenhower, congressional committees and all governors to reexamine possible changes in the program announced by the federal government in October. He said the changes amounted to slicing $1,100,000,000 from state allocations in the next three fiscal years.

The government told the states they might not get all their highway allocations in fiscal 1960, ending next June 30, so that fiscal 1961 allotments would not have to be drastically reduced.

Ribicoff indicated the states considered the fiscal 1960 allocations as firm commitments and would press for all originally authorized funds.

He also criticized "contract controls" put into effect by the government under the interstate program. He said the committee feels the controls dictate to the states "how and on what basis" the roads will be built.

He said the committee would suggest to the President and the congressional finance and public works committees that alternative ways be found to finance the full interstate program. He mentioned increasing gasoline taxes or highway user fees, borrowing money, taking funds from the general fund reserve or using other existing reserves.

More than 20 governors were here to attend three days of conferences that also will discuss highway safety and the problem of urban mass transportation.

April Summit Meeting Urged By Adenauer

PARIS (AP) — West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, ending two days of talks with French President Charles de Gaulle, came out Wednesday for an East-West summit meeting in Paris late next April.

Adenauer announced he and De Gaulle were agreed on all important issues. But he did not say whether De Gaulle agreed with him on a time and place for a summit meeting.

A French Foreign Ministry spokesman said later that Adenauer had casually informed De Gaulle of his summit preference while they were saying goodby at the Elysee Palace. The spokesman said the French position still is that the date and place for a summit conference should be decided by the West at a meeting opening in Paris Dec. 19.

De Gaulle has been talking about a top-level meeting in the spring after Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev visits Paris in March. This has annoyed the British, who want a summit meeting sooner. Geneva previously has been mentioned as a likely site.

"We of course talked over the general political situation and I am happy to say that we are in agreement on all important points," Adenauer told a news conference.

Adenauer declined to go into details of his discussions with De Gaulle and Premier Michel Debre.

It was reported that he and Debre got into an argument over France's role in world affairs. A German source said that this was putting it too strongly but it was correct to say the Chancellor and Debre did not agree on all points.

Invitation Accepted

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan accepted an invitation to visit Italy early next spring.

Ike May Receive High Vatican Decoration

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII is expected to confer a high vatican decoration upon President Eisenhower.

Vatican sources said Wednesday the most likely decoration is the recently created Grand Collar of the Pian Order. It is the highest rank of the Pian Order, which itself is the third highest of all papal decorations. The decoration was created in February 1958, by the late Pope Pius XII for the express purpose of decorating heads of state.

Firm Offers Boy Hand In Time For Christmas

The artificial hand is the only thing the little six-year-old from Alexandria, Va., really wants from Santa Claus. He was born with only a right hand.

Several persons have offered to pay for the hand. But no one has been able to guarantee that Mike would get it in time for Christmas.

However, the Union-Essex Institute for rehabilitation of Elizabeth, N.J., offered to provide the hand before the holiday deadline. The firm said it would pay all of his medical expenses and his train fare to Elizabeth.

Mike's dad, Irvin, said he would decide Monday whether to accept the offer or wait for the Children's Amputee Bureau at Richmond, Va., to provide a hand.

Charles Della Is Reelected To Labor Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles A. Della of Anne Arundel County, Md., Wednesday defeated James E. Patterson, Timonium, Md., to win reelection as secretary-treasurer of the Maryland-District of Columbia AFL-CIO.

All other officers were reelected to two-year terms without opposition. Patterson, in confirming his defeat by Della, did not disclose the vote.

Reelected without opposition were President W. F. Strong, Silver Spring, Md., First Vice President C. B. Windsor, Glen Burnie, Md., and Second Vice President J. C. Turner, Washington.

Patterson, who has held the post previously, said before the vote tabulation that he expected the race to be a close one. Both he and Della are members of Steelworkers Local 2609, Baltimore.

Earlier, it had been expected that the result of the Della-Patterson race would not be announced until resumption of the convention's business sessions Thursday.

In other activities, the convention was told by an electrical workers union official that union leaders generally are failing to get their messages across to rank and file union members.

Benjamin Segal, educational director of the International Union of Electrical Workers, said many union members accept what he described as "the propaganda of business that all unions are corrupt."

Segal said there is considerably more corruption in business than in the union movement.

Two Telephone Operators Accused Of Destroying Records Of Hoffa Calls

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two telephone operators at a swank Washington apartment - hotel were indicted Wednesday on charges of conspiring to "obstruct and frustrate" the Senate Racket Committee's investigation of the Teamsters union.

A federal grand jury here accused the two women of falsifying and destroying records of telephone calls from rooms occupied by Teamsters President James R. Hoffa from 1957 until April, 1959.

The two telephone operators also were charged with attempting to falsify the records of telephone calls made by James Cross, the president of the Bakers union who maintained a suite at the Woodner at a time his union was under investigation by the committee.

If convicted of all four counts in the indictment, Mrs. Hucks and Mrs. Davis would be liable to a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison and $25,000 fines.

The grand jury said the two women also ordered other telephone operators at the Woodner to make fictitious entries of telephone calls from rooms occupied by Teamster and Bakers union officials.

It said that the two operators last April 10 destroyed telephone records that were under subpoena by the rackets investigators.

The Justice Department said the grand jury is continuing its inquiry "to determine whether additional conspirators are implicated."

Hoffa, then a Teamster vice president, was indicted in March, 1957, on charges of bribing former Secret Service Agent John Cye Cheasty to join the committee staff and slip him confidential information. He was acquitted.

Cross was indicted on perjury charges in October, 1958, as a result of information handed over to the Justice Department by the Senate committee. He was acquitted last February.

Woman-Hater Gives Up Fast

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Elmer Simrell—who vowed to "fast until death" to dramatize his campaign against female supremacy — has not given up the ghost.

He has given up the fast instead. Elmer the woman-hater lost about 16 pounds.

Simrell has been in the county jail a week, awaiting court action on charges that he used the mails to make death threats.

He vowed last Wednesday that he would starve himself to death if newspapers did not publish his long-winded theories on what he calls the menace of womanhood.

The 47-year-old tailor started his fast at 128 pounds. Tuesday night, down to 112 pounds, he was transferred to a hospital. There, he asked whether he might have a bite of something. They gave him a meal and he ate it.

Elmer's wife divorced him several years ago and won custody of their children. Elmer was enraged. He said women were always the winners in domestic courts and charged the entire society was "over-feminized."

The spokesman said the French position still is that the date and place for a summit conference should be decided by the West at a meeting opening in Paris Dec. 19.

De Gaulle has been talking about a top-level meeting in the spring after Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev visits Paris in March. This has annoyed the British, who want a summit meeting sooner. Geneva previously has been mentioned as a likely site.

"We of course talked over the general political situation and I am happy to say that we are in agreement on all important points," Adenauer told a news conference.

Adenauer declined to go into details of his discussions with De Gaulle and Premier Michel Debre.

It was reported that he and Debre got into an argument over France's role in world affairs. A German source said that this was putting it too strongly but it was correct to say the Chancellor and Debre did not agree on all points.

Ike May Receive High Vatican Decoration

Vatican sources said Wednesday the most likely decoration is the recently created Grand Collar of the Pian Order. It is the highest rank of the Pian Order, which itself is the third highest of all papal decorations. The decoration was created in February 1958, by the late Pope Pius XII for the express purpose of decorating heads of state.

There are more than 100 islands in the Shetlands and only about a quarter of these are inhabited.

Invitation Accepted

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan accepted an invitation to visit Italy early next spring.

Charles Della Is Reelected To Labor Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles A. Della of Anne Arundel County, Md., Wednesday defeated James E. Patterson, Timonium, Md., to win reelection as secretary-treasurer of the Maryland-District of Columbia AFL-CIO.

All other officers were reelected to two-year terms without opposition. Patterson, in confirming his defeat by Della, did not disclose the vote.

Reelected without opposition were President W. F. Strong, Silver Spring, Md., First Vice President C. B. Windsor, Glen Burnie, Md., and Second Vice President J. C. Turner, Washington.

Patterson, who has held the post previously, said before the vote tabulation that he expected the race to be a close one. Both he and Della are members of Steelworkers Local 2609, Baltimore.

Earlier, it had been expected that the result of the Della-Patterson race would not be announced until resumption of the convention's business sessions Thursday.

In other activities, the convention was told by an electrical workers union official that union leaders generally are failing to get their messages across to rank and file union members.

Benjamin Segal, educational director of the International Union of Electrical Workers, said many union members accept what he described as "the propaganda of business that all unions are corrupt."

Segal said there is considerably more corruption in business than in the union movement.

Salute

WNTA's "The Play of the Week" is now in its eighth week and it has had an astonishing record of excellence. Week in, week out, for those of us who have more than twelve-year-old minds, WNTA has been coming up with marvellous productions of adult plays.

Just last week, it was the Irish Players lighting up the screen with the exuberant and moonlit poetry of Paul Vincent Carroll's "The White Steed." It's been a long time since the pure delights of language have resounded out of the TV screen. "I have been born out of warriors, poets, saints, and heroes; am I to bear children to a servant?" cries Nora. When have you heard language like that — or more importantly—thoughts like that, even on Broadway which has been so largely dedicated to junk since "The White Steed" was a commercial success there in 1939.

This is the play about clerical Fascism in Ireland. There is a good old priest supplanted by the bad new zealot who starts vigilance committees and he's "down with the drink, down with the dancin', down with lovemakin', a solid Catholic nation for a Holy Catholic people, and a dig at the wee handful of Protestants in every line." Father Shaughnessy, played by Tim O'Connor, raises the very devil with the parish "making raving wolves out of my harmless sheep."

It's a raging, passionate, lyrical play with a heroine who is full of heart and large utterance and Irish vehemence. Of course, it takes a miracle to straighten matters out and you get the feeling that the Irish playwrights lean rather heavily on Divine intervention to get them out of their dramatic predicaments. Nevertheless and nothwithstanding, "The White Steed" has got both guts and poetry, two ingredents grievously absent from our theater for about twenty years.

The characters—the gentle old Canon, the unbending young priest, the Irish girl, the cowardly schoolmaster, the steely Inspector—are all drawn with bold, true, single strokes like Diego Rivera's peasants. The cast put it on with only ten days rehearsal and though they blew a line here and there, they were truly marvellous. Frank Conroy was the Canon, once played by Barry Fitzgerald; Helena Carroll, the playwright's daughter, was Nora (and marvellous she was); Neal Fitzgerald played her father with linear single-minded majesty; Lester Rawlins was a ramrod as Inspector Toomey; Dennis Dillon was very human as the wavering schoolmaster; and Tim O'Connor a flame of rampant clericalism as Father Shaughnessy.

The week before "The Play of the Week" was "The Waltz of the Toreadors" by Jean Anouilh and here the mood was deliciously French and the tone one of baroque irony. This is the delightful tale of the General who avoided consummating his great love for seventeen years when, alas, it was too late. It's full of lovely lines. I find written on my notes such fragments as — the General to his secretary: "You were put in my hands by Father Ambrose who vouched for your morality and your handwriting." Or the wife in despair to the General: "Why don't you bite me all over like a young terrier." "I lost my teeth, confound it."

This scene between husband and wife in which they bare conjugal infelicity like fangs is a great comic masterpiece full of tragic overtones. Hugh Griffith who originated the role of the General in London played it again here and was superb. His wife was played by one of my favorite actresses—Mildred Natwick. And Dr. Bonfant was played with a sort of malevolent good nature by John Abbott.

The play fits together beautifully—its constancies of humanity and inconstancies of husbands and wives and lovers, coming out exactly on schedule as inevitably as flowers in the spring and, thank the Lord, they let it run its allotted time. The great thing about these fine plays is that they are presented in their entirety, full blooded and full fleshed. Arthur Miller has complained that the recent "Doll's House," cut to an hour and a half on television, drained "half the emotional, philosophical, and human values" out of it.

"Only one thing is lost by digesting great works," said Mr. Miller, "and it is possibly the main thing, namely the depth of experience one might find in the originals." That "depth of experience" in these uncut works might be the reason they are so emotionally satisfying; they live with you and enrich you and you are missing something in not watching them. You haven't much of an excuse if you live in New York because "Play of the Week" is on 8 to 10 p. m. Mondays to Fridays; 10 to 2 p.m. on Saturday, and 3 to 5 p. m. Sunday. Eventually the plays will be syndicated to what I devoutly hope is a much larger audience.

5 Cities Ask Direct Air Service To Asia

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Five of the nation's largest cities asked the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) Tuesday to give them single-plane service to Hawaii and the Far East.

Detroit, Philadelphia, Chicago, Minneapolis - St. Paul, and Milwaukee made the requests through spokesmen who testified at hearings in the CAB's Trans-Pacific case.

The board ordered the sweeping review of Trans-Pacific air routes at the request of President Eisenhower.

Mayor Louis C. Miriani of Detroit told hearing examiner William J. Madden that Detroit's Wayne County airport was a "futuristic multi-million dollar terminal" able to accommodate one-plane service to Hawaii and the Orient.

A spokesman for Philadelphia, W. Lennig Travis of the Chamber of Commerce, told Madden that direct air service to the Orient would stimulate industrial growth, create jobs, and bolster purchasing power in the greater Philadelphia area.

Tides And Decomposing Whales Wait For No Man

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—So much high-powered thinking, or a reasonable facsimile, allegedly goes on here it's easy to forget that the nation's capital is made up of ordinary people.

And, like ordinary people everywhere, they may have extraordinary problems.

The whale problem was presented by Charles O. Handley Jr., associate curator of mammals at the Smithsonian Institution. His troubles were related in "Torch," a surprisingly gay and chatty house organ of that fine old museum.

"I had a phone call advising of the stranding of a small whale at Fenwick Island, Del.," Handley writes. "Soon after, I put in a call to Fenwick Island for details. The whale had come ashore alive the night of the 5th at the Fenwick Motel.

"Subsequently it attracted large crowds of people, but because of its rising odor, it did not help the business of the motel. Consequently, the manager of the motel contracted a bulldozer to bury the whale at low tide, 4 p. m., on the 7th.

"The description of the whale indicated a rare species, so the motel manager agreed to hold up the burial until 5 p. m. to give me an opportunity to reach the scene.

"I arrived at Fenwick Island at 4:50 p. m. There were several hundred onlookers. The bulldozer had already dug out a hole six or eight feet deep, had rolled the whale in, and was poised ready to cover it with sand.

"The whale was indeed a rare species, 'Ziphius Cavirostris,' so I hastily took measurements and removed the head. I brought the head back to the museum in my car, which as a result may never smell the same again (at least that is my wife's conclusion.)"

One purpose of Dr. Handley's report: He's on a committee that is trying to record the stranding of all whales, porpoises, dolphins and seals on the coasts of North America.

So if you happen on a stranded whale, let him know, but quickly.

To Leave Hospital

BAGHDAD, Iraq. (UPI)—Premier Abdel Karim Kassem will leave the hospital Thursday, it was announced Wednesday. Nation-wide celebrations have been planned for weeks for the occasion. Kassem has been hospitalized since Oct. 7, recovering from bullet wounds he received in an assassination attempt on that date.

Annual Meeting, Party Of Yacht Club Saturday

Plans for the coming season will be formulated and new committees are to be announced at the annual meeting of the Deep Creek Yacht Club, which is to be held Saturday at the Cumberland Country Club.

There will be a luncheon, beginning at noon, followed by a business session.

At 6 o'clock there will be a cocktail party and dinner in the grill room of the club for members and guests.

The new flag officers are Oakley J. Hopkins, Morgantown, W. Va., commodore; Kenton B. Farrell, vice commodore; John E. Geore, rear commodore; John W. McClure, treasurer and Frederick D. Steiding, secretary, all of Cumberland.

John F. Schaidt, Cumberland; Robert E. Lane, Pittsburgh; and Donald C. Hott, Keyser, are the directors.

Valley Road Club Has Yule Party

Music and a skit featured the program at the Christmas party of the Valley Road Homemakers Club yesterday at Central YMCA. Prayer was offered by Mrs. John S. Cook. Mrs. Irene MacDonald read a poem, "These Are Needed," and conducted a brief business session. Routine reports were given by Mrs. Clarence Sweitzer, Mrs. MacDonald and Mrs. Frank Tole. Mrs. Herman Rolly and Mrs. Frank Perdew gave the auditing report.

Mrs. George Kraft installed Mrs. Rufus Nave president for 1960-61. Miss Mary Wise spoke on the Achievement Day program.

The program, under the direction of Mrs. James Ruppert and Mrs. Elsie Brinkman, opened with the group singing, "Angels from the Realms of Glory," with Mrs. Brinkman at the piano and Mrs. Paul Gilford directing. Mrs. Archie Prevatte read "Christmas in Other Lands." The Homemakers Chorus sang two spirituals, "Every Time I See de Spirit" and "Jacob's Ladder" with Mrs. Richard W. Trevaskis at the piano and Mrs. Gilford directing.

A skit, "Christmas Indian Suit," was presented by Mrs. Ruppert, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Brinkman, Mrs. Nave, Mrs. MacDonald and Mrs. Karl Bachman. Two solos, "All I Want for Christmas," and "Silver Bells" were sung by Mrs. Gilford. The program closed with the group singing "Deck the Hall" and "Jingle Bells." Santa, portrayed by Mrs. Cook, distributed jingle gifts. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Bachman, Mrs. J. W. Wilkinson and Mrs. Charles Heller. Forty members and 17 visitors attended.

Westernport Man Assigned To Korea

WESTERNPORT—Clyde Broadwater of 328 Spruce Street, Westernport, has completed his basic training at Fort Knox, Ky., and was flown from Pittsburgh, Pa., to San Francisco, Cal., where he will board a plane for Korea.

He is a graduate of Bruce High School and is married to the former Hope Hopkins of Luke who will reside with her parents in his absence.

To Aid Mental Patients

Mrs. Milton Bernstein, chairman of mental health for the Woman's Civic Club, asked members to contribute articles for the Christmas project, and bring them to the club house, Washington Street. She suggests toilet articles and small luxury items for either men or women. Cash donations will be used to purchase additional gifts.

UNUSUAL INTEREST—Mrs. Elsie Blair, Hopwood, Pa., and Mrs. Paul White, Wellsburg, W. Va., are examining a Kentucky flintlock musket, while surrounded with art objects brought here for the first antique show, to be held today, tomorrow and Saturday from 1 until 10 p. m., in SS. Peter and Paul parish hall, Fayette Street. Mr. and Mrs. J. Donald Stillwagon are show managers, with 11 antique dealers participating.

Church Party Sponsored By WSCS

The annual Christmas party of the WSCS of Mapleside Methodist Church, for all families of the church, will be held tomorrow evening at 7:30. The Senior Methodist Youth Fellowship, assisted by the Junior MYF, will have the devotionals and entertainment.

Taking part in the devotionals are Raymond and Cheryl Mull, Robert Taylor, Anne Bryant, Barbara Linn, Jane Dyche, Sandra and Sonia Wolford, Sue Bryant, Linda and Louise Hare, Donna Perry and Patricia Hoffman. A silver "Love" offering, instead of jingle gifts, will be sent to Margaret Whitfield, missionary in Africa, sponsored by the society.

Paul Hendrickson is to be guest soloist. The entertainment includes piano selections by Sherry and Brenda Proudfoot, Randi Reynolds, Lindajean Dicken and Bonnie Lewis; violin by Patricia Dentinger; accordion, Diana Dom; trumpet, Paul Dicken; several selections by a group composed of Mary Lou Hinds, Patricia Rice, Randi Reynolds, clarinets; Janis Shobe, Charles Burcaw, flutes; Edgar Kolb, and Paul Dicken, trumpets. Cheryl Fisher will sing a solo and recitations will be given by Brenda Proudfoot, Randi Reynolds and Patricia Dentinger.

Secret sisters will be revealed and refreshments served. The Junior MYF will exchange gifts. Hostesses are Mrs. Emma Collins, Mrs. Sarah Davis, Mrs. Mertie Smith, Mrs. Ethel Fletcher, Mrs. Clara Crawford, Mrs. Thelma Weaver, Mrs. Alice Burcaw and Mrs. Jean Dicken.

Social Chart

Cumberland Chapter AAUW has cancelled the Christmas party scheduled for December 9 at the Woman's Civic Club house.

Cumberland Assembly of Rainbow Girls will meet Saturday at 7 instead of the following week. All are to wear evening dress, for initiations.

OES To Elect

McKinley Chapter 12, Order of the Eastern Star, will elect officers at the meeting tomorrow evening at 8 at the temple. Mrs. Rosalie C. Shobe and Lawrence L. Grim will preside.

A social hour and refreshments will be under the direction of Mrs. Mary Settle, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Virginia Shircliff, Mrs. Eleanor Snyder, Mrs. Mouncey Smoak, Mrs. Gladys Whalley, Mrs. Laura D. Knoche, Mrs. Bernadette Williams, Mrs. Mildred Hite and Miss Gerardine Pritchard.

Concluding the meeting a soup and bake sale will be held. Orders for soup may be placed with Mrs. Roy Ringler, by calling PA 4-0946 before Friday morning.

Irma Lee Named District Americanism Chairman

Appointment of Mrs. Irma Lee as district Americanism chairman was made at the meeting of Chilcott-Cresap Chapter 209, American Legion Auxiliary Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Edgar Hounshell, Cresap Park. The appointment was made by the state president, who was elected at the convention last summer.

Plans were made for a group to attend the Mountain District meeting in February.

The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Lee. Donations were sent to the "gift shop" at Perry Point; and also for the veterans Christmas party at the hospital. The auxiliary discussed investigating families for food baskets and clothing for the needy. A report on enrolling four more members, making the membership 15 was given and each reported on her community service. It was decided to hold the next meeting January 5 at the home of Mrs. Anna Lee Cecil, Cresaptown.

A Christmas party concluded the meeting. Jingle gifts were exchanged and refreshments were served. A Christmas tree with Nativity scene, and red and green streamers were used in the decorations. The same motif was repeated in the table appointments and Christmas centerpiece.

Others attending were Mrs. Myrtle Hill, Mrs. Aloma Hill, Mrs. Rose Faulkner, Mrs. Elma Boor, Mrs. Rose Kane, Mrs. Cecil, Mrs. Annie Walsh and Mrs. Nellie McKenzie.

William Edward Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Miller, Bedford Road, is a patient in Sacred Heart Hospital since last week.

East Side Club Party To Be Dec. 8

The Christmas celebration and January meeting were discussed at the meeting of the East Side Homemakers Club Tuesday in the social room of Melvin Methodist Church. Mrs. Lawrence Miller presided and appointed an auditing committee. It consists of Mrs. Roy Hinkle, Mrs. Miller, and Mrs. Herman Curry. It is to report at the January meeting.

A Christmas party will be held at Nave's Dining Room December 8 at 6 p.m., followed by a short program and exchanging of jingle gifts.

Following the recitation of the collect, the group sang, "Angels from the Realms of Glory," and "Deck the Hall," with Mrs. Thomas Buser at the piano. Routine reports were given by Mrs. Buser, Mrs. Stanley Morris, and Mrs. Earl Smith reported cards sent to two sick members.

Mrs. Clarence Stewart is to be installed as president at the meeting January 5; and Mrs. Daniel Klavuhn, treasurer. The place of the meeting will be decided later. Refreshments were served.

Others present were Mrs. Clare Flora, Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. John Aaron, Mrs. Joseph Goodyear, Mrs. Klavuhn, Mrs. Nettie Dicken and Mrs. Orville Fier.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Smith, Washington, and Mrs. Dorothy Israel, New York, have returned to their homes after visiting their mother, Mrs. William Heavner, 206 Thomas Street, for Thanksgiving.

Public Speaking Course Inaugurated By Xi Nu

Announcement of the annual "Cruise Ball" and inauguration of a public speaking course were made at the meetnig of Xi Nu Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, conducted by Mrs. Sara Rank at the home of Mrs. Jan Wright, Bowling Green.

May 14 has been set for the "Cruise Ball," sponsored by the BSP City Council. It will be held at the Cumberland Country Club.

Mrs. Florence Snelson reported it was decided to conduct a public speaking course for the year's program. She asked that each member be ready to give a two-minute speech on the topic of her choice at the January meeting.

Xi Nu and Lambda Chapters will hold a Christmas party for members December 8. It will be at the home of Mrs. Snelson in Midland, beginning at 8 p.m. with cocktails and a buffet supper. A report on the bake sale was given by Mrs. Jean Green. Members were asked to make returns on the sale of tickets for the antique sale being held at SS. Peter and Paul's hall today, tomorrow and Saturday.

For the cultural program each member was given a list of 15 questions on self-analysis.

Others present were Mrs. Betty Reed, Mrs. Mildred Blades and Mrs. Dorthea Hare and Mrs. Norma Emerick, cohostess.

East Side Club Party To Be Dec. 8

The Christmas celebration and January meeting were discussed at the meeting of the East Side Homemakers Club Tuesday in the social room of Melvin Methodist Church. Mrs. Lawrence Miller presided and appointed an auditing committee. It consists of Mrs. Roy Hinkle, Mrs. Miller, and Mrs. Herman Curry. It is to report at the January meeting.

A Christmas party will be held at Nave's Dining Room December 8 at 6 p.m., followed by a short program and exchanging of jingle gifts.

Following the recitation of the collect, the group sang, "Angels from the Realms of Glory," and "Deck the Hall," with Mrs. Thomas Buser at the piano. Routine reports were given by Mrs. Buser, Mrs. Stanley Morris, and Mrs. Earl Smith reported cards sent to two sick members.

Mrs. Clarence Stewart is to be installed as president at the meeting January 5; and Mrs. Daniel Klavuhn, treasurer. The place of the meeting will be decided later. Refreshments were served.

Others present were Mrs. Clare Flora, Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. John Aaron, Mrs. Joseph Goodyear, Mrs. Klavuhn, Mrs. Nettie Dicken and Mrs. Orville Fier.

Public Speaking Course Inaugurated By Xi Nu

Announcement of the annual "Cruise Ball" and inauguration of a public speaking course were made at the meetnig of Xi Nu Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, conducted by Mrs. Sara Rank at the home of Mrs. Jan Wright, Bowling Green.

May 14 has been set for the "Cruise Ball," sponsored by the BSP City Council. It will be held at the Cumberland Country Club.

Mrs. Florence Snelson reported it was decided to conduct a public speaking course for the year's program. She asked that each member be ready to give a two-minute speech on the topic of her choice at the January meeting.

Xi Nu and Lambda Chapters will hold a Christmas party for members December 8. It will be at the home of Mrs. Snelson in Midland, beginning at 8 p.m. with cocktails and a buffet supper. A report on the bake sale was given by Mrs. Jean Green. Members were asked to make returns on the sale of tickets for the antique sale being held at SS. Peter and Paul's hall today, tomorrow and Saturday.

For the cultural program each member was given a list of 15 questions on self-analysis.

Others present were Mrs. Betty Reed, Mrs. Mildred Blades and Mrs. Dorthea Hare and Mrs. Norma Emerick, cohostess.

Women Wrote Many Of Most Popular Hymns

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK (UPI)—Many of the world's most popular hymns have come from the pens of women, one of whom wrote more than 8,000 religious poems.

Among the best known hymn lyrics written by women are "Nearer, My God, To Thee," "When I Read That Sweet Story of Old," "Jesus, Keep Me Near the Cross," "Blessed Assurance," and probably the most famous of them all, "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Tribute is paid to the women who have sung to the world in a book titled "Great Women of the Christian Faith," by Edith Deen, published by Harper & Brothers. It is a volume of biographies of outstanding women through 19 centuries of Christianity, and one entire section is devoted to women hymn writers.

Famous Author Mentioned

The most famous women mentioned are Julia Ward Howe, whose "Battle Hymn of the Republic" still is widely sung, and Harriet Beecher Stowe, who wrote "Still, Still With Thee" as well as one of the most famous books in American history — "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Mirian, the sister, of Moses, is credited with having been one of the first hymn creators. After crossing the Red Sea, she sang with the women of Israel what is believed to be the oldest national anthem, "Sing Ye to the Lord, for He Hath Triumphed Gloriously."

The Old Testament Deborah was celebrated in one of the world's first martial songs.

"Like the singers of earlier times," writes Mrs. Deen, "Christian women of the last two centuries have sung of their joys and sorrows, their aspirations and triumphs, their love and faith."

Many women hymn writers have been closely associated with the church, as choir singers, pianists and organists, or as daughters, wives or sisters of ministers.

Blind Woman Writes

Anne Steele, regarded as one of the foremost Baptist hymn writers, was the daughter of an English pastor. Her best known work was "He Lives, the Great Redeemer Lives."

Christina Rossetti, sister of poet and painter Dante Gabriel Rossetti, wrote prayers as well as poetry and her hymn "God the Father Gives Us Grace" is sung widely.

As the daughter and wife of Presbyterian ministers, Elizabeth Prentiss wrote the well-known "More Love to Thee, O Christ." She also turned out books for children and novels.

It was Fanny Crosby who wrote more than 8,000 religious poems, many of which have been set to music. Among them is "Blessed Assurance." Miss Crosby accomplished this feat despite the fact she was blind from the age of six weeks. Her husband, a church organist, encouraged her in turning out nearly 200 songs a year, including "Jesus is Tenderly Calling Thee Home." She died at the age of 95.

Hire Former Senator

NEW YORK (UPI) — The committee of American Tanker Owners, composed of 14 tanker shipping firms, announced Tuesday it has hired former Sen. Charles E. Potter (R-Mich.) as executive director to represent "the committee's interests before the various government agencies concerned with tanker matters as well as before Congress."

Reds Issue Warning

LONDON (UPI) — Communist China issued its "75th serious warning" to the United States on Tuesday, claiming that an American warship violated Chinese territorial waters Tuesday morning.

There are actually more pyramids in Mexico, built by the Incas and Aztecs, than there are in Egypt.

The South turns out three-fourths of the textiles in the United States.

Give Up Vices, Live To 200, Doctor Says

LONDON (AP) — A 55-year-old woman doctor said Tuesday that people can live to be 200 if they give up smoking, drinking, proteins, starch and sex.

The amazing Soviet-born Dr. Barbara Moore twice in seven days has foot-slogged a tough 110 mile course to prove her physical fitness.

"Life with mastered sex—that's really the vital key to the success of my two marathons," she said in an interview.

"Of course I can't completely ignore sex, but I've mastered it so that there are no abnormal urges."

Asked her view on having children, she replied:

"I could have a baby now, but I prefer to wait until I'm 100.

"My husband knows that I have the body of a woman of 32, the vigor, stamina and endurance of a man of 24."

Her husband is a sculptor, Harry Moore. He is 46.

She said she had devoted many years to studying the secrets of living.

"I live for nature, knowledge, music and speed on a motorcycle," she said.

Dr. Moore said diet has had a lot to do with her strength and energy—which she demonstrated in her two walks.

She covered the 110 miles the second time in 26 hours, 34 minutes. The first march took longer.

Stir 5 IDEAL EGG YOLKS and 3 tbsps. FRANKLIN SUGAR until smooth. Add 3 tbsps. SOUR CREAM, grated rind of ¼ LEMON, 1 tbsp. IDEAL ALMOND or VANILLA EXTRACT, 2½ cups GOLD SEAL FLOUR, add ¼ tsp. IDEAL SALT sift again and add to first mixture. Knead lightly on floured board until smooth and firm enough to roll. Chill, then roll quite thin and cut into 4-inch strips. Cut a gash through center of each strip, pull one end through opening and fry in deep fat 1380 degrees F.) for about 1 minute. Drain. Dust with CONFECTIONER'S SUGAR.

Almond Cookies (Dutch)

Cream ½ cup LOUELLA BUTTER and ½ cup LARD, add ¾ cup GRANULATED SUGAR and ½ cup BROWN SUGAR, and cream mixture well. Add 2 well beaten IDEAL EGGS. Sift 3 cups GOLD SEAL FLOUR, add ½ tsp. IDEAL CINNAMON, ½ tsp. IDEAL NUTMEG, ½ tsp. ARM & HAMMER BAKING SODA. Sift again and add to first mixture. Add ½ cup sliced BLANCHED ALMONDS. Mold into loaf in small pan lined with waxed paper and let stand in cool place overnight. Slice thin and bake for 10-15 minutes at 375 degrees F.

CHRISTMAS BREAD (English)

Combine 1½ cups BOILING WATER, ¾-cup LOUELLA BUTTER, 2 tsps. IDEAL SALT, and ½-cup FRANKLIN SUGAR, and cool to lukewarm. Add 2 FLEISCHMANN YEAST CAKES softened in ¼-cup LUKEWARM WATER, ½-tsp. IDEAL NUTMEG, and 1 tsp. each of IDEAL ALLSPICE and CARAWAY SEEDS. Sift in about 6 cups GOLD SEAL FLOUR. Knead until dough is smooth and satiny and work in 1 cup CURRANTS, ¾-cup IDEAL RAISINS, and ½-cup CHOPPED CITRON. Let dough rise until double in bulk in warm place, punch down and knead again for several minutes. Put dough into 2 buttered loaf pans and let rise until double in bulk. Bake loaves in 400 degrees F. oven for 10 minutes; reduce to 350 degrees F. and bake for 50 minutes longer.

KRINKLES (Norwegian)

Cream ½ pound LOUELLA BUTTER and ½ cup GRANULATED SUGAR. Add 1 cup DARK SYRUP, 1 IDEAL EGG, unbeaten, 1 tsp. IDEAL VANILLA and 2½ cups GOLD SEAL FLOUR sifted with 2 tsps. IDEAL BAKING SODA. Add 1 tsp. IDEAL SALT and 1½ tsps. IDEAL GINGER. Roll dough very thin on lightly floured board. Cut with cookie cutters and bake on greased cookie sheet for 8 minutes at 400 degrees F. Sprinkle with sugar, frosting sugar, and colored sugars. Sprinkle with red and green sugar.

CRUMBLIES (Scotch)

To 1 cup LOUELLA BUTTER, beaten until soft, add 1¾ cups of FRANKLIN BROWN SUGAR, and cream until blended. Then add ¼-tsp. freshly ground IDEAL NUTMEG. Combine, then work in with the hands: 2 cups sifted GOLD SEAL FLOUR, ½-tsp. IDEAL SALT. Roll dough to ½-inch thickness. Cut into 1½-inch squares. Bake on greased cookie sheet at 375 degrees F. for about 20 min. Yields 4 doz.

LEBKUCHEN (Bavarian)

Bring 2 cups light BRER RABBIT BAKING MOLASSES to boiling point, add 2 cups GOLD SEAL FLOUR. Stir until smooth, let stand until cold. Beat well 3 IDEAL EGGS and 2½ cups LIGHT BROWN SUGAR. To this add ¼ cup finely cut CITRON, ¾ cup chopped Almonds, 1 tsp. ARM & HAMMER BAKING SODA, 1 tbsp. HOT WATER, 1 tsp. IDEAL SALT, and grated RIND of 1 LEMON. Work this mixture into cold molasses, then gradually add 4 2/3 cups GOLD SEAL FLOUR. Let stand overnight. Roll out ¼ inch thick, and cut with a knife into pieces 3x1½ inches. Place them 1½ inches apart on greased baking sheets, brush with slightly beaten EGG and decorate with BLANCHED ALMONDS. Bake at 350 degrees F. for 15 minutes.

Christmas Flat Cakes (French)

Cream ½ cup LOUELLA BUTTER or other shortening until soft, add ½ cup SUGAR and beat each addition until light. Add ½ cup IDEAL HONEY and 2 IDEAL EGG YOLKS and beat well. Add ¼ cup MILK and 1 tsp. IDEAL VANILLA. Add 2 cups sifted GOLD SEAL CAKE FLOUR gradually, beating until well blended after each addition. Chill dough until soft enough to handle easily. Roll thin on lightly floured board. Cut into desired shapes. Bake on ungreased baking sheets for 10 minutes at 375 degrees F. Cool and frost white or chocolate icing. Yields 3 doz. small cookies.

LUCIA GINGER SNAPS (Swedish)

Whip 1½ cups HEAVY CREAM, add 2½ cups BROWN SUGAR, 1¼ cups KARO SYRUP, 1 tbsp. IDEAL GINGER, 1 tbsp. grated LEMON RIND, 2 tbsps. ARM & HAMMER BAKING SODA, and stir 10 minutes. Add 9 cups GOLD SEAL FLOUR, work until smooth. Cover, leave in cool place overnight. Turn onto floured baking board, roll out thin. Cut into Santa Claus shapes. Brush with water, bake on greased cookie sheet at 250 degrees F. for 15 minutes. Let cool on cookie sheet.

MERINGUE JAM COOKIES (Russian)

Blend until creamy: ½ cup LOUELLA BUTTER and ½ cup SUGAR. Then beat in 2 IDEAL EGG YOLKS, ½ tsp. IDEAL VANILLA or IDEAL ALMOND EXTRACT, ¼ tsp. grated LEMON RIND, 1 cup sifted GOLD SEAL FLOUR and ½ tsp. IDEAL SALT. Chill dough for several hours. Roll until very thin; cut into oblongs, 1x2 inches. Spread with tart GLENWOOD JAM or JELLY. Cover with MERINGUE made by whipping 1 IDEAL EGG WHITE until stiff, then adding 5 tbsps. SUGAR very slowly, beating constantly. Fold in 1 tsp. IDEAL CINNAMON and 4 tbsps. chopped IDEAL NUT MEATS. Bake on greased cookie sheet at 350 degrees F. for 12 minutes. Yields 3 dozen.

SPECULAUS (Belgian)

Cream 2 tbsps. LOUELLA BUTTER, add ¾ cup BROWN SUGAR and cream again. Sift 2 cups GOLD SEAL FLOUR, and ¼ tsp. IDEAL NUTMEG, ¼ tsp. IDEAL MACE, ½ tsp. IDEAL SALT and sift again. Combine with creamed mixture and form into ball. Cover and set in cool place overnight. Roll dough to ¼-inch thickness on lightly floured board. Cut with cookie molds to santa, star, or desired shapes. Bake on greased cookie sheet at 350 degrees F. for 10-12 minutes. Ice with pink or white frosting.

Women Keep Navy Blimps In Stitches

By BILLY K. McFARLAND

In suburban Litchfield Park, about 200 women cut and stitch huge helium balloons, called enclosing envelopes, which become part of Navy blimps.

The blimps carry radar, function as part of the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD), and patrol the Atlantic offshore approaches day and night.

1,394 Patterns

The women work in a sprawling building at the Goodyear Aircraft plant. To the seamstresses, a blimp is "just 1,394 great big patterns, which we cut and eventually sew together,' said Alabama-born Jean Glover, a veteran worker in the sewing shed.

"Each pattern we are working on now has a number — D-630. "The 'D' stands for dirigible, and the '630' means this is the 630th blimp which has been produced by Goodyear so far.'

Specifications for hiring the women sound like requirements for airlines' stewardesses. The rigors of the work demand that no woman start on the payroll if she is older than 28, more than 5 feet-5 inches tall, or weighs more than 120 pounds.

Like Being A Fighter

"It's like being a prize fighter,' said Geraldean Avis Sullinger, 28, who came to Phoenix from Joplin, Mo. "If you lay off for awhile you have to watch yourself or your weight will zoom up. One girl was off for two and a half months, and her weight went up 40 pounds. She had to come back and work it off.'

The women never see their work in the air. As soon as the envelope is completed, it is inflated with air. Inspectors go inside to look for light-holes which show up in the pitch darkness. When all holes have been patched, the air is vacuum-sucked from the bag. Then it is folded and packed in a box, sent to Akron, Ohio, where it is inflated with helium and tested.

Then the blimp is sent to Lakehurst, N. J., where it makes initial forays over the Atlantic with a long-range, high-powered radar scanner swinging inside the bag. If it is accepted by the Navy, it is manned with about 20 men and put into service for NORAD.

"History is full of stitches in time,' said Miss Sullinger, "but this is a case of a stitch in Arizona giving us more warning time to do something about an air attack from across the Atlantic.'

60-Passenger Rockets Seen

PARIS (UPI)—Soviet scientist Anatoly Blagonravov, a frequent spokesman on Russian space developments, said Tuesday Russia soon might build 60-passenger rockets to fly between continents in 15 minutes.

Blagonravov, head of the technical sciences department of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, said in a copyright interview with the newspaper Paris-Jour that the Russians now had rocket engines powerful enough for such craft.

"Rockets for passengers may be realized in the near future," he said, "because present techniques offer us the means for it."

He said that such rockets would fly from Paris to New York in 15 minutes. He did not speculate on passenger rocket flights into space.

Blagonravov is in Paris with Leonid Sedov, developer of the Soviet satellites and moon-circling capsule, and other Russian scientists on their way home from visits in the United States.

Sedov held a news conference Monday but parried questions on future Soviet plans.

"We prefer to announce results when we have achieved them rather than talk ahead of time about what we are planning to do," he said.

Although this statement seemed to contradict his colleague's interview, both Sedov's and Blagonravov's actions were in keeping with Soviet scientific policy, which permits long-range forecasting but does not make specific predictions on when certain rockets will be launched.

This policy has led Western scientists to believe that the Russians have had as many launching failures as the United States because they do not announce the setbacks.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Some folks are pained by relatives, but I consider them a blessing," says Maj. Pat Aynes, retired Army nurse.

Maj. Aynes — practicin' what she preaches — recently informally adopted an entire Ohio family, her own family had passed away.

"It may sound nutty to those who consider relatives a burden," Maj. Aynes explains, "but take it from me, having no relatives is horrible, not heavenly."

The spunky little veteran of two wars was about to retire from the Army Nurse Corps when cancer robbed her of the last remaining blood relative, her mother.

The year was 1955 and the life that the 50-year-old nurse faced that Christmas Eve was "a life without meaning."

Her long face caught the attention of Lt. Col. Helen Abramoska, director of nursing service at Brook Army Medical Center, Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

Maj. Aynes was "ordered" to spend the holidays with the whole family that needed me." (Counting the latest infant in the Abramoska family, Maj. Aynes figures she now has 42 kissin' kin.)

There was a 90-year-old ailing grandmother. There was a younger woman, who had recently become blind. "But most important," recalls the nurse, "there was an entire family — five sisters, four brothers — willing to accept me as one of the relatives."

"The feeling I experienced was one that I felt many times as a nurse in battle-front positions during two wars.

"It was the kind of feeling a nurse gets when she walks into a room and sees somebody needing help. You get paid for giving help under such circumstances. The pay comes from the expression on the face before you."

She conceded that sometimes the new family has problems that "almost give me a pain in the neck."

"But, you know," she says, "when relatives get to feeling like that, it's usually a sign that they're needing you like they've never needed you before."

Although this statement seemed to contradict his colleague's interview, both Sedov's and Blagonravov's actions were in keeping with Soviet scientific policy, which permits long-range forecasting but does not make specific predictions on when certain rockets will be launched.

This policy has led Western scientists to believe that the Russians have had as many launching failures as the United States because they do not announce the setbacks.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Some folks are pained by relatives, but I consider them a blessing," says Maj. Pat Aynes, retired Army nurse.

Maj. Aynes — practicin' what she preaches — recently informally adopted an entire Ohio family, her own family had passed away.

"It may sound nutty to those who consider relatives a burden," Maj. Aynes explains, "but take it from me, having no relatives is horrible, not heavenly."

The spunky little veteran of two wars was about to retire from the Army Nurse Corps when cancer robbed her of the last remaining blood relative, her mother.

The year was 1955 and the life that the 50-year-old nurse faced that Christmas Eve was "a life without meaning."

Her long face caught the attention of Lt. Col. Helen Abramoska, director of nursing service at Brook Army Medical Center, Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

Maj. Aynes was "ordered" to spend the holidays with the whole family that needed me." (Counting the latest infant in the Abramoska family, Maj. Aynes figures she now has 42 kissin' kin.)

There was a 90-year-old ailing grandmother. There was a younger woman, who had recently become blind. "But most important," recalls the nurse, "there was an entire family — five sisters, four brothers — willing to accept me as one of the relatives."

"The feeling I experienced was one that I felt many times as a nurse in battle-front positions during two wars.

"It was the kind of feeling a nurse gets when she walks into a room and sees somebody needing help. You get paid for giving help under such circumstances The pay comes from the expression on the face before you."

She conceded that sometimes the new family has problems that "almost give me a pain in the neck."

"But, you know," she says, "when relatives get to feeling like that, it's usually a sign that they're needing you like they've never needed you before."

Ex-Soviet Spy Doesn't Regret His Defection

By RAY SHAW

NEW YORK (AP)—Behind the fake glasses and cleverly disguised features is a face the Soviets will not soon forget.

American intelligence sources rate him as the prize Soviet defector, a claim he doesn't deny.

"I saw Soviet communism as few people are permitted to see it—as a diseased body. After this I could not remain," says Peter Deriabin, a spymaster in the Soviet secret police until he defected to the West in 1954.

In his first newspaper interview, Deriabin tells how the life of a Soviet defector, even five years later, is far from one of casual anonymity.

He lives alone under an assumed name in an Eastern city (not New York). His gait and mannerisms have been altered to fit his new character. When he meets someone who knows his true identity, he is disguised, and permits no pictures taken of his face.

To neighbors in his comfortable middle-class apartment building—"a Soviet general would envy my air - conditioning" — Deriabin probably appears as an introverted, scholarly European immigrant. "If they ask, I say I come from Russia through Germany."

He is stocky, of medium height and dresses in plain-cut $65 suits. He is a chain smoker, frequently shows a sense of humor, and displays no outward nervousness because of his shadowy position.

Since his defection, Deriabin has never knowingly come face-to-face with a Soviet agent but once in New York, when he saw the Moiseyev folk dancers he recognized an old friend from the secret police sharing the curtain calls.

When Deriabin walked into U. S. Army headquarters in Vienna and asked for asylum, he was a major with 10 years in the Soviet state apparatus. In Vienna he directed the espionage activities of more than two dozen Soviet agents in Austria and Germany while working under the guise of an ordinary administrative job.

In his mind, trained in police work to photograph details, names and places, he carried top secrets on the workings of the Soviet secret police and intelligence forces. Within two weeks he was in Washington and twice since has appeared before closed congressional committee meetings.

Deriabin says that as early as 1946 he began growing dissatisfied with the Soviet system, but saw little hope of escaping until he received a foreign assignment. "I felt like so many other Russians. We had won the war, but where was the victory"

Today Deriabin supports himself by writings and working on Russian studies. A book on his experiences has just been published. Much of his leisure time is spent perfecting his English and studying American history and government.

He admires Americans but believes their greatest fault is an inability to keep secrets. "You lay all your cards on the table for the Soviets to see," he says.

The future? "I want only to be an American (he expects citizenship next summer), to marry and live in freedom. I hope to enter an American university for study and qualify as a teacher in political science."

Deriabin says he does not regret his defection:

"I am content now. I sleep very well."

Safety Rules For Yule Tree

NEW YORK (UPI)—The International Association of Fire Chiefs made public Tuesday a list of 12 rules to keep the Christmas tree from becoming a fire hazard.

Ninety - two persons died of fire during last year's three - day Christmas weekend, the fire chiefs said.

Their precautionary rules:

1. A small tree can be just as pretty as a big one, and proportionately less dangerous.

2. Keep it outdoors until you're ready to trim it.

3. Don't bring it in until "just before Christmas."

4. Set it up in the coolest part of the house, away from radiators, heaters or fireplaces. Stand it in water.

5. Use fireproof decorations. Use no cotton or paper trimmings unless they are flameproofed.

6. Don't put electric trains, or other electric toys, under the tree or near it.

7. Use electric lights, never candles. Inspect each socket and all wire to make sure lights are in good condition. Discard sets with frayed wiring. Look for UL label, indicating approval by Underwriters' Laboratories Inc., when buying new lights.

8. Provide a switch for the tree lights at some distance from the tree.

9. Don't leave the lights on when you're away from home.

10. Inspect the tree from time to time to see whether needles have started to turn brown near the lights. If they have, move the lights.

11. When needles begin to fall, take the tree down and discard it—outdoors.

12. Discard gift wrappings immediately and safely after presents are opened.

Pension Funds Seen Major Force In Financial Evolution

NEW YORK (AP) — Pension funds in private industry have become a major force in the evolution of a new American capitalism, a report of the Twentieth Century Fund said this week.

Such funds are growing at the rate of over four billion dollars a year and now total nearly 40 billion dollars, Paul P. Harbrecht, S.J., said in the report, entitled "Pension Funds and Economic Power." Their impact on the capital market and their possible influence on corporate control is of first significance, he contends.

Father Harbrecht says new terms are needed to describe new concepts of ownership and private property emerging in this country. He suggests the "paraproprietal" society—meaning the society beyond property.

The Twentieth Century Fund is a nonprofit foundation for scientific research and public education on current economic and social questions.

Father Harbrecht says the pension funds, which cover more than one quarter of the nation's working population, annually buy more stocks than any other major group of buyers. They purchase over a fourth of the total net additions to stocks outstanding, he says, or more shares than the investment companies, personal trusts or all individuals together.

Father Harbrecht predicts the impact of the pension funds is sure to increase since their rate of growth is unlikely to diminish before 1970.

The author, whose report grew out of a thesis he prepared while working for the degree of doctor of the science of law from Columbia University, goes on to say that power, not property ownership, is the organizing principle of the new society.

The type of property interest that gives a man status and influence in the present society derives from the power to control productive wealth, the report says. "Productive wealth has been made the property of institutions and so it is by gaining a position in relation to one of these institutions that a man gains the power and influence over others that control of productive wealth generates."

Father Harbrecht also says that "through the acquisition of stock in corporations for income purposes the financial organizations have begun to gather to themselves the atomized rights of control that have always been attached to shares of stock." He calls the control over property held by the managers of these institutions a "dynamic and powerful force," but notes a tendency among pension fund managers to vote along with the management of the corporation.

The author believes the pension trusts provide a dramatic insight into American social history.

Before the rise of the financial institutions, he says, the corporations distributed the fruits of their industry in the form of the products and services they offered and the wages they paid; but more was wanted. People wanted to share in income producing wealth, and the effect of financial institutions is to distribute this kind of wealth.

"The institutions purchase either shares in the corporations or claims upon their assets. Thus, by participating in the activities of the financial institutions, the people are now becoming sharers in the income-producing powers of capital wealth."

Coal Production Continues Climb

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Bituminous coal production during the second week of November was the third highest of any week this year, according to the U.S. Bureau of Mines.

A report showed that the output for the week ended Nov. 14 was 8,935,000 tons, some 1,200,000 tons above the previous week and nearly 200,000 tons higher than the comparable week of 1958.

The highest production for any week of 1959 was some 9,350,000 tons in the week ended June 20. The second highest output was for the previous week when the figure was some 9,200,000 tons.

Pension Funds Seen Major Force In Financial Evolution

NEW YORK (AP) — Pension funds in private industry have become a major force in the evolution of a new American capitalism, a report of the Twentieth Century Fund said this week.

Such funds are growing at the rate of over four billion dollars a year and now total nearly 40 billion dollars, Paul P. City Seeking Pipe Bids For South End Job

The Department of Streets and Public Property will purchase sewer pipe to relieve a situation in South End.

John J. Long, commissioner of the department, has called for bids for supplying 264 feet of 29-inch by 45-inch elliptical reinforced concrete pipe and 220 feet of 24-inch cylindrical reinforced concrete pipe.

J. Franklin Blaney, city sanitary engineer, said the pipe will be installed to tie in with the main interceptor sewer that goes under the B&O yards in South End.

This will serve parts of Pennsylvania Avenue, Laing Avenue, South Street, Seymour Street and Montreal Avenue.

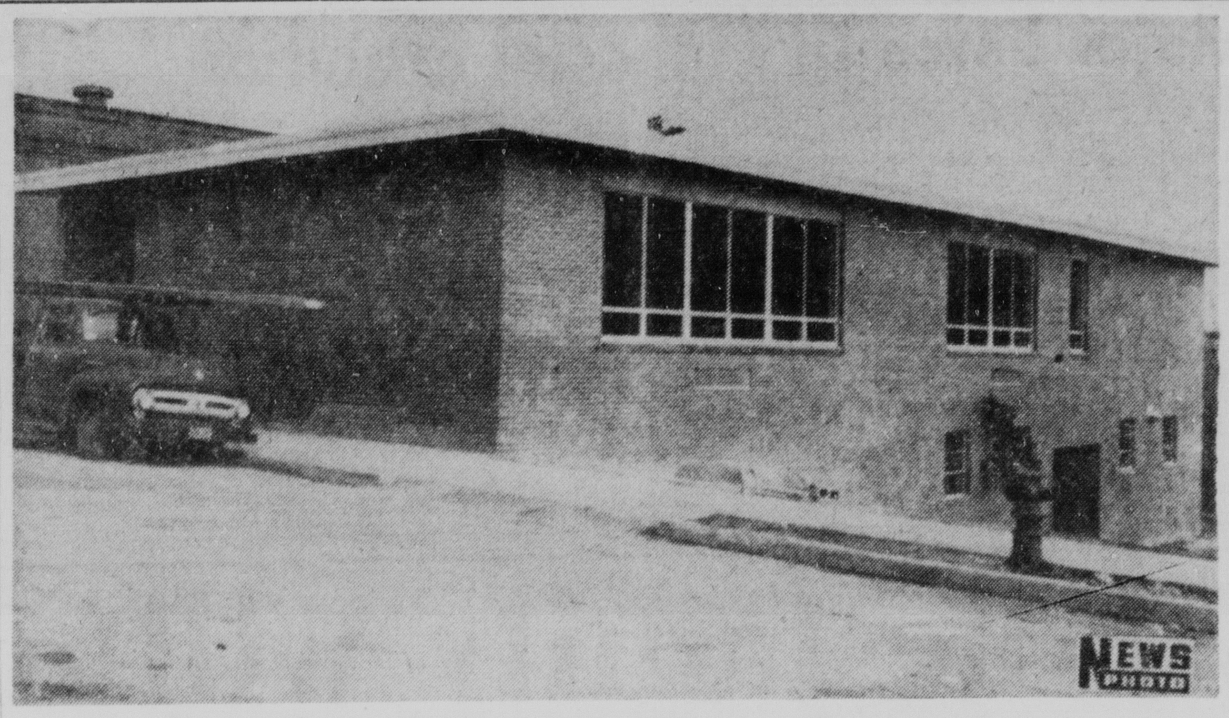
It will relieve a situation where sewers tend to back up in times of extreme use, Blaney explained.

Eventually, sewage from this section will be tied into the sewage treatment plant.

Blaney said he has scheduled a meeting with B&O officials today to discuss the placement of manholes in the area where the interceptor sewer goes under the yards. These will be used to clean out the pipe, he said.

Navy Resumes Search

HONOLULU (UPI)—The Navy resumed search at dawn Wednesday for the four-man crew of an A3D attack bomber missing in the vicinity of Wake Island since Thanksgiving Day. Twenty-four planes and six surface vessels searched a 91,000 square mile area Tuesday without finding any sign of the plane or its crew.



East Side School Addition Progresses

Work on the addition to East Side Elementary School here is progressing satisfactorily. The work is being done by the John I. Vandegrift Construction Company on a low bid of $126,895 submitted to the Allegany County Board of Education on June 24. The addition will include five classrooms, a health room, teachers' room and principal's office.

CUF Health Group Selects Committees

The Health Research and Service Foundation of County United Fund met Tuesday in the board room of the Liberty Trust Company, with Dr. Wylie M. Faw Jr., president, presiding.

The foundation has received a grant of $30,000 from this year's successful CUF drive which has netted a total of $342,000 to date for the 31 health, welfare, youth and community services of County United Fund.

Research: Dr. W. Royce Hodges, chairman; John G. Thomas, Dr. Robert W. McCoy Jr., Robert E. Moore, William A. Hersh, Roy P. Satzer and Dr. James P. Hallinan.

Direct Services: Mrs. George M. Young, chairman; Miss Mary Margaret Smith, Dr. James H. Wolverton Jr., John A. Moberly, Dr. Donald B. Grove, Woodward D. Pealer, and Marvin E. Clark.

Moberly said he Pragel Portable Baby Incubator, which may be used free of charge anywhere in the CUF area, has arrived at Memorial Hospital, where he is administrator. Memorial will outfit and maintain the incubator.

In addition to the incubator, purchases of the foundation include emergency heart equipment for Sacred Heart and Memorial hospitals, and polio vaccine for residents of Mineral County.

It was announced that Dr. Hodges is in Baltimore, working on research grants to be made by the foundation.

Sisters Drown Near Somerset

The tiny ducks flitted so easily across the thin ice. And the girls flitted right after them.

But little as they were, Mitzy Jo and Mandy were heavier than the ducks. They ran out about 15 feet. Then the ice crumbled beneath them.

Sacred Heart Purchases Arterial Bank

Sacred Heart Hospital recently purchased an expensive prosthetic arterial graft bank, which has already proven successful, according to a hospital spokesman.

Officials of the hospital said yesterday this bank is used to replace weakened, diseased and damaged arteries just as blood banks are used to replace blood, and eye cornea banks are used to replace corneas.

The bank is one of the latest advancements in blood vessel surgery, and was used recently by one of the hospital's young vascular surgeons with success.

The operation was performed on a Cumberland man who for six years had leg cramps when walking. He had a section of the main arteries in his legs removed and replaced with a synthetic arterial graft. Officials of the hospital said the results have been excellent and the patient is expected to return to his regular job in the near future.

The bank should prove to be very useful to Cumberland since blood vessel surgery can now be done locally, whereas before patients had to be sent to nearby medical centers.

The hospital announced yesterday that such grafts are used for patients who have suffered gunshot wounds to arteries, arteries damaged in automobile accidents, and arteries that are damaged by the process of aging.

River Flow Above Normal

The last monthly report of stream flow of the Potomac River until after the winter season is over was released yesterday by Arthur A. Vickers, engineer in charge of the local office of the U. S. Geological Survey.

Vickers said that winter conditions will affect the stream flow in this area in the form of storage of ice and snow in the watershed of the river.

The final report, for the month of November, shows the river flow as measured at the Wiley Ford gage was 166 per cent of the 30-year November average. The daily flow averaged 613 million gallons. This varied from 235 million gallons November 21 and 2,191 million gallons on November 29.

Release of water from the Savage River Dam during the month accounted for 6,500,000 gallons of the river flow, or .9 per cent. Total rainfall in Cumberland during the month was 2.63 inches, which was .45 inch above the November average.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: I was popular in college and belonged to the best sorority on campus. My dearest friend lives 350 miles away. We've both been married seven years and have families.

This girl married very well. They have a gorgeous home. (I've seen pictures.) She and her husband have been to this city three times in the past five years, and we always have an evening with them. She has said repeatedly "Please come visit us. We'd love to have you. Our home is yours."

This is the record:

In May of 1957 I wrote that we'd like to come up for a week. She replied they were going to Traverse City, Michigan.

In December of '57 I offered to bring my little family up there for Christmas. She phoned to say they were taking the children to visit their grandparents in Minneapolis.

In June of '58 I suggested we come up for New Years. She wired to say they were just leaving for Europe.

This year I'd love to spend Christmas up there but I'm afraid of another turndown. All her excuses have been legitimate. Shall I try once more? — NO NAME.

DEAR NO NAME: Your friend knows how to get in touch with you. Wait for an invitation—but don't hold your breath.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 9 years old. I am a boy. I read your column every day. I don't have any troubles. I just have one question I would like an answer to. I hope you know the answer.

What does "Lace Curtain Irish" mean? Thank you.—PATRICK.

DEAR PATRICK: Lace curtain Irish are people of Irish descent who have fruit in the house when nobody is sick. You're welcome.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 16 and my boy friend is 18. Ever since I've been dating there has been a rule laid down by my mother—"No boys in the house unless she or my dad is at home." I think this rule is O.K. up to a point, but it is being carried too far.

During the summer it worked out fine. If either mom or dad wasn't at home, Bob and I could sit on the patio or on the front porch. But now that winter is here we will freeze.

I know my mother would blow her top if I sat out in front of the house in Bob's car. The porch and patio are out because of the weather. We are both respectable people and I know we would behave ourselves if we had permission to be alone in the house.

Don't you think my parents should have more faith in me? —A GOOD KID.

DEAR GOOD KID: I'm sure you and your boy friend are "respectable" and would behave if no one was in the house—but it's still a good rule and I am not going to lobby to have it changed.

A boy has a lot more respect for a girl who must abide by rules and regulations. He may complain but inwardly it puts you on a little pedestal. Stay there.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WHITE WALLS: If you suspect her interest hinges on that car, why not leave it in the garage for two weeks and ask her to go on the bus?

CONFIDENTIAL TO IN TROUBLE: Tell your mother before she tells you. The Family Service Bureau can direct you to the help you need. Depend on them.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Save Calories For A Spree!

On a holiday or at a party, would you like to have your cake and eat it, too? Then, train yourself to be a meal-miser, counting calories and hoarding them for special occasions, just as you'd save your pennies for party attire.

Socially speaking, saving calories can save face, too, for the woman who wants to avoid apologizing to an anxious hostess for refusing her calories-laden "specialties of the house." How much easier and less embarrassing it is NOT to call attention to such weighty watters at times like these!

Even stricty-governed low-calorie dieters should be able to hold out at least 250 calories to spend on a piece of cake at a forthcoming party. Maintenance dieters—in fact, every woman who is weight conscious—will recognize the common sense in looking ahead—and paying in advance—for danger zones on the social calendar.

Let's say there is a short-notice invitation to dine out. In just a day or two, an economical meal-miser can miss a couple of pats of butter, skip potatoes, gravy, creamed dishes, exchange leafy for starchy vegetables, deny herself desserts and extra bread, drink fat-free milk — and bank away 500 or more calories for her dinner-date.

When there's more time to prepare . . . . . while planning for a whole holiday season or a two-week vacation . . . a meal-miser can shuck off 5 to 10 pounds in a glow of anticipation for the 5 or 10 pounds she KNOWS she'll gain back. But she'll enjoy the gaining, knowing her calorie-bill (if no other) is paid!

Just remember, even a temporary famine must meet medically-approved standards for basic nutrition. Just eat LESS of everything good and eat NOTHING between meals.

TOMORROW: To Gain Distinction . . .

YOUR DIET AND CALORIE GUIDE — Counting calories? We have just the thing for you! It's your FREE list of calories contained in more than 500 various foods. Write now for your FREE copy. Just send a stamped, return envelope with your request to "Secrets of Charm," c/o this newspaper.

This year I'd love to spend Christmas up there but I'm afraid of another turndown. All her excuses have been legitimate. Shall I try once more? — NO NAME.

DEAR NO NAME: Your friend knows how to get in touch with you. Wait for an invitation—but don't hold your breath.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 9 years old. I am a boy. I read your column every day. I don't have any troubles. I just have one question I would like an answer to. I hope you know the answer.

What does "Lace Curtain Irish" mean? Thank you.—PATRICK.

DEAR PATRICK: Lace curtain Irish are people of Irish descent who have fruit in the house when nobody is sick. You're welcome.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 16 and my boy friend is 18. Ever since I've been dating there has been a rule laid down by my mother—"No boys in the house unless she or my dad is at home." I think this rule is O.K. up to a point, but it is being carried too far.

During the summer it worked out fine. If either mom or dad wasn't at home, Bob and I could sit on the patio or on the front porch. But now that winter is here we will freeze.

I know my mother would blow her top if I sat out in front of the house in Bob's car. The porch and patio are out because of the weather. We are both respectable people and I know we would behave ourselves if we had permission to be alone in the house.

Don't you think my parents should have more faith in me? —A GOOD KID.

DEAR GOOD KID: I'm sure you and your boy friend are "respectable" and would behave if no one was in the house—but it's still a good rule and I am not going to lobby to have it changed.

A boy has a lot more respect for a girl who must abide by rules and regulations. He may complain but inwardly it puts you on a little pedestal. Stay there.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WHITE WALLS: If you suspect her interest hinges on that car, why not leave it in the garage for two weeks and ask her to go on the bus?

CONFIDENTIAL TO IN TROUBLE: Tell your mother before she tells you. The Family Service Bureau can direct you to the help you need. Depend on them.

To learn the booby-traps of teen-age drinking, write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Drinking," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

THE LITTLE WOMAN

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Save Calories For A Spree!

On a holiday or at a party, would you like to have your cake and eat it, too? Then, train yourself to be a meal-miser, counting calories and hoarding them for special occasions, just as you'd save your pennies for party attire.

Socially speaking, saving calories can save face, too, for the woman who wants to avoid apologizing to an anxious hostess for refusing her calories-laden "specialties of the house." How much easier and less embarrassing it is NOT to call attention to such weighty watters at times like these!

Even stricty-governed low-calorie dieters should be able to hold out at least 250 calories to spend on a piece of cake at a forthcoming party. Maintenance dieters—in fact, every woman who is weight conscious—will recognize the common sense in looking ahead—and paying in advance—for danger zones on the social calendar.

Let's say there is a short-notice invitation to dine out. In just a day or two, an economical meal-miser can miss a couple of pats of butter, skip potatoes, gravy, creamed dishes, exchange leafy for starchy vegetables, deny herself desserts and extra bread, drink fat-free milk — and bank away 500 or more calories for her dinner-date.

When there's more time to prepare . . . . . while planning for a whole holiday season or a two-week vacation . . . a meal-miser can shuck off 5 to 10 pounds in a glow of anticipation for the 5 or 10 pounds she KNOWS she'll gain back. But she'll enjoy the gaining, knowing her calorie-bill (if no other) is paid!

Just remember, even a temporary famine must meet medically-approved standards for basic nutrition. Just eat LESS of everything good and eat NOTHING between meals.

TOMORROW: To Gain Distinction . . .

YOUR DIET AND CALORIE GUIDE — Counting calories? We have just the thing for you! It's your FREE list of calories contained in more than 500 various foods. Write now for your FREE copy. Just send a stamped, return envelope with your request to "Secrets of Charm," c/o this newspaper.

Fire Damage To Preston School Set At $100,000

PRESTON, Md. (AP) — Fire ruined a large section of the Preston consolidated high and elementary school buildings early Wednesday and caused all classes to be cancelled.

Superintendent Wilbur S. Hoopengardner said, he hoped that classes may be resumed early next week. He estimated damage at $100,000 to the school attended by 425 pupils.

The fire broke out at 1:45 a. m. The Preston volunteer firemen were putting out another blaze in a chicken house at the time.

They were joined, later by firemen from Federalsburg, Easton, Hurlock and Denton.

The blaze took on new life around 4 a. m. and it was two hours later before it was under control.

The fire evidently broke out under the stage in the auditorium. It destroyed the combination auditorium-gymnasium, a class room and the library.

Water in the basement, where the cafeteria and a class room are located, was six inches deep. Three class rooms on the second floor also were damaged extensively.

Executive Changes Announced By C & P

BALTIMORE (AP) — Three executive headquarters changes were announced Wednesday by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone companies for Washington, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

Twin Boys Born 3½ Days Apart

CAMBRIDGE (AP)—Larry Foxwell, his younger twin brother Lawrence and their 19-year-old mother were doing well Wednesday at Cambridge Maryland Hospital.

Larry, a 5 pound 2 ouncer, was born Monday Nov. 23. Lawrence, 6 pounds 13¼ ounces, didn't arrive until Tuesday night — 8 days and 12 hours after his brother.

The delayed birth of the identical twins left young Mrs. Wayne Foxwell exhausted, the hospital said, but she was otherwise in good condition. She has three other boys, age 1, 2 and 3 years.

The twins were about one month premature.

Dr. Lawrence Maryanov delivered the babies and described it as "really an experience." Medical records list a number of delayed twin births, with an elapse of 10 days or more in some delivery cases.

High Oyster Prices Spur Law Violations

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Those High prices being paid for oysters are causing additional law enforcement problems for Tidewater Fisheries inspectors, TFC Chairman H.C. Byrd said Wednesday.

Because of "tremendous markets that cannot be supplied", Byrd said, some watermen are taking undersized oysters, or less than three inches long.

"Watermen want to catch every oyster they can," Byrd said, to cash in on the high prices.

He said there have been more arrests so far this season than in the past. The department did not have the exact number.

Worker Crushed By Steel Beam

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Roy Jesse, 33, of St. Albans, W. Va., was crushed to death beneath a steel beam Wednesday while working on the Crosstown Boulevard project here.

Jesse, a structural worker, was killed when a wooden platform collapsed and toppled the 16 -ton beam from its framework.

Winds Up China Visit

TOKYO (AP)—Kenzo Matsumura, an influential leader of Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi's Liberal - Democratic party, returned Wednesday from a 50-day visit to Communist China.

He reported there was room for closer cultural and trade ties between Japan and the Red-held mainland.

Blaze Blamed On Youngsters

BALTIMORE (AP) — A fire official Wednesday blamed children for setting a blaze in an abandoned movie theater that extensively damaged the building, brought out 23 pieces of equipment and put a fireman in serious condition.

Battalion Chief John S. Knoerleir of the arson squad said he believed that "mischievous kids started that fire" in the boarded up theater.

Robert E. Severn, 54, was in Mercy Hospital in serious condition as a result of fighting the fire. The hospital said he was felled either by a heart attack or smoke.

Two other firemen received slight injuries.

Nurse Slain; Purse Snatcher Sought

BALTIMORE (AP) — A purse snatcher was sought Wednesday by police for the slaying of a 65-year-old nurse within sight of Union Memorial Hospital.

The victim was Miss Anna Ruth Bentley, who lived less than two blocks from the hospital. She was struck over the head Tuesday night and found unconscious on the sidewalk by Patrolman Gordon Schluderbert.

An emergency operation was performed early Wednesday, but failed to save the woman's life.

Reds Praise Treaty

MOSCOW (AP)—Moscow radio Wednesday praised the new 12-nation Antartica treaty, saying it could set the pattern for wider and more important peace pacts.

Baltimore Acts To Limit Use Of City-Owned Cars

BALTIMORE (AP)—Balimore City will put into effect next month a car pool with strict limitations on use of municipally-owned vehicles.

John W. Valis, chief of the Bureau of Transportation, said officials hope the plan will enable the city to get rid of a number of the 413-car fleet now in use.

Most workers driving assigned cars less than 20 miles daily will have to turn them over to the common pool. This will affect principally those who take the cars home at night and roll up most of their mileage on these daily round trips.

Exceptions to the rule will be employes who need the cars at all hours for emergencies and those whose place of work is near their home, rather than their regular offices.

Last year, the city cars rolled up about 2,743,000 miles at a cost of $319,904.

Forty-two of the 55 highest mountain peaks in the United States are in the state of Colorado.

$30,000 Damage Suit Is Filed In Court Here

William F. May of RD 3, city, through his attorneys, yesterday filed a $30,000 damage suit in Allegany County Circuit Court for injuries sustained on May 6 in an auto-truck accident on Bedford Road.

Defendants in the suit are the Feldstein Iron and Metal Company, city, and Robert R. Warnick of Jennings, operator of the truck for the local firm.

May claims that on May 6 he was driving south on Bedford Road near the intersection of Valentine and Bedford streets.

While driving in the left center lane of traffic used to pass cars going in the same direction, his car collided with and was damaged by the truck owned by the local firm and driven by Warnick, who suddenly attempted to make a left hand turn from the right outside lane of the dual highway into the intersecting Valentine Street, the declaration said.

The plaintiff claims he sustained severe shock to his nervous system, had serious permanent injuries and incurred medical expenses as well as damages to his car.

Paul W. Barnett and Lee C. Barnett Jr. are attorneys for the plaintiff.

Area Democrats Invited To Rallies

Members of the Allegany County Democratic State Central Committee and other party leaders have been invited to four political rallies this month.

On December 11 at 7:30 p. m. a reception and dinner will be held at Indian Springs Country Club, Silver Spring, where the guest speaker will be Senator John F. Kennedy. He will be introduced by Baltimore's Mayor J. Harold Grady. The affair is sponsored by the Western Suburban and Kensington - Wheaton Democratic Clubs of Montgomery County.

Washington County Young Democratic Club is holding its annual Christmas dance at Franklin Court Auditorium in Hagerstown on December 12 from 9 p. m. until midnight with music by the Imperials.

On December 5, the Third District Independent Club's annual stag oyster roast will be held in Lauraville Hall, 2803 Grindon Avenue, Baltimore. On December 6, a dinner-dance will be held at Nolan's Restaurant, 525 South Monroe Street, Baltimore, sponsored by the Morrell 25th Ward Democratic Club.

cessity of any future requests for increases in Blue Cross premiums, which have been raised twice recently.

2. Adopted a proposal to broaden the powers of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin. In addition to anti-pollution recommendations, the commission would be empowered to suggest water conservation measures to the members of the interstate compact — Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia.

Loan Law Change

3. Gave its blessing to a bill to authorize higher interest rates on loans made under the Industrial Finance Act and to raise the maximum which may be lent under the act from $1,500 to $2,500. Under the proposal a 12-month, $1,000 loan could bring $130 in interest and related charges, compared with the present $80 maximum—or an increase of 62.5 per cent.

4. Agreed to foster further study of savings and loan firm operations and adopted a proposal to prohibit such a firm from advertising that it is insured unless it carries federal insurance or commercial insurance by a state-approved company.

5. Accepted a gubernatorial committee's report containing recommendations for minor changes in the law governing the Patuxent Institution for defective delinquents — criminals who are judged mentally or emotionally incapable of avoiding major conflicts with the law.

Stonestreet Funeral

Mr. Stonestreet, who was a native of Grant County was a son of the late Arnold and Charlotte (Hawk) Stonestreet and was a member of the Jordan Run United Brethren Church where a service will be conducted Saturday at 10 a. m.

Rev. Edgar S. Price, Rev. Lawrence Owens and Rev. Leslie Gillian will conduct the service and burial will be in the Maysville Cemetery. The body will be at the Schaeffer Funeral Home, Petersburg, until 1 p. m. today. It will be taken to the home at 4 p. m.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Susan (Heese) Stonestreet, two daughters, Miss Susan A. Stonestreet, a student at Potomac State College, Keyser, and Miss Patricia H. Stonestreet, at home; a brother, Melvin H. Stonestreet, Washington; and two sisters, Mrs. Arthur Rohrbaugh, Keyser, and Mrs. Viola Armentrout, Mouth of Seneca.

The Weatherholtz youth was a son of Homer E. and Martha (Pratt) Weatherholtz, who reside near Kessel.

Surviving, besides his parents, are five sisters, Mrs. Wendell Saville, Kirby; Mrs. Frederick Kuykendall, Petersburg; Mrs. Claude Srout, Purgitsville; Mrs. Junior Funk, Kessel, and Miss Suzella Weatherholtz, at home, and two brothers, Elmer, with the Army in Alabama, and Albert Weatherholtz, with the Army at Fort Ritchie, Md.

Simpson Urges Better Use Of Railroad Cars

Teamwork between users and providers of railroad freight service will be needed to meet the demand for service triggered by the end of the 116-day steel strike, according to Howard E. Simpson, president of the B&O Railroad Company.

In an open letter listing top considerations in evaluating the railroad freight car situation, he pointed out that the supply of freight cars can be greatly improved if railroads will move them faster and shippers and receivers load and unload promptly.

Pledges Cooperation

Mr. Simpson listed nine points in his statement which pledged cooperation in meeting the demand for hopper cars:

The movement of coal is of prime concern to the Baltimore and Ohio, which has more than $300 million invested in fixed plant, locomotives and cars used chiefly for coal traffic—including more than 47,000 hopper cars.

For 26 months the B&O had a surplus of cars for coal—with the sole exception of a few days in June prior to the miners' annual vacation.

Coal tonnage originated by the B&O has fluctuated substantially in recent years. In each year since 1956, traffic has declined, and in the first 10 months of this year average weekly loadings were 3,500 cars less than in 1956.

In the face of decreased national coal production, B&O's ownership of hopper cars is higher now than in 1956 and the carrying capacity is substantially greater.

The work stoppage in the steel industry reduced the B&O's revenues by some $30 million. However, in September, the railroad recalled 625 car repairmen; in October, 614; and in November, 975, a total of 2,214. "As a result of this effort, by the end of this year we will have increased the number of serviceable hopper cars by 3,500 units, and, in addition, 2,500 freight cars of other types," he said.

Rents 1,300 Cars

Due to the urgency of moving iron ore now in ground storage to the steel mills the B&O has secured 1,300 cars from western roads at a rental of $3,700 per day. These cars will release a similar number of cars for the increased movement of coal.

In the last four years, the B&O has spent more than $100 million in the purchase, rebuilding and repair of hopper cars.

The cost of one 70-ton hopper car is over $10,000, or more than twice as much as in 1946. During the same period B&O freight rates on coal have risen 68.8 per cent, Mr. Simpson said.

He also said that because of depressed business conditions generally, and increased competition of other modes of transportation "using tax-built highways and tax-free inland waterways," the traffic and earnings of the railroads have been insufficient to finance all the equipment they might put to work during peak or emergency periods. The gross income of the B&O this year will be $75 million less and the net income $16 million less than in 1956. Estimated rate of return for 1959 is 2.54 per cent.

Pedestrian Cross Walk Is Painted

Police Commissioner Philmore Fleming said the next cross walk to be painted will be at the South Centre-Union Street intersection.

The lines will be painted in for the winter but will be replaced in the spring with white plastic blocks which last about a year.

The female goshawk is much larger than the male and is about two feet in its entire length. The goshawk builds a large nest in trees.

Germany And The Lost Territories

West Germans are in process of being told by their own government that they still must pay a heavy price for having lost the war. They have been warned, in effect, that any hopes of recovering territories east of the Oder-Neisse line from Poland are probably doomed to disappointment.

Negotiations at Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam led to agreement among Germany's enemies to place her eastern provinces of Pomerania and Silesia and the southern part of East Prussia (39,000 square miles or nearly one-fourth of prewar Germany) under Polish administration pending final delimitation of the eastern frontier in a peace settlement.

No peace treaty has yet been written, but 10 million Germans have been displaced from the appropriated German lands which the Poles officially call the Recovered Territories. These territories are rich in coal and other minerals. The captured German fabricating plants, though half destroyed, nearly doubled Poland's industrial potential.

The Bonn government apparently is asserting its legal claim to the territories only as a bargaining resource in future peace negotiations. Franz Thedieck, state secretary of the Ministry for All-German Affairs, said as much when he told the Upper Silesian Association in a recent speech that it should spare itself illusions: when the peace treaty is written it will have to take into reckoning "the guilt of those Germans who sought to introduce a 'new order' in Eastern Europe by suppressing and exterminating other nations in the name of the German people."

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Taft Memorandum

Senator Robert A. Taft was a difficult man to know intimately. He was my friend and I favored his political ambitions. But his memorandum, more like a last testament, which has been discussed for many years but not disclosed publicly until "The Insider's Newsletter" referred to it, was designed to soften the blow of defeat for the managers of his 1952 campaign for the Presidency. This memorandum explains why Taft thought that he had been defeated in 1952.

Bob Taft, after he was defeated, asked his friends to give President Eisenhower their full support. I dined with the Senator after Eisenhower was in the White House. Taft was very anxious that Eisenhower should succeed. He had many doubts and scruples on the subject but requested his friends to give Eisenhower as much support as they had given him. Taft disliked the type of man whom President Eisenhower brought to the White House with him. He told me a few weeks after Eisenhower took office that Sherman Adams had to be countered. Taft was already a dying man at that time.

The memorandum gives the impression that there were no errors in the efforts to win the nomination for Taft. This unfortunately is not quite so and proves that Taft could not recognize the faults of his lieutenants. That in itself was one of his greatest misfortunes. They quarrelled among themselves; they differed on policy; and although Bob Taft was as professional a politician as had ever managed a political party, most of his associates were delightful men but amateurs whom he loved as friends.

Their loyalty was unquestioned but when they came up against tough and ruthless professionals like Thomas E. Dewey and Herbert Brownell, they were helpless. Taft rejected every counsel which involved the slightest deviation from his scruples. He was mortified when he was accused of unethical conduct concerning Texas. Taft was never unethical.

The Eisenhower campaign was organized several years before the 1952 Convention. While Eisenhower was at Columbia University as president and then, in Paris, arranging for NATO, the late Thomas J. Watson and E. T. Weir together with Henry Cabot Lodge and Winthrop Aldrich mobilized the industrialists and bankers of New York to draft General Eisenhower for President.

I knew well and talked to many of the men involved in this campaign. They wanted Taft. They believed in Taft. But they were told by pollsters and others that Taft could not be elected.

I can recall many hours of arguments. How could they know that Taft could not be elected? He had always carried Ohio which was an industrial state in which the unions were all powerful. The industrialists did not want to take a chance. It was the Willkie situation all over again. Nobody really wanted Wendell Willkie whom the industrialists and bankers supported because they believed he could win.

Some of Eisenhower's most ardent public supporters said privately that they knew nothing about him: that they did not believe that he would be an especially competent President; but that he was popular with the masses and that he could be elected. They preferred to risk supporting an uncertain General who could be elected rather than support a known Senator, who had been their friend, but who they believed could not be elected.

Senator Taft's memorandum about the industrialists and bankers is a correct estimate of the role they played. The same people had been seeking a candidate since they put up Alf Landon against Franklin D. Roosevelt. They failed with him. They failed with Wendell Willkie. They failed with Thomas E. Dewey. They felt that they had a sure winner in Eisenhower and they were right.

Taft knew all about this. As a matter of fact, I discussed with him every phase and every operation involved in about two years of pre-convention effort. He came up to my farm in Massachusetts one summer day to go over some of these matters. Concerning one situation he said:

"If that is what I have to do to run for President, I don't want it. I won't do it. I won't do it!"

Robert A. Taft was defeated because he was a man of conscience, of puritanical conscience trying to make his way in an outrageously ruthless play of forces called politics. He failed because of his conscience.

'You Tryin' To Make Me Look Like A Murderer?'

Soviet Propaganda Machine Going Full Blast

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON — It's a good thing for Congressmen and Senators to go abroad to get the feel of the "cold war." For it opens the eyes of the officials in our own government to the "battle for people's minds" which, in some respect, is more important than all the bombs and missiles.

Representative Hale Boggs of Louisiana, Democrat, who is chairman of a subcommittee of the House Ways and Means Committee studying foreign trade matters, has just come back from a lengthy tour abroad, and he is very much impressed by the strength of the Communist propaganda. He said to this correspondent:

"I went to the world-trade organization meeting at Tokyo and then to the underdeveloped countries, taking a look at what we might do to encourage private investment in these areas. But when you get into these things, you get into a lot of other matters. In India, for instance, those people are flooded with slick propaganda not only from Russia and Red China but from each one of the Communist satellite countries.

"It's very clever stuff — it's all about how these nations have made the 'great leap forward' without being exploited by the Communists, and so on. At the same time our people tell me that we've got $130,000,000 in counterpart funds tied up that can't be used for counter-information purposes. I am going to look into this.

"The impact in India of the Communist propaganda is so big because the Communists are doing a tremendous job there. In other countries, too, they apparently are spending as much time and effort and money.

"I went to Baghdad — I believe I was the first member of our Congress to go there since the overthrow of the previous government in Iraq. The Communists are doing a fantastic job there, but the real job is done by internal subversion rather than by propaganda from the outside. They've got almost complete control of the local press, for instance, and it's violently anti-American. The U.S. Information Agency office in Baghdad was seized by the Kassim government when they took power.

"The propaganda line in these countries is something. In every one of these slick-paper publications — whether published in Russia, China, North Vietnam, or North Korea, or in any one of the Eastern European satellite countries — they had inserted in English a copy of Khrushchev's speech as he reached Moscow on his return from the United States and also a copy of his last speech over television before leaving the United States. The number of copies of this thing distributed must have been astronomical to go through all these countries.

"And the whole pitch of the propaganda was that Khrushchev is a great man of peace, that he's the fellow who is calming down the 'warmongers' in the capitalist countries. Also the readers are told not to worry about the Red Chinese — Khrushchev is supposed to be taking care of them, too. That's an interesting propaganda line in India. As for the idea that there is some grave defection between Red China and Russia — I think that's the biggest piece of deceptive propaganda of all."

The views expressed by Representative Boggs may come as a surprise to those Americans who pooh-pooh the Communist menace and who seem to think that the Khrushchev trip to the United States has lessened the intensity of the "cold war" tactics of the Communists. On the contrary, there is every evidence from observing the Soviet propaganda that the Communist idea of world conquest has by no means been dropped and that internal subversion is expected to attain Communist goals.

American propaganda is relatively small in amount. It is limited by Congressional funds and is by no means as extensive as is generally believed in this country. Propaganda costs big money, and the Soviet government regards it to be of such importance that it is willing to hold down the standard of living of the Soviet people in order that billions of rubles may be spent annually to infiltrate the free countries of the world.

BIG ECONOMIC GAINS — Sweeping economic gains throughout the country have caused a dramatic reversal of public opinion on political matters and make a much closer race of next year's presidential election.

A year ago at this time, Republican candidates suffered one of the worst beatings at the polls since the depth of the depression. Democrats made broad gains in the Senate and House of Representives, and in local offices across the land.

At that time, as a result of the elections, political pundits sounded awfully convincing when they predicted the Democrats would win the 1960 Presidential election regardless of what candidate either they or the Republicans put up.

Now, a year later, the picture has changed dramatically. Democratic National Committee Chairman Paul A. Butler admits the trend is toward the Republicans. Of course, he qualifies this by stating that their gains have not been as large as some would believe and that the Democratic Party will still win next year.

GOP National Committee Chairman Thruston Morton, the Republican Senator from Kentucky, is jubilant. He has just returned to Washington from a political swing around the country and claims that a ticket composed of Vice President Richard M. Nixon and New York Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller would be "unbeatable." And Morton makes no distinction as to which man should head the ticket.

The snap-back from the 1957-58 recession is the principal reason for the change of public attitude. Another factor, of course, has been President Eisenhower's stepped-up activity in the field of foreign affairs since the death of John Foster Dulles.

Much can happen in the months ahead. The steel strike and the pending rail strike could send the economy into a tailspin. The forthcoming "summit" meeting of the big power heads could end in failure, intensifying the cold war. Some unexpected occurrence could dim the popularity of the present front-runners in the political race.

But all-in-all, next year's elections are shaping up as a horse race in which either party could capture the White House.

Ike May Find Other Leaders Not Eager To See Thaw In Cold War

By Drew Pearson

ROME—If European and Asian leaders speak as frankly to President Eisenhower as, thus far, the Europeans have to me, he will find far more opposition to his thaw of cold war than he ever dreamed. However, one man who will vigorously support him is President Giovanni Gronchi of Italy.

I talked to President Gronchi in the Quirinal, once the residence of Popes, then of King Victor Emmanuel and, after World War II, the American Embassy. Its high ceilings and stern corridors are a little too formal for an Italian President who lived underground during the war, has taught school, sold neckties, and was a traveling salesman for a paint factory. So he lives in his own home.

Gronchi has friendly blue eyes, white hair, and a ruddy face that doesn't show the 70 years he has spent battling for democracy. When he receives President Eisenhower, he could well thank Ike for appointing an ambassador who elected him President. Obviously Gronchi won't do this, but it was Ambassador Clare Luce's widely known opposition to Gronchi when he was speaker of the Chamber of Deputies that backfired and caused Italian deputies to rebuff American interference by electing a man the U. S. ambassador opposed.

Mrs. Luce had opposed him because Gronchi was "to the left." He still is. He more than fulfilled her fears by proclaiming in his inaugural address a militant policy for helping the working classes.

He still believes the only way to lick Communism is to steal its thunder by winning over the masses. Moreover, he's a militant believer that the President of Italy should be no figurehead. So, practicing what he preaches, in one year he delivered more important speeches than any other European President in a whole term.

In doing so Gronchi hasn't worried about disagreeing with his own government leaders and is in vigorous disagreement with them right now regarding the Eisenhower policy of closer cooperation with Russia.

Similar Differences

The difference between him and Premier Antonio Segni, both leaders of the Christian Democrat Party, is similar to the difference between President Eisenhower and the Goldwater-Bridges wing of the Republican Party. It's also similar to the split running right through Europe on the question of thawing the cold war. On one side Eisenhower and Britain's Macmillan favor the thaw; on the other side France's de Gaulle and West Germany's Adenauer believe such a thaw would be deceptive and dangerous and they want to continue the cold war. Italy's leaders are divided between the two.

Unlike Eisenhower, who would not go to the National Airport to welcome President Gronchi when he arrived in Washington September 30, Gronchi will go to the Rome Airport to welcome Ike. When the two men find some time alone, Ike will learn some interesting things from the former schoolteacher who now heads Catholic Italy.

The U. S. President will learn first of Gronchi's own plans to visit Moscow January 8. Almost immediately after Khrushchev arrived in Washington in September, the President of Italy decided to visit Moscow, even though his decision brought great opposition from within his own Cabinet. The Cabinet finally decided it couldn't stop Gronchi from traveling wherever he wished, but it voted categorically that Khrushchev should not be invited to return Gronchi's visit.

To have Khrushchev visit Rome, the Cabinet decided, would mean thousands of wildly cheering Italian Communists, led by Communist Leader Palmiro Togliatti, lining the streets. Italy has the second largest national Communist party in the world and the Cabinet didn't want to encourage it. Gronchi sincerely disagrees. He believes that, when an exchange of visits with Khrushchev becomes commonplace and relations with Moscow are friendly, all the steam will evaporate from the Communist Party. It would have no reason for being. Many Christian Democrat leaders agree with Gronchi, but certainly Premier Segni doesn't.

Foreign Aid

Gronchi will also tell Ike that Italy is delighted to cooperate in giving aid to underdeveloped countries on an international basis and he'll doubtless diplomatically remind Ike that Foreign Minister Giuseppe Pella proposed exactly this to John Foster Dulles two years ago and got a brush-off.

But, regarding foreign aid on a cooperative basis Gronchi will make an important, perhaps a revolutionary, proposal—namely, that Moscow cooperate too. The only way to cut out risky competition between the USA and the USSR is to get them working together. Instead of competing with each other to build dams and bridges, supply doctors and technicians to Africa and Asia, Gronchi believes, they should pool operations. Since Russian and American scientists are pooling efforts on peacetime atomic energy, radiation, cancer and other dread diseases, they should also cooperate in improving the world.

Gronchi believes the thaw with Russia is already here. It's a fact that we must recognize. Therefore we should use it, not oppose it. Russia has made tremendous headway economically since it quit using force and, with atomic war so catastrophic as to b impossible, we have no choice but to work at peace.

Those sentiments, essentially similar to Eisenhower's, are what Ike will find when he talks to the President of Italy.

The two men will also find something else in common—fishing.

"I like fishing," Gronchi told me, "because it requires the virtue of knowing how to wait. It's a quality fundamental in a political man. I fish a lot."

Gronchi has been fishing in troubled waters ever since, as a young Catholic leader, he bucked the Mussolini regime. He has waited a long time, but his patience paid off.

The Big Snafu

By Leslie Gould

For snafus, the situation in Alleghany Corporation has few to equal it.

A. M. Sonnabend, the Boston hotel and real estate man, finds himself in the uncomfortable position of having to make a decision that he could easily have avoided.

He was offered the board place, but because he talked too much on the wrong intelligence, he finds he either must back down or spend a lot of money—and that maybe futilely. The offer of a directorship has just been withdrawn by the Alleghany management.

Mr. Sonnabend up to this episode had been a reasonably successful operator in the company take-over field. He was strictly a tax loss man. That is, he would get a company with a big tax loss, carry forward and merge it with a profitable business.

His operations haven't been particularly spectacular. He heads up a complex called Botany Industries—formerly the old Botany Mills. He also is president of Hotel Corporation of America—formerly the old Childs restaurant chain. He got into this picture by swapping hotel properties for stock with a listing on the Big Board.

He had never before gotten into the raiding class, like Leopold Silberstein of Penn-Texas and Louis Wolfson.

Then someone sold him a bill of goods on Alleghany Corporation, holding company for a $7½ billion railroad, investment trust and real estate empire. He went for it hook, line and sinker.

He and a "group"—yet to be disclosed by him—began buying Alleghany shares about 2½ months ago through one Stock Exchange firm. He claimed, at the time of his announcement of a proxy fight, the group had 700,000 shares. A spokesman said they would buy additional shares.

The operation had all the characteristics of a stock market raid. Stepped up activity in the stock at rising prices. Tipping around brokerage offices.

Volume on the Stock Exchange had gone from 55,400 shares in the first week in September to 444,400 shares in the week ended November 20. The price had gone from 11 in the week of September 11 to 15⅜ in the week of November 20. After making that high the stock fell to 12¼ last week—this is on strong indications the proxy fight would be called off.

Mr. Sonnabend made several mistakes, but most important was wrong intelligence. He had been told and believed that Allan P. Kirby, Alleghany's chairman and president and long-time partner and financial backer of Robert R. Young, was a pushover. This despite the fact that Mr. Kirby, one of the nation's richest men, held stock, warrants and preferred shares that could with conversions total 13 per cent. Also, Mr. Kirby, despite his mild manners, can be a fighter and also can be very tenacious.

Mr. Sonnabend also was led to believe that he could win the support of Mr. Young's widow, Mrs. Anita O'Keefe Young. David Wallace, who had been hired at Alleghany by Mr. Young and was Mrs. Young's financial adviser, could deliver her support, so Mr. Sonnabend thought. The betting is he could.

Other mistakes were his failure to notify the SEC that he was considering making a proxy fight and failure by him and his group to report their purchases of the Alleghany shares.

This stirred the SEC and brought a crackdown forbidding any statements to the press until he clarified his position.

Then, some of the "investors", who bought stock around the time Mr. Sonnabend was accumulating the shares, began to liquidate their positions. One such was a garment center banker and head of an investment company who sold 90,000 shares.

Mr. Wallace lost his job at Alleghany and Mr. Sonnabend is going to have to wait a long time before he gets on the board—maybe never. But if he had handled himself differently he would have made it without a fight.

Perfectionists Generally Lack Perspective

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

On several occasions I have watched skilled craftsmen working on a home, making a cabinet, or doing masonry or other special jobs. They are careful, meticulous, and conscientious. Time means nothing and they are irritated when a coffee break is mentioned. Onlookers often say "They don't make workers like him any more."

These men strive for perfection and appear to enjoy and get satisfaction from a job well done. They are the delight of employers because of their fidelity to high standards of workmanship.

But are they happy?

The majority are content, especially when allowed to proceed at their own pace and along well established channels. But the obsessional perfectionist is unhappy. He is driven through habit and ideals to meet a high standard of production that only a few are able to attain. As a result he is ridden with anxieties lest he fail, and apprehensive of the future.

Many persons develop an obsessional personality in their search for truth, order, and perfection. They become rigid and inflexible creatures of habit. These characters make life hard for themselves because they resist efforts to change their mode of working or living. They appear to be satisfied with their groove and wish to continue that way.

Their standards are a bit too high for real comfort and happiness. These traits make them conscientious workers but lopsided. They are difficult to change because it means breaking faith with well established moral principles.

If there is a reason for change, more practical aims should be adopted. This can be done without lowering their standards. After all, it is difficult to attain perfection without losing perspective.

LEG ULCER

W. L. writes: For some time my elderly mother has had ulcers on her ankles that will not heal unless she stays off her feet. As soon as she works around the house a bit, they break open. It depresses her to be so incapacitated. Is there any operation that would cure these ulcers permanently?

REPLY

Most leg ulcers are caused by poor circulation or by varicose veins. These disorders must be improved or corrected before the lesions will heal permanently. There are many temporary measures, including medicated elastic bandages and sockings and products that eliminate infection and promote healing when the ulcers are active.

PIGMENT FORMATION

R. C. writes: I understand that if your body lacks pigment you will get white hair. I would like to have a list of foods that contain pigment so I can delay this condition.

REPLY

Pigment for hair and skin is manufactured in the deep layers of the skin and does not come from food. If you are not convinced, try charcoal, which has more pigment than is contained in any food.

WATCH THE WEIGHT

Mrs. M. writes: If diabetes runs in the family, can proper diet from childhood on prevent it?

REPLY

No, but the appearance of the disease may be delayed by remaining slim.

SPECIAL X-RAY

L. W. writes: I'm losing the use of my right arm and hand and the doctor ordered a "laughing boy" X-ray. What the heck is this?

REPLY

Many physicians have pet descriptions for different procedures. I assume you refer to X-ray of the uppermost vertebrae that is taken with the mouth open.

TOMORROW: Use depilatories properly.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

In search of a midnight snack at the kitchen refrigerator (this story comes from G. W. Houdeshel, of York, Pa.), a commuter could find nothing but a dog biscuit. He bit into it tentatively, discovered he liked it, and told his wife to put in a large supply the next morning. The grocer observed, "You don't need so many biscuits for a dog as small as yours." "They're for my husband," she corrected him. "These biscuits are strictly for dogs; they'll kill your husband," grumbled the grocer.

Six months later the wife admitted to the grocer that her husband was dead. "I told you those biscuits would kill him," the grocer reminded her. "It wasn't the biscuits at all," said the wife. "He was killed chasing cars."

At a literary reception, J. C. Furnas asked a Kentucky colonel if he might like a small libation. "Suh," responded the colonel warmly, "I only refused a drink once in my life, and that was when I misunderstood the question."

Germany And The Lost Territories

West Germans are in process of being told by their own government that they still must pay a heavy price for having lost the war. They have been warned, in effect, that any hopes of recovering territories east of the Oder-Neisse line from Poland are probably doomed to disappointment.

Negotiations at Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam led to agreement among Germany's enemies to place her eastern provinces of Pomerania and Silesia and the southern part of East Prussia (39,000 square miles or nearly one-fourth of prewar Germany) under Polish administration pending final delimitation of the eastern frontier in a peace settlement.

No peace treaty has yet been written, but 10 million Germans have been displaced from the appropriated German lands which the Poles officially call the Recovered Territories. These territories are rich in coal and other minerals. The captured German fabricating plants, though half destroyed, nearly doubled Poland's industrial potential.

The Bonn government apparently is asserting its legal claim to the territories only as a bargaining resource in future peace negotiations. Franz Thedieck, state secretary of the Ministry for All-German Affairs, said as much when he told the Upper Silesian Association in a recent speech that it should spare itself illusions: when the peace treaty is written it will have to take into reckoning "the guilt of those Germans who sought to introduce a 'new order' in Eastern Europe by suppressing and exterminating other nations in the name of the German people."

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Taft Memorandum

Senator Robert A. Taft was a difficult man to know intimately. He was my friend and I favored his political ambitions. But his memorandum, more like a last testament, which has been discussed for many years but not disclosed publicly until "The Insider's Newsletter" referred to it, was designed to soften the blow of defeat for the managers of his 1952 campaign for the Presidency. This memorandum explains why Taft thought that he had been defeated in 1952.

Bob Taft, after he was defeated, asked his friends to give President Eisenhower their full support. I dined with the Senator after Eisenhower was in the White House. Taft was very anxious that Eisenhower should succeed. He had many doubts and scruples on the subject but requested his friends to give Eisenhower as much support as they had given him. Taft disliked the type of man whom President Eisenhower brought to the White House with him. He told me a few weeks after Eisenhower took office that Sherman Adams had to be countered. Taft was already a dying man at that time.

The memorandum gives the impression that there were no errors in the efforts to win the nomination for Taft. This unfortunately is not quite so and proves that Taft could not recognize the faults of his lieutenants. That in itself was one of his greatest misfortunes. They quarrelled among themselves; they differed on policy; and although Bob Taft was as professional a politician as had ever managed a political party, most of his associates were delightful men but amateurs whom he loved as friends.

Their loyalty was unquestioned but when they came up against tough and ruthless professionals like Thomas E. Dewey and Herbert Brownell, they were helpless. Taft rejected every counsel which involved the slightest deviation from his scruples. He was mortified when he was accused of unethical conduct concerning Texas. Taft was never unethical.

The Eisenhower campaign was organized several years before the 1952 Convention. While Eisenhower was at Columbia University as president and then, in Paris, arranging for NATO, the late Thomas J. Watson and E. T. Weir together with Henry Cabot Lodge and Winthrop Aldrich mobilized the industrialists and bankers of New York to draft General Eisenhower for President.

I knew well and talked to many of the men involved in this campaign. They wanted Taft. They believed in Taft. But they were told by pollsters and others that Taft could not be elected.

I can recall many hours of arguments. How could they know that Taft could not be elected? He had always carried Ohio which was an industrial state in which the unions were all powerful. The industrialists did not want to take a chance. It was the Willkie situation all over again. Nobody really wanted Wendell Willkie whom the industrialists and bankers supported because they believed he could win.

Some of Eisenhower's most ardent public supporters said privately that they knew nothing about him: that they did not believe that he would be an especially competent President; but that he was popular with the masses and that he could be elected. They preferred to risk supporting an uncertain General who could be elected rather than support a known Senator, who had been their friend, but who they believed could not be elected.

Senator Taft's memorandum about the industrialists and bankers is a correct estimate of the role they played. The same people had been seeking a candidate since they put up Alf Landon against Franklin D. Roosevelt. They failed with him. They failed with Wendell Willkie. They failed with Thomas E. Dewey. They felt that they had a sure winner in Eisenhower and they were right.

Taft knew all about this. As a matter of fact, I discussed with him every phase and every operation involved in about two years of pre-convention effort. He came up to my farm in Massachusetts one summer day to go over some of these matters. Concerning one situation he said:

"If that is what I have to do to run for President, I don't want it. I won't do it. I won't do it!"

Robert A. Taft was defeated because he was a man of conscience, of puritanical conscience trying to make his way in an outrageously ruthless play of forces called politics. He failed because of his conscience.

'You Tryin' To Make Me Look Like A Murderer?'

Soviet Propaganda Machine Going Full Blast

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON — It's a good thing for Congressmen and Senators to go abroad to get the feel of the "cold war." For it opens the eyes of the officials in our own government to the "battle for people's minds" which, in some respect, is more important than all the bombs and missiles.

Representative Hale Boggs of Louisiana, Democrat, who is chairman of a subcommittee of the House Ways and Means Committee studying foreign trade matters, has just come back from a lengthy tour abroad, and he is very much impressed by the strength of the Communist propaganda. He said to this correspondent:

"I went to the world-trade organization meeting at Tokyo and then to the underdeveloped countries, taking a look at what we might do to encourage private investment in these areas. But when you get into these things, you get into a lot of other matters. In India, for instance, those people are flooded with slick propaganda not only from Russia and Red China but from each one of the Communist satellite countries.

"It's very clever stuff — it's all about how these nations have made the 'great leap forward' without being exploited by the Communists, and so on. At the same time our people tell me that we've got $130,000,000 in counterpart funds tied up that can't be used for counter-information purposes. I am going to look into this.

"The impact in India of the Communist propaganda is so big because the Communists are doing a tremendous job there. In other countries, too, they apparently are spending as much time and effort and money.

"I went to Baghdad — I believe I was the first member of our Congress to go there since the overthrow of the previous government in Iraq. The Communists are doing a fantastic job there, but the real job is done by internal subversion rather than by propaganda from the outside. They've got almost complete control of the local press, for instance, and it's violently anti-American. The U.S. Information Agency office in Baghdad was seized by the Kassim government when they took power.

"The propaganda line in these countries is something. In every one of these slick-paper publications — whether published in Russia, China, North Vietnam, or North Korea, or in any one of the Eastern European satellite countries — they had inserted in English a copy of Khrushchev's speech as he reached Moscow on his return from the United States and also a copy of his last speech over television before leaving the United States. The number of copies of this thing distributed must have been astronomical to go through all these countries.

"And the whole pitch of the propaganda was that Khrushchev is a great man of peace, that he's the fellow who is calming down the 'warmongers' in the capitalist countries. Ike May Find Other Leaders Not Eager To See Thaw In Cold War

By Drew Pearson

ROME—If European and Asian leaders speak as frankly to President Eisenhower as, thus far, the Europeans have to me, he will find far more opposition to his thaw of cold war than he ever dreamed. However, one man who will vigorously support him is President Giovanni Gronchi of Italy.

I talked to President Gronchi in the Quirinal, once the residence of Popes, then of King Victor Emmanuel and, after World War II, the American Embassy. Its high ceilings and stern corridors are a little too formal for an Italian President who lived underground during the war, has taught school, sold neckties, and was a traveling salesman for a paint factory. So he lives in his own home.

Gronchi has friendly blue eyes, white hair, and a ruddy face that doesn't show the 70 years he has spent battling for democracy. When he receives President Eisenhower, he could well thank Ike for appointing an ambassador who elected him President. Obviously Gronchi won't do this, but it was Ambassador Clare Luce's widely known opposition to Gronchi when he was speaker of the Chamber of Deputies that backfired and caused Italian deputies to rebuff American interference by electing a man the U. S. ambassador opposed.

Mrs. Luce had opposed him because Gronchi was "to the left." He still is. He more than fulfilled her fears by proclaiming in his inaugural address a militant policy for helping the working classes.

He still believes the only way to lick Communism is to steal its thunder by winning over the masses. Moreover, he's a militant believer that the President of Italy should be no figurehead. So, practicing what he preaches, in one year he delivered more important speeches than any other European President in a whole term.

In doing so Gronchi hasn't worried about disagreeing with his own government leaders and is in vigorous disagreement with them right now regarding the Eisenhower policy of closer cooperation with Russia.

Similar Differences

The difference between him and Premier Antonio Segni, both leaders of the Christian Democrat Party, is similar to the difference between President Eisenhower and the Goldwater-Bridges wing of the Republican Party. It's also similar to the split running right through Europe on the question of thawing the cold war. On one side Eisenhower and Britain's Macmillan favor the thaw; on the other side France's de Gaulle and West Germany's Adenauer believe such a thaw would be deceptive and dangerous and they want to continue the cold war. Italy's leaders are divided between the two.

Unlike Eisenhower, who would not go to the National Airport to welcome President Gronchi when he arrived in Washington September 30, Gronchi will go to the Rome Airport to welcome Ike. When the two men find some time alone, Ike will learn some interesting things from the former schoolteacher who now heads Catholic Italy.

The U. S. President will learn first of Gronchi's own plans to visit Moscow January 8. Almost immediately after Khrushchev arrived in Washington in September, the President of Italy decided to visit Moscow, even though his decision brought great opposition from within his own Cabinet. The Cabinet finally decided it couldn't stop Gronchi from traveling wherever he wished, but it voted categorically that Khrushchev should not be invited to return Gronchi's visit.

To have Khrushchev visit Rome, the Cabinet decided, would mean thousands of wildly cheering Italian Communists, led by Communist Leader Palmiro Togliatti, lining the streets. Italy has the second largest national Communist party in the world and the Cabinet didn't want to encourage it. Gronchi sincerely disagrees. He believes that, when an exchange of visits with Khrushchev becomes commonplace and relations with Moscow are friendly, all the steam will evaporate from the Communist Party. It would have no reason for being. Many Christian Democrat leaders agree with Gronchi, but certainly Premier Segni doesn't.

Foreign Aid

Gronchi will also tell Ike that Italy is delighted to cooperate in giving aid to underdeveloped countries on an international basis and he'll doubtless diplomatically remind Ike that Foreign Minister Giuseppe Pella proposed exactly this to John Foster Dulles two years ago and got a brush-off.

But, regarding foreign aid on a cooperative basis Gronchi will make an important, perhaps a revolutionary, proposal—namely, that Moscow cooperate too. The only way to cut out risky competition between the USA and the USSR is to get them working together. Instead of competing with each other to build dams and bridges, supply doctors and technicians to Africa and Asia, Gronchi believes, they should pool operations. Since Russian and American scientists are pooling efforts on peacetime atomic energy, radiation, cancer and other dread diseases, they should also cooperate in improving the world.

Gronchi believes the thaw with Russia is already here. It's a fact that we must recognize. Therefore we should use it, not oppose it. Russia has made tremendous headway economically since it quit using force and, with atomic war so catastrophic as to b impossible, we have no choice but to work at peace.

Those sentiments, essentially similar to Eisenhower's, are what Ike will find when he talks to the President of Italy.

The two men will also find something else in common—fishing.

"I like fishing," Gronchi told me, "because it requires the virtue of knowing how to wait. It's a quality fundamental in a political man. I fish a lot."

Gronchi has been fishing in troubled waters ever since, as a young Catholic leader, he bucked the Mussolini regime. He has waited a long time, but his patience paid off.

The Big Snafu

By Leslie Gould

For snafus, the situation in Alleghany Corporation has few to equal it.

A. M. Sonnabend, the Boston hotel and real estate man, finds himself in the uncomfortable position of having to make a decision that he could easily have avoided.

He was offered the board place, but because he talked too much on the wrong intelligence, he finds he either must back down or spend a lot of money—and that maybe futilely. The offer of a directorship has just been withdrawn by the Alleghany management.

Mr. Sonnabend up to this episode had been a reasonably successful operator in the company take-over field. He was strictly a tax loss man. That is, he would get a company with a big tax loss, carry forward and merge it with a profitable business.

His operations haven't been particularly spectacular. He heads up a complex called Botany Industries—formerly the old Botany Mills. He also is president of Hotel Corporation of America—formerly the old Childs restaurant chain. He got into this picture by swapping hotel properties for stock with a listing on the Big Board.

He had never before gotten into the raiding class, like Leopold Silberstein of Penn-Texas and Louis Wolfson.

Then someone sold him a bill of goods on Alleghany Corporation, holding company for a $7½ billion railroad, investment trust and real estate empire. He went for it hook, line and sinker.

He and a "group"—yet to be disclosed by him—began buying Alleghany shares about 2½ months ago through one Stock Exchange firm. He claimed, at the time of his announcement of a proxy fight, the group had 700,000 shares. A spokesman said they would buy additional shares.

The operation had all the characteristics of a stock market raid. Stepped up activity in the stock at rising prices. Tipping around brokerage offices.

Volume on the Stock Exchange had gone from 55,400 shares in the first week in September to 444,400 shares in the week ended November 20. The price had gone from 11 in the week of September 11 to 15⅜ in the week of November 20. After making that high the stock fell to 12¼ last week—this is on strong indications the proxy fight would be called off.

Mr. Sonnabend made several mistakes, but most important was wrong intelligence. He had been told and believed that Allan P. Kirby, Alleghany's chairman and president and long-time partner and financial backer of Robert R. Young, was a pushover. This despite the fact that Mr. Kirby, one of the nation's richest men, held stock, warrants and preferred shares that could with conversions total 13 per cent. Also, Mr. Kirby, despite his mild manners, can be a fighter and also can be very tenacious.

Mr. Sonnabend also was led to believe that he could win the support of Mr. Young's widow, Mrs. Anita O'Keefe Young. David Wallace, who had been hired at Alleghany by Mr. Young and was Mrs. Young's financial adviser, could deliver her support, so Mr. Sonnabend thought. The betting is he could.

Other mistakes were his failure to notify the SEC that he was considering making a proxy fight and failure by him and his group to report their purchases of the Alleghany shares.

This stirred the SEC and brought a crackdown forbidding any statements to the press until he clarified his position.

Then, some of the "investors", who bought stock around the time Mr. Sonnabend was accumulating the shares, began to liquidate their positions. One such was a garment center banker and head of an investment company who sold 90,000 shares.

Mr. Wallace lost his job at Alleghany and Mr. Sonnabend is going to have to wait a long time before he gets on the board—maybe never. But if he had handled himself differently he would have made it without a fight.

Work Started On Third City Housing Project

After a long delay, the third housing project of the Cumberland Housing Authority was started Tuesday.

Workmen of the George Construction Company moved onto the site on Oldtown Road between the Maryland-Virginia Avenue intersection and Wineow Street subway in preparation for clearing the large tract.

An official of the George firm said that excavation for the concrete footers will be made and that work on the project will proceed as long as the weather remains favorable. The George firm's bid of $975,375 was accepted some weeks ago.

The housing project will consist of 12 buildings which will provide quarters for 80 families. The apartments will be in varied sizes to care for families of low income groups.

Officials of the Housing Authority said the delays of several years resulted when Congress passed legislation pertaining to the number of projects which could be started each year, acquisition of dwellings and business establishments on the site and finally the necessity of awaiting State Roads Commission clearance on the route which the Industrial Boulevard would follow. The boulevard, particularly the overhead bridge crossing the B & O Railroad tracks nearby, is part of the Thruway project.

No name has been decided upon for the housing project. The first project, Jane Frazier Village, was named after a pioneer woman who was captured by the Indians in the early 1700s. The second project, named Benjamin Banneker Homes, was named for a noted Negro leader.

Ceremony Delayed

County Board Receives $1,301 In Interest

Commissioner John T. Mason reported to the County Board of Commissioners Tuesday that another instalment on the interest on government securities has been received.

The interest on $100,000 in U. S. Treasury notes which matured as of November 27 totaled $1,301.72. Mason said that $6.724 has been realized on the investment program so far.

Zone Board Meets Today

Three cases will be heard by the Board of Zoning Appeals today at 8 p.m. in the City Hall.

One concerns the application of Charles E. Brode, 555 Greene Street, who wants to occupy 18 South Lee Street with a furniture repair and re-upholstering shop.

The building is situated in a Residential B district and was formerly occupied by a grocery store. It is owned by Bertram Lazarus.

Another application turned down by the city engineer due to conflict in the zoning code was the one by Charles F. Burkett, 146 Frederick Street, to occupy a lot at 819 Frederick Street to sell Christmas trees. The lot is owned by the applicant.

Dr. Carlton Brinsfield, 1825 Bedford Street, has applied to occupy 610 Memorial Avenue as physician's office. This building is situated in a Residential B District and was formerly occupied as a dwelling. It is owned by W. J. Dixon.

Junks Captured

MACAO (UPI) — Communist Chinese gunboats captured another four fishing junks from Macao Tuesday and took their crews in for interrogation. Fourteen junks were seized last week in the Pearl River delta, which the Reds have closed to Macao's fishermen.

Harry R. Pauley Enters W.Va. Gubernatoral Race

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—House of Delegates Speaker Harry R. Pauley of Iaeger officially filed Wednesday for the Democratic nomination for governor in next May's primary elections.

Pauley said he was motivated by "present day conditions which have bitten into my conscience and brought the realization that this is not the time for the gratification of vain ambition and personal pride."

"It is time for statesmanship, wisdom, and the understanding of the problems and conditions of all citizens, and an honest, intelligent, unselfish effort to bring order out of near choas, if our people are to be saved from the fate toward which they are gradually being pressed," he said.

Pauley, 52, became the third person to enter the Democratic race. State Democratic Chairman Hulett C. Smith, Beckley, has filed and Atty. Gen. W. W. Barron has announced but has not formally filed yet.

A Iaeger, McDowell County, realtor, banker and coal operator, Pauley was elected speaker of the House June 23, 1958, succeeding the late W. E. Flannery of Mann. He was re-elected at the opening of the 54th Legislature last January.

He was elected to his seventh term in the House in November of last year.

A native of Keystone, McDowell County, Pauley is married to the former Jessie Lambert of Grundy, Va. They have one married daughter.

There may be still others to enter the Democratic race, the most likely State Senate President Ralph Bean of Moorefield.

Revival Services Are Well Attended

FROSTBURG — The revival meetings presently being conducted at Trinity Assembly of God Church in Midlothian are keynoted each evening with interest and response in the fine audiences.

Rev. David Bowen, Riverside, Pa., evangelist, is preaching tonight on the theme, "The Lamb Upon Which the Lord's Lot Fell."

Tomorrow night his message will be of interest to all, but especially the youth. Rev. Bowen's youngest son, Alan, who is 12 years old will bring a brief message to the congregation. This young boy has shown a talent for preaching in the last four years. Following the message by Alan, Rev. Bowen will give his "Life Story."

City Manager Promises Wheeling Vice Probe

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI)—A report by Wheeling city manager James C. Boyd on an investigation of vice and corruption here has been promised soon.

He is looking into allegations by local ministers that the city is a hotbed of vice.

One charge leveled by the ministers in Sunday sermons was that some members of the police department may be receiving payoffs to overlook illegal operations. Boyd told newsmen he felt the ministers had been given some "false information" along this line.

Tuesday night Boyd told city council he was looking into the situation.

Two of the ministers who were critical of law enforcement accepted authorities' requests to disclose what they knew about instances of vice. They are the Rev. J. Davis Illingsworth and Donald G. Spurlock, who made two of the strongest sermons.

It was not disclosed what they told Boyd or other officials.

Spurlock inferred in his sermon that State Police also were turning their heads to illegal operations.

The Wheeling News-Register said Wednesday a "tip" was circulating around the city to the effect that State Police raids were in the offing and that, as a result, slot machines and liquor were being removed from various establishments.

Medical Patient

Ellerslie PTA Gets Health Talk

ELLERSLIE — The Parent-Teacher Association met a recent evening with John Sides the president in charge. Approximately 32 members were present. The room award for having the most parents present was won by Miss Mary Straw's room three.

Mrs. Genevieve Twigg, finance chairman reported that over $100 was realized from the rummage and bake sales.

Miss Mary Straw played the tape recorder that the PTA recently purchased. The sixth grade presented a play on the recorder.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Gladys Dyer, program chairman presented Mrs. Rosenmerkle who gave a talk on the "Health Clinics" and a film "Community Health" was shown. Refreshments were served by the mothers of grades one and two.

W.Va. Schools May Lose $409,355 In State Aid Next Year

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The possibility loomed Tuesday that the 1959-60 state aid to schools may have to be cut because of an anticipated shortage of at least $409,355 in the general school fund.

The State Board of School Finance told Gov. Cecil H. Underwood of the deficit brought to light in the 1960-61 proposed budget document prepared by State Finance Director Henry L. Ash.

Chairman R. Virgil Rohrbough, state superintendent of schools, said the governor and the board discussed the situation pending a further study of estimated revenues and expenditures.

Rohrbough said the source of the difficulty was not clear and that the estimated deficit could be wiped out by the end of the fiscal year.

One of the questions raised was the accuracy of the $5,744,240 allocation to the school fund made by the state auditor's office last June. That amount includes an estimated $325,000 from fines to be collected at the local level this fiscal year.

However, the auditor's office noted recently that the collection of fines was far below estimates. This reduction apparently is the result of a 1959 legislative enactment which permitted the counties to subtract from fines due the state whatever they need to operate their jails.

Under the constitution, the counties must remit to the state for the operation of schools all net proceeds taken in fines. The 1959 Legislature defined "net proceeds" as all money remaining after county jail expenses are deducted.

A spokesman for the auditor's office has suggested that the 1959 enactment may be unconstitutional.

Ash had estimated that receipts in the general school fund this year would be $6,978,913, more than $400,000 short of the authorized expenditures of $7,388,267. A total of $53,238,180 was appropriated out of the general revenue fund for state aid to schools this year, about $374,000 less than has been recommended for 1960-61.

Brown Retains Lightweight Title In Fifth Round TKO

Charnley Suffers Cut Over Eye

Titleholder Wins Eighth Defense Of World Crown

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Aging Joe Brown again kept his world's lightweight championship Wednesday night as his fists slashed stubby British challenger Dave Charnley about the eyes, forcing a halt in their battle after five rounds.

It was Brown's eighth defense of the crown.

Brown, the Baton Rouge, La., Negro who has held the title for more than three years, was leading the Englishman on points when the end came.

Opens Deep Cut

Charnley weathered the round, although staggering, and stumbled to his corner. While his handlers worked over the deeply bleeding cut, Referee Jimmy Webb of Houston raised Brown's hand and called the fight at an end.

Charnley and his manager, Arthur Boggis, claimed it was an unintentional butt and not a blow that opened the cut and Boggis said he asked the referee to stop the fight.

Referee Webb said, however, that it was not a butt but a blow to the head.

It was obvious that Brown was going to win the scheduled 15-round bout anyway. He had carried every round on all except one judge's card.

Has Bigger Reach

In the second round Brown's flicking left — and his 3½-inch reach advantage was the big point in this fight—had opened a slight cut under Charnley's right eye. In the third Brown had swarmed the little man from Britain. But Charnley gave indications of a comeback in the fourth.

By winning Wednesday night, Brown tied the all-time record for defenses of the title in this class. Benny Leonard set it before retiring in 1925.

Referee Webb scored the fight 50-46 for Brown under the 10-point must system. Judge Ernie Taylor had it 49-46 and Judge W. H. Cornelius scored it 50-45.

The fight went in the books as a fifth-round technical knockout.

Young And Lauder Each Score 26

FROSTBURG—Fred Gandt and Dave Christie tallied 26 and 17 points respectively last night to pace Salem College to an 85-82 basketball triumph over Frostburg State Teachers College quint.

The loss was the 19th in a row extending over a three-year period for the Frostburg Bobcats.

Frostburg jumped off to a quick 4-0 lead at the opening whistle but Salem bounced back to grab the edge which it held throughout the remainder of the first half.

State rallied to take the lead once more at 49-46 early in the second half, before Salem, led by Gandt and Christie who each tallied 12 points in the final half, once more took over and held on for the victory. Salem, outscored 32-31 from the field, won the game at the foul line.

The visitors held an 83-78 lead with seconds to go and sandwiched a goal between a pair of two-pointers by Frostburg to ice the triumph.

The loss was the second of the new season for Frostburg while it was Salem's opening contest. The boxscore:

Versatility Keynotes 1959 Little All-America Squad

NEW YORK (AP) — Versatility is the keynote of the 1959 Associated Press Little All-America football team. Repeater Sam McCord of East Texas State heads a backfield which has accounted for more than 2½ miles in yardage and 376 points.

Tailback Vince Tesone from Colorado Mines, Walter Beach of Central Michigan and unbeaten Western Illinois' Bill Larson join quarterback McCord in the backfield of the team announced Wednesday.

In addition to rushing for 887 yards, passing for 559 and being responsible for 128 points, McCord handled the punting and was rated his team's top defensive back.

Tesone posted a glittering 42.2-yard punting average to go with his 1,619 yards in total offense, a department in which he led the nation's small college athletes most of the campaign.

Beach, headed for Canadian pro football, ran for 542 yards, completed the only pass he attempted, caught aerials for 222 yards and hauled back kicks for 522 while scoring 88 points.

Gerald Lambert of Texas A&I and Williamette's Marvin (Cisco) Cisneros are the guards while 230-pound Bob Zimpfer of unbeaten Bowling Green and rugged Walt Meincke of Lehigh hold down the tackle spots. The ends are Hugh McInnis of Mississippi Southern and Tom Hackler of Tennessee Tech.

Duke's McGee Repeater On UPI's ACC Grid Team

Rod Breedlove On 2nd Squad

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Duke guard Mike McGee, the only holdover from last year's first unit, paced the voting for the United Press International All-Atlantic Coast conference football team announced Wednesday.

McGee, a 215-pound senior who plays guard on offense and switches to tackle on defense, received 78 out of a possible 80 points in the voting.

Tackle Ed Pitts of South Carolina, moving up from last year's second unit, and Clemson tackle Lou Cordileone received 76 points each while Wake Forest quarterback Norman Snead collected 73 to lead the backfield balloting.

Clemson's ACC champions placed four players on the first team while Wake Forest had three and South Carolina and Duke two each. Clemson center Paul Snyder just edged Paul Balonick of North Carolina State for the first team spot, collecting 34 points to 29 for Balonick.

Other Clemson players named to the first unit were back Bill Mathis and end Gary Barnes, one of two sophomores on the first unit. The other was Duke back Joel Arrington.

In addition to Snead, the only junior on the first team, Wake Forest was represented by end Pete Manning and guard Nick Patella. South Carolina's second first-team selection was back Phil Lavoie.

Two members of last year's first team, end Al Goldstein and back Jack Cummings of North Carolina dropped to the second unit.

Joining Goldstein, Cummings and Balonick on the second unit were end John Schroeder of North Carolina, tackles Harold Olson of Clemson and Jim Gardner of Duke, guards Rod Breedlove of Maryland and Jake Bodkin of South Carolina and backs Harvey White of Clemson, Ron Podwika of N.C. State and Doug Cline of Clemson.

Mineral County Deer Kill Reaches 506

Deer kills for the third day of the West Virginia hunting season totaled 124 in Mineral County yesterday, according to reports from four of the county's six checking stations.

This brought the three-day total of whitetails bagged in the neighboring West Virginia county to at least 506. The kill on opening day was recorded at 235 deer and on Tuesday it reached 147. However, several of the stations have not reported, so the total is expected to be much greater.

Kills checked at the stations yesterday were Keyser 39; Fort Ashby 47; New Creek 20; and Ridgeley 18. Elk Garden and Burlington reports were not received.

Father Bob Wins Feature At Pimlico

BALTIMORE, Dec. 2 (AP) — Father Bob, consistent 3-year-old owned by Donald McGee, of Red Bank, N.J., and named for his brother Bob, a Catholic priest, won for the fifth time in his last seven starts at Pimlico today.

Teamed up with apprentice Frankie Northcutt, leading rider of the meeting, Father Bob was backed to the prohibitive odds of $3.80 for $2 before winning the featured H.B.P.A. purse by two lengths from Mrs. Walter A. Edgars' Milady Dares.

Milady Dares finished about a half length in front of John E. Hughes' Equifun.

Riding his second winner of the day to increase his total for the 17-day-old meeting to 23, Northcutt sent Father Bob to the front soon after the break and kept the 3-year-old in front to finish the six furlongs in 1:11 4/5.

The longest priced member of an eleven-horse field, Mrs. William R. Harris' Esteco 2nd, who ran in hurdle races in New York all summer, won the seventh race, a one-mile turf event, and paid $96.60, $31.80 and $16.20. The race was run in 1:47 1/5, one of the slowest miles in Pimlico history.

Buenos And Truman In Victorian Finals

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — Maria Bueno of Brazil and Christine Truman of England, finalists in the United States women's singles championship this year, reached the finals Wednesday at the Victorian tennis tournament.

Miss Bueno, the Wimbledon and U.S. titleholder, ousted Mary Reitano, the Australian champion, 6-1, 4-6, 6-1. Miss Truman rallied to defeat Jan Lehane, promising young Australian, in the other semifinal, 5-7, 7-5, 6-0.

In the men's doubles semifinals, Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson defeated Ken Fletcher and Fred Stolle, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3, while Bob Howe and Bob Hewitt ousted Bob Mark and Marty Mulligan, 9-7, 6-2, 6-1.

Thomson Leads By Three Strokes

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — Peter Thomson of Australia took a three-stroke lead in the 72-hole Cole golf tournament on Wednesday when he set a course record with a 3-under-par 69 in the first round on the Huntingdale Links.

Dai Rees of Wales, captain of Britain's Ryder Cup team, was second after Wednesday's play with a 72. Angel Miguel of Spain and Len Woodward of Australia shared third place with 73s.

Arnels Upset Acetates, 3-0

The last-place Arnels upset the league-leading Acetates, 3-0, last night in a Celanese Staff Bowling League match on the Capital Bowling alleys. However, the Celaperms could gain only a tie for first place as they lost 2-1 to the Fortisans in the other league match.

Leading scorers were Grace Lashley, 327, and Francis Stein, 368, for the Acetates; Mayme Street, 378, and Jud Collins, 367, Arnels; Pat Werner, 229, and Pat Paddleford, 354, Celaperms; Millie Twigg, 382, and Bill Bartlett, 368, for the Fortisans. The standings:

Frick Feels New Trading Rule "Bad"

Most Inter-League Swaps Are Minor

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — Commissioner Ford Frick warned Wednesday that extension of the new inter-league trading rule would be a "tragedy" that might undermine public confidence in baseball.

"I'm still not convinced it's a good thing," Frick commented about the new rule which permits unrestricted trading between leagues from Nov. 21 through Dec. 15. "Every trade completed so far could just as well have been made under the old rule."

The commissioner later reconsidered this generalization and agreed that Monday's deal between the San Francisco Giants and Baltimore Orioles probably could not have been made under the old rule. In that deal, the Giants traded Jackie Brandt and two other players to the Orioles for Pitchers Billy O'Dell and Billy Loes.

"I am opposed to the new rule because the next thing you know they'll want it during the season," Frick said. "That would be the darndest tragedy. Then you'd really have talk of fixed races."

Under the old rule, players could not be traded from one league to another without waivers. This rule, however, never prevented the New York Yankees from buying a National League player during the stretch run of a pennant race. Such deals invariably drew anguished protests from their opponents.

Of the five deals made so far during the unrestricted trading period, all have been between teams from opposite leagues. Four were minor transactions. During this time, there still has not been one trade between teams from the same league.

The Orioles and St. Louis Cardinals finally got around Wednesday to announcing a trade that had been known for more than a month. This deal sent catcher-outfielder Gene Green to the Orioles for outfielder Bob Nieman. As a shirt-tail to the same deal, catcher Charles Staniland was sent from Rochester to Baltimore's Miami farm club.

Aside from that, the trading market hit a slump, although there was plenty of talk. Many baseball men felt that several deals will be announced after the winter meetings shift from here to Miami Beach next week.

Most of the trade buzzing centered around Roy Sievers of Washington, who appears to be the most highly - sought player of the current meetings. The Los Angeles Dodgers and Chicago White Sox, World Series rivals, both are after him.

The Dodgers have revised their package and now offer the Senators outfielder Ron Fairly, pitcher Clem Labine and infielder Don Zimmer for Sievers, pitcher Russ Kemmerer and either of two infielders to be sent to the minors—Billy Consolo or Ken Aspromonte.

Manager Al Lopez confirmed that the White Sox have been seeking Sievers since last season. They also are after Minnie Minoso of the Indians and have offered infielder Bubba Phillips and another player.

The deal hit a snag when the Indians asked for catcher John Romano.

The Red Sox also are reported to have designs on Gus Triandos of the Orioles. Baltimore wants infielder Pete Runnels, catcher Sammy White and outfielder Marty Keough in return.

HARNESS HEADLINER - - By Alan Maver

The Sports Patrol

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former Navy coach Eddie Erdelatz, who spent the season watching football instead of teaching it, is deeply disturbed by what he saw.

"The rules," he said, "are a shambles. I attended games at all levels—high school, college and professional — and generally they play a different set of rules."

The result, he added, is complete chaos when a coach tries to help a high school player make the transition to college football or a college star into professional ranks.

"The best thing college football could do would be to adopt the professional rules right down the line and then add a stipulation no one could tinker with the code for at least five years," said Erdelatz.

The pros, by their current peak of popularity, obviously have shown their rules please the crowds, according to Eddie.

The big beef, of course, is college football. It's the one out of step with many high schools (except in some states including Texas and Ohio) and the pros.

High schools in most areas use the two-platoon system of substituting, the colleges don't but the pros do. Most high schools and the colleges have the two - point conversion but the pros don't. The goal posts are on the goal line in pro football and 10 yards back—but wider—in the colleges.

"When a high school boy turns up at college chances are he already is a specialist, either offensive or defensive," said Erdelatz. "The first thing a college coach has to do is teach him to play both ways. Now that same boy turns pro and his pro coach has to figure where to put him—on the offensive or defensive unit.

"It's the only game I know of with so many different rules. Why don't they standardize things like, say, baseball?"

Among the many arguments for abolishing the platoon system from college football were pleas the crowds didn't like it, the coaching costs were too great, the big schools could beat the tar out of the "have nots" and the college couldn't turn out complete football players but only specialists in one or two phases.

"This is an age of specialists," insisted Erdelatz. "Medicine, science, engineering and most anything you want to name is a field for the specialist."

As for the eternal battle between the "haves" and the "have nots," Erdelatz figures as do most coaches that legislation can't level off the caliber of competition so the little schools can play on even terms with the so-called football factories.

"Teams generally are seeking their own level these days," said Eddie. "It's the only sane thing to do."

Where Erdelatz will coach next year even he apparently doesn't know. When he quit suddenly at Navy last spring after a highly successful tour beginning in 1950 he severed all official ties for the year and now merely is sitting tight awaiting that telephone call for 1960.

"College or pro—I have no preference," he said.

Colts-49ers Tilt Sellout On Saturday

Ticket Brokers Swamped By Orders

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—If you haven't got a ticket for the San Francisco 49er - Baltimore Colt football game here Saturday, don't bother looking. This is the one the scalpers are paying to see.

All but 1,800 of Kezar Stadium's 59,000 seats have been sold for more than three weeks. Those 1,800 in the end zone go on sale the morning of the game.

Ticket brokers are heart-broken. "I'm getting calls for all over the west," wails one. "Some of these people would pay anything."

For 49er fans, this is the game they've been waiting for ever since San Francisco went into big-time professional football. The team has been second plenty but it's never been able to latch on to a Western Division title in the National Football League.

Three weeks ago, the 49ers had a record of 6 - 1 and were two games ahead in the Western Division.

Then they hit the road and the Chicago Bears chewed 'em up. A week later the Baltimore Colts trampled the 49ers 45-14 and tied them for first place.

The badly buffered 49ers went into Cleveland 10-point underdogs Sunday and upset the Browns 21-20. Baltimore, meanwhile, beat Los Angeles 35-21.

That set up Saturday's big one.

Titleholder Wins Eighth Defense Of World Crown

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Aging Joe Brown again kept his world's lightweight championship Wednesday night as his fists slashed stubby British challenger Dave Charnley about the eyes, forcing a halt in their battle after five rounds.

It was Brown's eighth defense of the crown.

Brown, the Baton Rouge, La., Negro who has held the title for more than three years, was leading the Englishman on points when the end came.

Opens Deep Cut

Charnley weathered the round, although staggering, and stumbled to his corner. While his handlers worked over the deeply bleeding cut, Referee Jimmy Webb of Houston raised Brown's hand and called the fight at an end.

Charnley and his manager, Arthur Boggis, claimed it was an unintentional butt and not a blow that opened the cut and Boggis said he asked the referee to stop the fight.

Referee Webb said, however, that it was not a butt but a blow to the head.

It was obvious that Brown was going to win the scheduled 15-round bout anyway. He had carried every round on all except one judge's card.

Has Bigger Reach

In the second round Brown's flicking left — and his 3½-inch reach advantage was the big point in this fight—had opened a slight cut under Charnley's right eye. In the third Brown had swarmed the little man from Britain. But Charnley gave indications of a comeback in the fourth.

By winning Wednesday night, Brown tied the all-time record for defenses of the title in this class. Benny Leonard set it before retiring in 1925.

Referee Webb scored the fight 50-46 for Brown under the 10-point must system. Judge Ernie Taylor had it 49-46 and Judge W. H. Cornelius scored it 50-45.

The fight went in the books as a fifth-round technical knockout.

FROSTBURG—Fred Gandt and Dave Christie tallied 26 and 17 points respectively last night to pace Salem College to an 85-82 basketball triumph over Frostburg State Teachers College quint.

The loss was the 19th in a row extending over a three-year period for the Frostburg Bobcats.

Frostburg jumped off to a quick 4-0 lead at the opening whistle but Salem bounced back to grab the edge which it held throughout the remainder of the first half.

State rallied to take the lead once more at 49-46 early in the second half, before Salem, led by Gandt and Christie who each tallied 12 points in the final half, once more took over and held on for the victory. Salem, outscored 32-31 from the field, won the game at the foul line.

The visitors held an 83-78 lead with seconds to go and sandwiched a goal between a pair of two-pointers by Frostburg to ice the triumph.

The loss was the second of the new season for Frostburg while it was Salem's opening contest. The boxscore:

Versatility Keynotes 1959 Little All-America Squad

NEW YORK (AP) — Versatility is the keynote of the 1959 Associated Press Little All-America football team. Repeater Sam McCord of East Texas State heads a backfield which has accounted for more than 2½ miles in yardage and 376 points.

Tailback Vince Tesone from Colorado Mines, Walter Beach of Central Michigan and unbeaten Western Illinois' Bill Larson join quarterback McCord in the backfield of the team announced Wednesday.

In addition to rushing for 887 yards, passing for 559 and being responsible for 128 points, McCord handled the punting and was rated his team's top defensive back.

Tesone posted a glittering 42.2-yard punting average to go with his 1,619 yards in total offense, a department in which he led the nation's small college athletes most of the campaign.

Beach, headed for Canadian pro football, ran for 542 yards, completed the only pass he attempted, caught aerials for 222 yards and hauled back kicks for 522 while scoring 88 points.

Gerald Lambert of Texas A&I and Williamette's Marvin (Cisco) Cisneros are the guards while 230-pound Bob Zimpfer of unbeaten Bowling Green and rugged Walt Meincke of Lehigh hold down the tackle spots. The ends are Hugh McInnis of Mississippi Southern and Tom Hackler of Tennessee Tech.

Rod Breedlove On 2nd Squad

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Duke guard Mike McGee, the only holdover from last year's first unit, paced the voting for the United Press International All-Atlantic Coast conference football team announced Wednesday.

McGee, a 215-pound senior who plays guard on offense and switches to tackle on defense, received 78 out of a possible 80 points in the voting.

Tackle Ed Pitts of South Carolina, moving up from last year's second unit, and Clemson tackle Lou Cordileone received 76 points each while Wake Forest quarterback Norman Snead collected 73 to lead the backfield balloting.

Clemson's ACC champions placed four players on the first team while Wake Forest had three and South Carolina and Duke two each. Clemson center Paul Snyder just edged Paul Balonick of North Carolina State for the first team spot, collecting 34 points to 29 for Balonick.

Other Clemson players named to the first unit were back Bill Mathis and end Gary Barnes, one of two sophomores on the first unit. The other was Duke back Joel Arrington.

In addition to Snead, the only junior on the first team, Wake Forest was represented by end Pete Manning and guard Nick Patella. South Carolina's second first-team selection was back Phil Lavoie.

Two members of last year's first team, end Al Goldstein and back Jack Cummings of North Carolina dropped to the second unit.

Joining Goldstein, Cummings and Balonick on the second unit were end John Schroeder of North Carolina, tackles Harold Olson of Clemson and Jim Gardner of Duke, guards Rod Breedlove of Maryland and Jake Bodkin of South Carolina and backs Harvey White of Clemson, Ron Podwika of N.C. State and Doug Cline of Clemson.

Thomson Leads By Three Strokes

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — Peter Thomson of Australia took a three-stroke lead in the 72-hole Cole golf tournament on Wednesday when he set a course record with a 3-under-par 69 in the first round on the Huntingdale Links.

Dai Rees of Wales, captain of Britain's Ryder Cup team, was second after Wednesday's play with a 72. Angel Miguel of Spain and Len Woodward of Australia shared third place with 73s.

Arnels Upset Acetates, 3-0

The last-place Arnels upset the league-leading Acetates, 3-0, last night in a Celanese Staff Bowling League match on the Capital Bowling alleys. However, the Celaperms could gain only a tie for first place as they lost 2-1 to the Fortisans in the other league match.

Leading scorers were Grace Lashley, 327, and Francis Stein, 368, for the Acetates; Mayme Street, 378, and Jud Collins, 367, Arnels; Pat Werner, 229, and Pat Paddleford, 354, Celaperms; Millie Twigg, 382, and Bill Bartlett, 368, for the Fortisans. The standings:

Frick Feels New Trading Rule "Bad"

Most Inter-League Swaps Are Minor

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — Commissioner Ford Frick warned Wednesday that extension of the new inter-league trading rule would be a "tragedy" that might undermine public confidence in baseball.

"I'm still not convinced it's a good thing," Frick commented about the new rule which permits unrestricted trading between leagues from Nov. 21 through Dec. 15. "Every trade completed so far could just as well have been made under the old rule."

The commissioner later reconsidered this generalization and agreed that Monday's deal between the San Francisco Giants and Baltimore Orioles probably could not have been made under the old rule. In that deal, the Giants traded Jackie Brandt and two other players to the Orioles for Pitchers Billy O'Dell and Billy Loes.

"I am opposed to the new rule because the next thing you know they'll want it during the season," Frick said. "That would be the darndest tragedy. Then you'd really have talk of fixed races."

Under the old rule, players could not be traded from one league to another without waivers. This rule, however, never prevented the New York Yankees from buying a National League player during the stretch run of a pennant race. Such deals invariably drew anguished protests from their opponents.

Of the five deals made so far during the unrestricted trading period, all have been between teams from opposite leagues. Four were minor transactions. During this time, there still has not been one trade between teams from the same league.

The Orioles and St. Louis Cardinals finally got around Wednesday to announcing a trade that had been known for more than a month. This deal sent catcher-outfielder Gene Green to the Orioles for outfielder Bob Nieman. As a shirt-tail to the same deal, catcher Charles Staniland was sent from Rochester to Baltimore's Miami farm club.

Aside from that, the trading market hit a slump, although there was plenty of talk. Many baseball men felt that several deals will be announced after the winter meetings shift from here to Miami Beach next week.

Most of the trade buzzing centered around Roy Sievers of Washington, who appears to be the most highly - sought player of the current meetings. The Los Angeles Dodgers and Chicago White Sox, World Series rivals, both are after him.

The Dodgers have revised their package and now offer the Senators outfielder Ron Fairly, pitcher Clem Labine and infielder Don Zimmer for Sievers, pitcher Russ Kemmerer and either of two infielders to be sent to the minors—Billy Consolo or Ken Aspromonte.

Manager Al Lopez confirmed that the White Sox have been seeking Sievers since last season. They also are after Minnie Minoso of the Indians and have offered infielder Bubba Phillips and another player.

The deal hit a snag when the Indians asked for catcher John Romano.

The Red Sox also are reported to have designs on Gus Triandos of the Orioles. Baltimore wants infielder Pete Runnels, catcher Sammy White and outfielder Marty Keough in return.

HARNESS HEADLINER - - By Alan Maver

The Sports Patrol

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former Navy coach Eddie Erdelatz, who spent the season watching football instead of teaching it, is deeply disturbed by what he saw.

"The rules," he said, "are a shambles. I attended games at all levels—high school, college and professional — and generally they play a different set of rules."

The result, he added, is complete chaos when a coach tries to help a high school player make the transition to college football or a college star into professional ranks.

"The best thing college football could do would be to adopt the professional rules right down the line and then add a stipulation no one could tinker with the code for at least five years," said Erdelatz.

The pros, by their current peak of popularity, obviously have shown their rules please the crowds, according to Eddie.

The big beef, of course, is college football. It's the one out of step with many high schools (except in some states including Texas and Ohio) and the pros.

High schools in most areas use the two-platoon system of substituting, the colleges don't but the pros do. Most high schools and the colleges have the two - point conversion but the pros don't. The goal posts are on the goal line in pro football and 10 yards back—but wider—in the colleges.

"When a high school boy turns up at college chances are he already is a specialist, either offensive or defensive," said Erdelatz. "The first thing a college coach has to do is teach him to play both ways. Now that same boy turns pro and his pro coach has to figure where to put him—on the offensive or defensive unit.

"It's the only game I know of with so many different rules. Why don't they standardize things like, say, baseball?"

Among the many arguments for abolishing the platoon system from college football were pleas the crowds didn't like it, the coaching costs were too great, the big schools could beat the tar out of the "have nots" and the college couldn't turn out complete football players but only specialists in one or two phases.

"This is an age of specialists," insisted Erdelatz. "Medicine, science, engineering and most anything you want to name is a field for the specialist."

As for the eternal battle between the "haves" and the "have nots," Erdelatz figures as do most coaches that legislation can't level off the caliber of competition so the little schools can play on even terms with the so-called football factories.

"Teams generally are seeking their own level these days," said Eddie. "It's the only sane thing to do."

Where Erdelatz will coach next year even he apparently doesn't know. When he quit suddenly at Navy last spring after a highly successful tour beginning in 1950 he severed all official ties for the year and now merely is sitting tight awaiting that telephone call for 1960.

"College or pro—I have no preference," he said.

Colts-49ers Tilt Sellout On Saturday

Ticket Brokers Swamped By Orders

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—If you haven't got a ticket for the San Francisco 49er - Baltimore Colt football game here Saturday, don't bother looking. This is the one the scalpers are paying to see.

All but 1,800 of Kezar Stadium's 59,000 seats have been sold for more than three weeks. Those 1,800 in the end zone go on sale the morning of the game.

Ticket brokers are heart-broken. "I'm getting calls for all over the west," wails one. "Some of these people would pay anything."

For 49er fans, this is the game they've been waiting for ever since San Francisco went into big-time professional football. The team has been second plenty but it's never been able to latch on to a Western Division title in the National Football League.

Three weeks ago, the 49ers had a record of 6 - 1 and were two games ahead in the Western Division.

Then they hit the road and the Chicago Bears chewed 'em up. A week later the Baltimore Colts trampled the 49ers 45-14 and tied them for first place.

The badly buffered 49ers went into Cleveland 10-point underdogs Sunday and upset the Browns 21-20. Baltimore, meanwhile, beat Los Angeles 35-21.

Warfare Hailed As Champion 2-Year-Old Colt

NEW YORK (UPI)—Warfare, a California colt who slaughtered the juvenile division in an eastern invasion, Wednesday was hailed champion 2-year-old colt of 1959 by the Thoroughbred Racing Association.

Warfare, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Jones, won 3 of 10 races in California including the Charles S. Howard Stakes at Hollywood Park. Then he was sent East.

The strapping colt, so dark he looks black instead of his official gray, was not eligible for the big races. Backing the confidence of trainer Hack Ross, his owners paid $1,000 to make Warfare eligible for the Cowdin Stakes and $10,000 each for the Champagne and the Garden Stakes.

The son of the Kentucky Derby winner Determine won all three races to clinch his title.

Delaware Wins Lambert Cup

Blue Hens Get Unanimous Vote

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Delaware Blue Hens had a right to cackle Wednesday after winning the 1959 Lambert Cup, emblematic of the eastern small college football championship.

Coach David Nelson's squad won the cup by a unanimous vote in the final balloting of the selection board of coaches, sports writers and sports broadcasters.

Buffalo, last year's winner, finished second with 8.9 points compared to Delaware's perfect score of 10. Hofstra was third with 7.4 points and was followed in order by Lafayette (7.2), Connecticut (6.2), Lehigh (5.0), West Chester (3.6), Juniata (3.0), Bucknell (2.4) and Albright (0.9).

Delaware won eight of nine games this season, losing only to Bowling Green of Ohio, which was voted the 1959 national small college champion by the UPI Board of Coaches last week.

In Hollywood

He has sold an original screenplay, "The Boy Who Stole a Million" to Paramount, and it goes before the cameras in Madrid in January. Immediately after the Larsens were married, they left for Europe and haven't been back in eight years. Pat has a young daughter, Wendy, who has been living with the Cornel Wilds. Although still a beautiful blonde, Pat says she has given up any thought of acting again.

The nicest story I've heard is that the Kingston Trio who sang the saga of "Tom Dooley" (the one they hanged) to fame early this year, called humanitarian Dr. Dooley in Seattle to tell him this:

All proceeds from their concert at Kansas State Teachers College in Emporia, Kans., will go to Dr. Dooley for his medico organization and his clinic in Laos. The trio of boys handed Dr. Dooley a laugh when they told him, "Even if they hanged our Tom Dooley—we know he'd like to help his famed and illustrious name-sake!"

Just the other night the Kingston Trio picked off its second consecutive Grammy (best record award for their album, "Kingston Trio at Large".)

While Henry Blanke is enjoying his first vacation in 37 years in Hawaii, Jack Karp has been scouting about for a story for Henry when he reports to Paramount in January. "Affair in Arcady," a book by James Wellard, has been bought for Blanke, who left Warner Bros., after 30 years to become a Paramount producer. Edward Anhault has been signed to script the book which is about a legenday American family.

I haven't read the book, and that's as much as I know about it. No casting will be done until Blanke returns from his holiday.

The new Pittsburgh Hilton opening Dec. 5, is the last asp in what's new in hotels. The man who has built hotels around the world—none other than Conrad Hilton—tells me this latest addition to his chain has 813 rooms, is 24 stories high, and has one of the largest ballrooms in the world.

Connie's guests for the opening, as usual, will be big names in Hollywood and New York. I am just sorry I cannot join the happy party this time, but if it's at all possible, I'll be in Athens when Connie opens his new Hilton Hotel there.

Minors To Vote On Bonus Rule

Easier For Clubs To Lose Players

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Baseball's minor leagues vote Thursday on legislation designed to curb payments of excessive bonus money to untried players.

No limits, of course, could be placed on the amount a boy can receive for signing a contract. The proposed rules would discourage the baseball owners from paying too much by making it easier for clubs to lose high-priced players.

The first-year draft of all men signed since last December had its first test Monday. The only way a club could protect a first-year man who played at least 90 days last season was to advance him to the major league roster.

Tittle Hobbled By Knee Injury

Doctors in Baltimore had feared the 49ers' veteran quarterback was through for the season after he was clobbered by the Colts Nov. 22. His right knee was painfully injured in that 45-14 blasting by the Colts.

The rematch here Saturday will probably decide the Western Division title of the National Football League. Tittle, the 49er captain, will be in uniform and on the bench.

ABOUT THIS QUESTION:

Last year a fire in a nearby town put several stores out of business during the entire holiday shopping. Their fire insurance covered the building and stock, but what about the fatal loss of income during this season? Does your agency have insurance to pay all expenses and net profit during business interruption?

Burton, M'Keever Are Also Named

NEW YORK (UPI) — Quarterback Richie Lucas of Penn State, halfbacks Ron Burton of Northwestern and Billy Cannon of Louisiana State and end Marlin McKeever of Southern California were among the stars selected Tuesday for Look Magazine's All-America team.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Warfare, a California colt who slaughtered the juvenile division in an eastern invasion, Wednesday was hailed champion 2-year-old colt of 1959 by the Thoroughbred Racing Association.

Warfare, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Jones, won 3 of 10 races in California including the Charles S. Howard Stakes at Hollywood Park. Then he was sent East.

The strapping colt, so dark he looks black instead of his official gray, was not eligible for the big races. Backing the confidence of trainer Hack Ross, his owners paid $1,000 to make Warfare eligible for the Cowdin Stakes and $10,000 each for the Champagne and the Garden Stakes.

Umpires Sold To Junior Loop

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — President Frank Shaughnessy of the International League announced Wednesday that umpires Harry Schwarts and Cal Drummond have been sold to the American League.

Schwarts comes from Cleveland and Drummond lives in Greensboro, N.C.

Fullback Picked As Navy Captain

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Fullback Joe Matalavage has been chosen by his teammates to captain the Navy football team in 1960.

Selection of the 6 foot, 196-pound junior from Mahanoy City, Pa. was announced by the Naval Academy Wednesday following a squad meeting.

Delaware Wins Lambert Cup

Blue Hens Get Unanimous Vote

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Delaware Blue Hens had a right to cackle Wednesday after winning the 1959 Lambert Cup, emblematic of the eastern small college football championship.

Coach David Nelson's squad won the cup by a unanimous vote in the final balloting of the selection board of coaches, sports writers and sports broadcasters.

Buffalo, last year's winner, finished second with 8.9 points compared to Delaware's perfect score of 10. Hofstra was third with 7.4 points and was followed in order by Lafayette (7.2), Connecticut (6.2), Lehigh (5.0), West Chester (3.6), Juniata (3.0), Bucknell (2.4) and Albright (0.9).

Delaware won eight of nine games this season, losing only to Bowling Green of Ohio, which was voted the 1959 national small college champion by the UPI Board of Coaches last week.

He has sold an original screenplay, "The Boy Who Stole a Million" to Paramount, and it goes before the cameras in Madrid in January. Immediately after the Larsens were married, they left for Europe and haven't been back in eight years. Pat has a young daughter, Wendy, who has been living with the Cornel Wilds. Although still a beautiful blonde, Pat says she has given up any thought of acting again.

The nicest story I've heard is that the Kingston Trio who sang the saga of "Tom Dooley" (the one they hanged) to fame early this year, called humanitarian Dr. Dooley in Seattle to tell him this:

All proceeds from their concert at Kansas State Teachers College in Emporia, Kans., will go to Dr. Dooley for his medico organization and his clinic in Laos. The trio of boys handed Dr. Dooley a laugh when they told him, "Even if they hanged our Tom Dooley—we know he'd like to help his famed and illustrious name-sake!"

Just the other night the Kingston Trio picked off its second consecutive Grammy (best record award for their album, "Kingston Trio at Large".)

While Henry Blanke is enjoying his first vacation in 37 years in Hawaii, Jack Karp has been scouting about for a story for Henry when he reports to Paramount in January. "Affair in Arcady," a book by James Wellard, has been bought for Blanke, who left Warner Bros., after 30 years to become a Paramount producer. Edward Anhault has been signed to script the book which is about a legenday American family.

I haven't read the book, and that's as much as I know about it. No casting will be done until Blanke returns from his holiday.

The new Pittsburgh Hilton opening Dec. 5, is the last asp in what's new in hotels. The man who has built hotels around the world—none other than Conrad Hilton—tells me this latest addition to his chain has 813 rooms, is 24 stories high, and has one of the largest ballrooms in the world.

Connie's guests for the opening, as usual, will be big names in Hollywood and New York. I am just sorry I cannot join the happy party this time, but if it's at all possible, I'll be in Athens when Connie opens his new Hilton Hotel there.

Minors To Vote On Bonus Rule

Easier For Clubs To Lose Players

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Baseball's minor leagues vote Thursday on legislation designed to curb payments of excessive bonus money to untried players.

No limits, of course, could be placed on the amount a boy can receive for signing a contract. The proposed rules would discourage the baseball owners from paying too much by making it easier for clubs to lose high-priced players.

The first-year draft of all men signed since last December had its first test Monday. The only way a club could protect a first-year man who played at least 90 days last season was to advance him to the major league roster.

No less than 39 bonus babies were moved up just for that reason.

Tittle Hobbled By Knee Injury

Doctors in Baltimore had feared the 49ers' veteran quarterback was through for the season after he was clobbered by the Colts Nov. 22. His right knee was painfully injured in that 45-14 blasting by the Colts.

The rematch here Saturday will probably decide the Western Division title of the National Football League. Tittle, the 49er captain, will be in uniform and on the bench.

ABOUT THIS QUESTION:

Last year a fire in a nearby town put several stores out of business during the entire holiday shopping. Their fire insurance covered the building and stock, but what about the fatal loss of income during this season? Does your agency have insurance to pay all expenses and net profit during business interruption?

$426 Stolen From Home On Mapleside

City Police yesterday observed that between $700 and $800 in cash has been reported stolen from these sections of Cumberland during the past two weeks.

The entry Tuesday was a little on the daring side, being "pulled" between 4:30 and 6:30 p. m. In the past the intruders have seemed to be working around midnight and during the "wee hours" of the morning.

McDonald advised Det. Kenneth Morrissey Tuesday that his family was away from the home between 4:30 and 6:30 p.m. and when they returned they discovered the burglary.

Police said the intruder entered the home by forcing a window on the west side of the building. After entering the intruder reportedly stole $426 in cash from a small desk and then ransacked several other rooms in the home. Only the money was reported stolen.

Police said the cash included a $100 bill, two $50 bills; 10 $20 bills, a ten, two fives and six ones.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Now that their good friend, fight champion Ingemar Johansson, has moved out of their house and returned to Europe, things are back to normal at the home of the Alan Ladds. Ingemar was the idol of the household from the cook to young David Ladd and everything stopped when the Swedish fighter, turned actor with Alan in "All the Young Men," did his gym work.

Getting back to business-as-usual, Alan has signed writer-producer Robert Radnitz to a contract with Ladd's Jaguar Company—Radnitz to supply original stories plus producing. The first will be a Wyoming frontier epic, "The Johnson County War." The tie-up between young Radnitz and the Ladds isn't new as he recently completed producing "Dog of Flanders" in Europe which starred David Ladd.

The whirlwind trip Greg and Veronique Peck are taking to Europe for the opening of "On the Beach", has them keeping appointments in every European city. The worldwide premiere is set for Dec. 17.

"We leave Saturday as Stanley Kramer's representatives," said Greg. "He is tied up on 'Iherit the Wind', We are hoping to get visas to be in Moscow for the opening of 'On the Beach'. If that isn't forthcoming we will go to Berlin for the premiere. We visit Paris, Rome, London and other cities, but we expect to be home in time to spend Christmas with the children."

Greg says he'll confer with Carl Foreman in London about wardrobe for "Guns of Navarone" which goes before the cameras in February. "Veronique, who hasn't been in her native Paris for five years, will buy some clothes of course," laughed Greg.

Joseph Levine, who is in town for an important press luncheon tomorrow, tells me that Gina Lollobrigida has asked to dub "The Law" in English. He says she made the movie in French, and she'll go to London in mid-December for the English dubbing.

"We are calling her Lollobrigida in all our advertising, dropping the name Gina. I think it sounds much more important just to use her last name," said Joe.

Levine went on to tell me that at the luncheon in New York where he told of plans to exploit "Jack, the Ripper," he had a million dollars cash on exhibition which he had borrowed from a bank. The money was in thousand and five hundred dollar bills.

Two familiar faces are back in Hollywood—Nils Larsen and his wife Pat Knight, the former Mrs. Cornel Wilde. They are here only for a few days while Pat gets her furniture out of storage and Nils talks business. They have been living in Spain for the last four years where Nils is a TV and film producer.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Seven of ♥.

Failure to use the trump echo proved costly to the defense in today's hand. Against the contract of four spades West, holding what appeared to be a virtually hopeless hand, chose for his opening lead the singleton heart. East won with the ace and returned the suit.

West ruffed with the deuce of spades and returned a low diamond. East's king went to declarer's ace, and a low trump was played from the closed hand. West followed with the four of spades, and when East took the trick with the ace, he was confronted with a difficult problem.

If West held another trump, a heart return would send declarer down to defeat. If West had no more spades, then the one remaining hope for the defense was that the low diamond lead had been made from the queen.

There was very little evidence upon which East could make his decision. South's jump rebid in spades marked him with at least five cards of the suit, but he might have six of them. So after a mental toss of the coin, East returned a diamond and declarer romped off with his contract.

Employment of the ancient "trump echo" by the defense would have obviated this disaster. This convention provides that, when a defender plays high-low in the trump suit, he announces three trumps and a desire to ruff.

In this case, West should have ruffed the club return with the four of spades rather than the deuce. Then on the lead of trumps by declarer, he would follow with the deuce.

This high-low play would have marked him with three trumps, and East would have been in no quandary as to the proper return when he took in the ace of trumps.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Now that their good friend, fight champion Ingemar Johansson, has moved out of their house and returned to Europe, things are back to normal at the home of the Alan Ladds. Ingemar was the idol of the household from the cook to young David Ladd and everything stopped when the Swedish fighter, turned actor with Alan in "All the Young Men," did his gym work.

Getting back to business-as-usual, Alan has signed writer-producer Robert Radnitz to a contract with Ladd's Jaguar Company—Radnitz to supply original stories plus producing. The first will be a Wyoming frontier epic, "The Johnson County War." The tie-up between young Radnitz and the Ladds isn't new as he recently completed producing "Dog of Flanders" in Europe which starred David Ladd.

The whirlwind trip Greg and Veronique Peck are taking to Europe for the opening of "On the Beach", has them keeping appointments in every European city. The worldwide premiere is set for Dec. 17.

"We leave Saturday as Stanley Kramer's representatives," said Greg. "He is tied up on 'Iherit the Wind', We are hoping to get visas to be in Moscow for the opening of 'On the Beach'. If that isn't forthcoming we will go to Berlin for the premiere. We visit Paris, Rome, London and other cities, but we expect to be home in time to spend Christmas with the children."

Greg says he'll confer with Carl Foreman in London about wardrobe for "Guns of Navarone" which goes before the cameras in February. "Veronique, who hasn't been in her native Paris for five years, will buy some clothes of course," laughed Greg.

Joseph Levine, who is in town for an important press luncheon tomorrow, tells me that Gina Lollobrigida has asked to dub "The Law" in English. He says she made the movie in French, and she'll go to London in mid-December for the English dubbing.

"We are calling her Lollobrigida in all our advertising, dropping the name Gina. I think it sounds much more important just to use her last name," said Joe.

Levine went on to tell me that at the luncheon in New York where he told of plans to exploit "Jack, the Ripper," he had a million dollars cash on exhibition which he had borrowed from a bank. The money was in thousand and five hundred dollar bills.

Two familiar faces are back in Hollywood—Nils Larsen and his wife Pat Knight, the former Mrs. Cornel Wilde. They are here only for a few days while Pat gets her furniture out of storage and Nils talks business. They have been living in Spain for the last four years where Nils is a TV and film producer.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Seven of ♥.

Failure to use the trump echo proved costly to the defense in today's hand. Against the contract of four spades West, holding what appeared to be a virtually hopeless hand, chose for his opening lead the singleton heart. East won with the ace and returned the suit.

West ruffed with the deuce of spades and returned a low diamond. East's king went to declarer's ace, and a low trump was played from the closed hand. West followed with the four of spades, and when East took the trick with the ace, he was confronted with a difficult problem.

If West held another trump, a heart return would send declarer down to defeat. If West had no more spades, then the one remaining hope for the defense was that the low diamond lead had been made from the queen.

There was very little evidence upon which East could make his decision. South's jump rebid in spades marked him with at least five cards of the suit, but he might have six of them. So after a mental toss of the coin, East returned a diamond and declarer romped off with his contract.

Employment of the ancient "trump echo" by the defense would have obviated this disaster. This convention provides that, when a defender plays high-low in the trump suit, he announces three trumps and a desire to ruff.

In this case, West should have ruffed the club return with the four of spades rather than the deuce. Then on the lead of trumps by declarer, he would follow with the deuce.

This high-low play would have marked him with three trumps, and East would have been in no quandary as to the proper return when he took in the ace of trumps.

Five Men Hanged

Recovering

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI)—Millionaire industrialist Joseph Hunter, 51, has a good chance to survive a self - inflicted gunshot wound, doctors at Riverside Community Hospital said Wednesday. Hunter, an inventor and philanthropist, shot himself in the head with a .45-caliber automatic Sunday in what police called a suicide attempt brought on by "family troubles."

CHRYSLER
58 CROWN IMPERIAL 2-DR. HARDTOP

We have in stock another Potomac Motor Special. We sold the car originally and can show you the work orders of everything that has been done to it. It formerly belonged to a local doctor. It has a light blue finish with a white top. The interior is spotless and the tires are white sidewall, captive air, the best tires available. It has power steering, power brakes, power windows, automatic door locks, tinted glass, touch tune radio with power antenna and rear seat speaker, 6 way power seats, heater, defroster, signal and back-up lights, plus all the small accessories to make this the top car of Chrysler Corporation. It has low mileage and will be trouble free. You cannot find a car like it in town. So stop in to see or drive this wonderful buy at only

Profit-Taking Interrupts Stock Market's Advance

NEW YORK (UPI) — Industrial shares ran aground when mid-day profit-taking ended hopes of an 11th straight day of higher prices.

The industrial average dropped 3.09 points. It was the first decline in 11 sessions for the industrials which had added 29.92 points to their average since Nov. 17.

Market analysts held that the market was entitled to a reaction at this point and recommended some profit selling. The fact that trading let up on the setback sustained market sentiment.

The list drew its earlier strength from the fact that steel industry and union negotiators went into their first huddle with government mediators since Nov. 7. The news helped Youngstown which gained a point to 126½, and Wheeling which rose 1 to 60 ¼. Continental countered with a loss of 3.

Lukens, up as much as 3½ at its top, closed at 86⅝ up ⅝. The stock jumped on news the company was working on an agreement with the union to operate in the event the steel strike is resumed.

Electronic shares encountered profit selling after spending part of the morning on the uptrack. General Time dropped 3¾. Consolidated Electronics 3⅝ and Texas Instruments 3. Du Pont lost 2 in the chemicals where Eastman Kodak fell 1⅛ and Thiokol 2.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Most grain futures were higher Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was off ⅛ to up ⅝; corn off ½ to up ⅛; oats up ⅛ to ⅝; rye up ⅜ to 1 and soybeans up ⅞ to 1⅞.

In wheat, liquidation continued in the December contract. Several contracts were firm, as mill buying resulted in a demand from other traders. Mills took December against sales of deferred months.

Corn was mostly steady. Trade slackened after an early period of buying and selling by commercial houses. December and March were spread at 4 cents difference.

Export subsidiees were granted on 1,688,000 bushels of corn and 586,000 bushels of oats.

Oats were firm. Cash houses led the buying, and May had a good commission house demand.

Outside markets were mostly higher.

Profit-Taking Interrupts Stock Market's Advance

NEW YORK (UPI) — Industrial shares ran aground when mid-day profit-taking ended hopes of an 11th straight day of higher prices.

The industrial average dropped 3.09 points. It was the first decline in 11 sessions for the industrials which had added 29.92 points to their average since Nov. 17.

Market analysts held that the market was entitled to a reaction this point and recommended some profit selling. The fact that trading let up on the setback sustained market sentiment.

The rail average meanwhile registered its fourth straight run up. This section was mixed but demonstrated spot strength.

The list drew its earlier strength from the fact that steel industry and union negotiators went into their first huddle with government mediators since Nov. 7. The news helped Youngstown which gained a point to 126½, and Wheeling which rose 1 to 60 ¼. Continental countered with a loss of 3.

Lukens, up as much as 3½ at its top, closed at 86⅝ up ⅝. The stock jumped on news the company was working on an agreement with the union to operate in the event the steel strike is resumed.

Electronic shares encountered profit selling after spending part of the morning on the uptrack. General Time dropped 3¾. Consolidated Electronics 3⅝ and Texas Instruments 3. Du Pont lost 2 in the chemicals where Eastman Kodak fell 1⅛ and Thiokol 2.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Most grain futures were higher Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was off ⅛ to up ⅝; corn off ½ to up ⅛; oats up ⅛ to ⅝; rye up ⅜ to 1 and soybeans up ⅞ to 1⅜.

In wheat, liquidation continued in the December contract. Several contracts were firm, as mill buying resulted in a demand from other traders. Mills took December against sales of deferred months.

Corn was mostly steady. Trade slackened after an early period of buying and selling by commercial houses. December and March were spread at 4 cents difference.

Export subsidiees were granted on 1,688,000 bushels of corn and 586,000 bushels of oats.

Oats were firm. Cash houses led the buying, and May had a good commission house demand.

Rye was mostly strong as shorts covered. The Winnipeg market was also higher.

Soybeans rallied from early declines and closed strong.

Outside markets were mostly higher.

3 More W.Va. Deer Hunters Are Killed

4 Shot To Death In Nearby Counties In Past 2 Days

Three more deer hunters were shot to death in nearby counties of West Virginia yesterday, bringing to four the death toll in the past two days. Three others apparently died of heart attacks while hunting since the season opened Monday.

Killed yesterday were Ocie Robert Weatherholtz, 22, of Kessel; Virgil Francis Stonestreet, 53, of Maysville, and Harry G. Adams, 25, of Independence. Otis D. Wilkins, 36, of near Lost City, Va., was killed Tuesday.

Weatherholtz was shot through the heart yesterday and died instantly. Trooper Jack Baker of Moorefield said the shooting occurred at 11:15 a.m. about two miles north of Kessel.

He said Weatherholtz and four companions were walking along a road to make a drive on deer. Weatherholtz was in front and was being followed by Carl Kimble, 25, of Fisher, W. Va.; James Baldwin, Frank Crites and Lawrence Zuber, all about 16, of Kessel.

When questioned by Trooper Baker, Kimble said he had his .30-30 rifle in his arms and was either looking at it or playing with the firearm when it accidentally discharged.

The slug struck Weatherholtz from the rear and passed through his heart. He stumbled forward a few steps and collapsed, said Trooper Baker. The other four called for a doctor.

Trooper Baker said Kimble has been charged with negligently shooting and killing a human being while hunting.

He was arraigned before Justice of the Peace P. W. Clark at Moorefield, waived a preliminary hearing and was released under $1,000 bond pending action of the January grand jury.

Farmer Is Killed

In another fatal shooting accident yesterday Mr. Stonestreet, well-known farmer and president of the Grant County Farm Bureau, was fatally wounded while placing a hunting party along an old logging road near Martin.

Conservation Commission authorities at first reported the man was shot by an unidentified hunter who ran after discovering what he had done.

Later in the day, Forrest Gaile Streets, 20, a farm worker who lives at Martin, reportedly admitted to Cpl. G. H. Phillips of Petersburg that he had shot the man.

Streets said he thought he saw a deer through a pine thicket, fired a round from his rifle, reloaded and fired again.

Admits Shooting

Streets, arraigned before Justice of Peace J. L. Boor in Petersburg on a charge of negligently shooting and killing a human being while hunting, waived a preliminary hearing and was released under $1,000 bond for action of the April grand jury.

Conservation Officer Harrison Shobe said Stonestreet was guiding a hunting party of about 10 men, and had begun placing them when the shooting occurred at about 8:30 a. m.

Members of the party included Dr. Joe N. Price, Cheverly, Md., dentist, and Rev. E. S. Price, Norton, Va. who administered first aid and then took Stonestreet to Grant Memorial Hospital in Petersburg.

Stonestreet apparently died from loss of blood shortly after being admitted to the hospital. He was pronounced dead by Dr. Lysle Veach.

Assisting Shobe were Robert Leeson and F. H. Kyer, of the Conservation Commission staff; Grant County Sheriff Harman Hartman, Prosecuting Attorney David E. Cuppett and Corporal Phillips.

Killed In Crossfire

Also killed yesterday was Harry G. Adams, 25, of Independence, Preston County, while hunting with nine other men near the intersection of U. S. 50 and W. Va. 92 in the southwestern part of the county.

Deputy Sheriff Darius Wild said the party came upon a deer in an open field and Adams was caught in the crossfire. A rifle slug hit him in the abdomen.

Later in the day a pathologist

Essay Awards Presented

Parochial school students who were finalists in an essay contest sponsored by Bishop James E. Walsh Circle 1222, Columbian Squires, last night were presented awards at the home of Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus. Thomas B. Finan Jr., chief squire (left), is congratulating Joan Meyers, of St. Joseph's parochial school, Midland, who placed third in the contest. Second from the left is Robert Neubiser, who accepted the first place award for Terrence Halbert, who formerly attended St. Patrick's here and has moved to Baltimore. Ronald Robinson, right, of St. Mary's, won second prize. Ray Settle, a student at LaSalle High School, was chairman of the project of the civic-cultural committee.

Md. Assembly Unit Approves Teachers' Pay

Also Backs Changes In Roads Program

By LOUIS G. PANOS

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Legislative Council gave overwhelming approval Wednesday to a plan for moderate teachers-pay increases and to major revisions in the Maryland roads program.

Both actions came at the final meeting of the council, between-sessions screening arm of the General Assembly, which meets for 30 days beginning next February.

Informed sources said Gov. Tawes prefers the new teachers salary program over the more liberal one he endorsed in the 1959 Legislature. That one was approved by the Senate but was scuttled by premature adjournment of the House.

Would Cost $5 Million

Proposed by the Committee on Taxation and Fiscal Matters under Sen. William S. James (D-Harford), the new plan would cost an estimated five million dollars next year. It would stress raises for veteran teachers and raise the state-guaranteed minimum scale from $3,200-$5,000 to $3,500-$6,300.

Interested observers as the council backed the proposal by a 14-2 margin were representatives of the Department of Education and the Maryland State Teachers Assn. Both are on record in favor of the more liberal program which would boost the scale to $4,000-$6,000 at an estimated cost of 20 million dollars by its second year.

Also approved by the council was a James Committee recommendation to give classified state employes about 2½ million dollars in pay increases next year. The employes association has requested a 10 per cent across-the-board increase which would cost an estimated 5.6 million dollars.

Flexible Roads Program

The biggest changes in the roads program would be designed to give the State Roads Commission and county officials greater flexibility in highway planning than is now possible under the 12-year, 568-million-dollar program begun seven years ago.

Commission Chairman John B. Funk told the council his agency is hampered by a restriction which provides that, until at least 90 per cent of the mileage scheduled in the first four years of the plan is completed, no construction scheduled for the second four-year phase may be started.

Ballooned costs and changing traffic needs have made impractical some of the projects originally scheduled for the first four-year phases, Funk said, but the law still requires that they be given priority over more necessary projects scheduled for the second four-year phase.

Delay In West Md.

One result, the chairman said, has been a delay in completion of such major projects as U. S. 40 improvements in Western Maryland, the Baltimore Beltway in Baltimore County and U. S. 50 on the Eastern Shore.

The council backed the commission proposal to remove the 90 per cent restriction and to allow the agency to substitute any county project for one scheduled under the 12-year plan, provided the county commissioners or council and the county delegation to the Legislature agree to the substitution.

Other Action

In other actions at its last meeting, the council:

1. Approved recommendations which would give the state closer supervision over Blue Cross hospital insurance operations and require participating hospitals to adopt uniform cost accounting practices. The move is intended to keep a closer check on the ne-

Dad Shoots Son While Hunting

Daniel Smith, 16, of near Charleston, W. Va., who was accidentally wounded in the left leg yesterday morning while on a hunting trip with his father near Moorefield, was reported in "satisfactory" condition last night at Grant County Memorial Hospital in Petersburg.

Authorities said prompt action by the youth's father probably saved his life. The victim and his father were among a group of about 30 hunters in the South Branch area of Moorefield.

He and his father were on stand waiting for others to drive deer in their direction. The youth apparently left his stand and ran down the hill when a deer ran out of the woods about 10 a.m.

The father fired his 30.06 rifle at the deer and noticed his boy nearby at the same time. After wounding his son, the father applied pressure to halt the bleeding.

He shouted for help but none of the other hunters apparently heard him. The father instructed the youth how to apply pressure and went on foot to summon others in the party.

When he located some of the others, they rushed back to the youths side, made an improvised stretcher out of their coats, applied a tournequet and carried the wounded youth several miles to a station wagon. The father took his son to the hospital.

$100,000 Suit Is Settled Out Of Court

Attorneys Agree Just Before Trial

A $100,000 damage suit brought by a Keyser man against the owner of the Astor Cab Company, a local cab driver and another local motorist, was settled in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday morning shortly after the petit jury was impaneled.

Theodore F. Black of Keyser claims he was injured April 7, 1956, while he was a passenger in a taxi owned by Fred W. Jenkins trading as the Astor Cab Company and driven by Roy S. Cowgill, 23 Laing Avenue.

He was riding in the rear of the taxi which was going west on Williams Street near the intersection of Maryland Avenue and was being followed by a car operated by Eldon Sponaugle, 13 Willison Place, third defendant in the suit.

The cab and auto continued down Williams Street and without warning, according to the plaintiff, the cab driver stopped suddenly and the car rammed into the rear of the taxi.

Black claims he was thrown from his seat with force and sustained serious injuries, was confined to a hospital, incurred medical expenses and lost wages while not working due to the accident.

Attorneys for the plaintiff were Harry Stegmaier, city; James P. McCardle and Cyril D. Brain, Pittsburgh. William C. Walsh and William Walsh were counsel for the cab company and driver of the cab.

The case was to have been heard by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris.

Nee Gets Permit For New Dwelling

Bernard R. Nee of Cresaptown has obtained a permit from the Allegany County assessment department for construction of a new $7,200 dwelling on Winchester Road in Election District 7.

The 29 by 44 foot house will be constructed of stone veneer.

PTA Council Will Meet On Monday

Mrs. George Tullis of Baltimore, chairman of the Pedestrian Safety Commission, which is associated with the Maryland Traffic Safety Bureau will be guest speaker at the meeting of the Allegany County Council of Parent - Teacher Associations Monday at 8 p. m. at Northeast School, Bowman's Addition.

Arthur Howard, county council safety chairman, has arranged this program, according to Mrs. George Buckalew, president.

Mrs. Tullis, a blind woman, has been traveling over the state speaking to school children. Mr. Howard says she has done a great amount of work in promoting pedestrian safety.

The county safety committee will meet with Mr. Howard at 7:30 p. m. and the council health committee will meet with Mrs. Leland B. Ransom, county health chairman, at the same time. These county committees are composed of the chairman from each PTA.

Council officers and members of the executive board will meet with Mrs. Buckalew for a special executive meeting at 7 p. m. Mrs. Buckalew urges that all executive members attend, as this will be an important but brief session. Local presidents will meet with Mrs. Buckalew at 7:30.

Each PTA unit in the county is entitled to send five or more delegates to the council meeting. A program of special Christmas music will be presented during the entertainment period.

Celanese Acquires New Division

NEW YORK (AP)—The Celanese Corp. of America Wednesday reported acquisition of Royal Manufacturing Co. Inc. of Prescott, Ariz., maker of plastic bottles and containers.

Terms of the acquisition were not disclosed. Richard W. Kixmiller, president of Celanese Plastics Co., said Royal will be operated under the present management as a division of Celanese Plastics Co.

Kixmiller said the acquisition is part of his company's continuing expansion and diversification in chemicals and plastics.

NLRB To Carry PPG Case To Supreme Court

Will Seek Review Of Circuit Ruling

The National Labor Relations Board will ask the Supreme Court to review a federal court decision setting aside a NLRB ruling that an electrical workers local should be bargaining agent for electricians at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's plant here.

Plans for the appeal were received here last night by John Logue, president of Local 2001, IBEW, which claims bargaining rights for some 40 maintenance electricians at the company's Works 7.

Frank W. Adams, Lynchburg, Va., IBEW representative, forwarded to Mr. Logue a letter received from Stuart Rothman, general counsel of the NLRB.

Will Petition

The NLRB official told Mr. Adams that the board, as requested, will petition the Supreme Court to review the decision handed down by the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals in September.

Mr. Rothman said the petition for certiorari will be filed within a few days.

The NLRB policy permitting a craft union to create an independent bargaining unit in a firm which has plant-wide bargaining was termed discriminatory by the federal court in the case involving the United Glass and Ceramics Workers of North America and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, both AFL-CIO.

Sets Aside Order

The NLRB, however, sanctioned an election here several years ago and the IBEW won bargaining rights for the electrical maintenance crew.

At the federal court hearing, the Glass Workers claimed the NLRB exceeded its authority when it allowed the IBEW to carve out a craft union in a plant represented by another union.

Judge Morris A. Soper, speaking for the court, agreed with the Glass Workers and set aside the NLRB order naming the Electrical Workers union as bargaining agent for the electricians.

Firemen Quench Box Car Blaze

South Cumberland and Central fire companies were called to the Eastbound hump shortly before 10:30 a.m. yesterday after fire was discovered in the car loaded with merchandise.

Central ladder and engine companies were dispatched. They flooded smoldering material after using a power saw to cut through the top of the car.

Jewish Appeal Drive To Have Kickoff Dinner

Attorney To Speak Here Sunday Night

Lawrence R. Gould, New York attorney and chairman of the Speakers Research Bureau for the United Nations, will speak at the kickoff dinner of the local United Jewish Appeal Sunday at 6:30 p.m. at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Mr. Gould, who is active in civic affairs in New York, has long championed the cause of Israel, and has taken part in several debates with Arab spokesmen in public forums.

A veteran of World War II, he aided in the emigration of European Jews to Israel, working successively in England, France, Germany and Czechoslovakia.

He is a graduate of Columbia Law School and is a member of the law firm of Klotz and Gould in New York. He is a member of the Academy of Political Science.

In his talk here Sunday, Mr. Gould will report on the immigration crisis facing Israel as a result of a steady outpouring of Jews from Eastern Europe — a modern exodus which has mounted to 8,000 immigrants a month.

United Jewish Appeal aid programs are carried out by three agencies: the United Israel Appeal, which remits funds to the Jewish Agency, the philanthropic organization responsible for the absorption of Israel's immigrants; the Joint Distribution Committee, which aids Jews in Israel and 24 other countries, and the New York Association for New Americans, which provides settlement and adjustment services for Jewish newcomers to the U.S.

From its special fund, the United Jewish Appeal also makes allocations to the United Hias Service, an agency aiding Jewish immigrants to countries other than Israel.

Locally, the United Jewish Appeal is conducted annually by the Jewish Welfare Board, officers of which are Sander Lewine, president; Robert Kaplon, secretary, and George Ossip, treasurer.

Murder Trial Set Dec. 21 At Oakland

Full Bench To Hear R. W. Guard Case

Ronald W. Guard, 51-year-old former constable at Friendsville who is charged with the first degree murder of George Raymond Schroyer, 40, on October 25, will be tried before a full bench in Garrett County Circuit Court at Oakland Monday, December 21.

The trial, scheduled to begin at 9:30 a.m., will be heard by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris, Cumberland; Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley, Oakland; and Associate Judge David K. McLaughlin, Hagerstown.

Guard was arrested after Schroyer, a Friendsville tavern operator, was shot and killed early Sunday morning, October 25, in front of his place of business. Schroyer died of a bullet wound in the right side of his head.

Sheriff James E. Frantz preferred a murder charge against the former constable. Magistrate Robert M. Maroney held Guard for action of the grand jury without bond.

Judge Fraley recalled the members of the September grand jury to consider the case after the court had refused a writ of habeas corpus filed by Guard's attorney, Lewis R. Jones.

In recalling the grand jury, Judge Fraley said he felt that the accused man was entitled to trial without waiting until the grand jury convened in March.

Investigating officers said there were several eyewitnesses to the shooting and that conflicting stories had been told. Guard told Sheriff Frantz the revolver discharged accidentally as he attempted to break up a tussle between Schroyer and Raymond Coddington. Police were told that Coddington and Schroyer were not fighting but just "acting the fool" and "horsing around."

Guard was officially relieved of his position as constable by the Garrett County Commissioners, who had appointed him several months earlier upon recommendation of the Democratic State Central Committee. He was an unsuccessful candidate for sheriff on the Democratic ticket in the election last year.

Firettes Have Ticket Contest

The Teen-Age Firettes of Baltimore Pike Volunteer Fire Company are holding a contest to see whether the boys or the girls of the organization can sell more tickets to the club's monthly skating parties.

Losers of the contest will treat the winners to a party. The next skating party will be held next Tuesday at the Moon-Glo Roller Rink, where the Firettes are holding parties on the second Tuesday of each month.

The Women's Auxiliary of the fire company will hold its annual Christmas party for children of the community December 18 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the fire hall.

Church Plans Annual Christmas Carol Sing

The second annual Christmas carol sing will be held by Cresaptown Methodist Church Sunday at 7:30 p. m. in the church sanctuary.

Choirs and congregations of Rawlings Methodist Church and Park Place Methodist Church have accepted invitations to participate, Rev. Robert E. Bavender, minister at the Cresaptown church, said last night.

The two visiting choirs and the three Cresaptown choirs will sing a special arrangement of a Christmas carol or hymn and the combined congregations will join the choirs in singing familiar carols.

Get New Cruisers

All three new police cruisers have been placed into service here, the Police Department announced yesterday. Front doors of the cars have been painted white and marked POLICE.

The entrance hall of the Health Department's new clinic quarters on the second floor of the Public Safety Building was crowded yesterday morning during pre-natal and multi-purpose clinic sessions. Clinic quarters were moved recently from the basement of City Hall as the administrative and sanitation sections moved to the Union Street county building.

3 More W.Va. Deer Hunters Are Killed

4 Shot To Death In Nearby Counties In Past 2 Days

Three more deer hunters were shot to death in nearby counties of West Virginia yesterday, bringing to four the death toll in the past two days. Three others apparently died of heart attacks while hunting since the season opened Monday.

Killed yesterday were Ocie Robert Weatherholtz, 22, of Kessel; Virgil Francis Stonestreet, 53, of Maysville, and Harry G. Adams, 25, of Independence. Otis D. Wilkins, 36, of near Lost City, Va., was killed Tuesday.

Weatherholtz was shot through the heart yesterday and died instantly. Trooper Jack Baker of Moorefield said the shooting occurred at 11:15 a.m. about two miles north of Kessel.

He said Weatherholtz and four companions were walking along a road to make a drive on deer. Weatherholtz was in front and was being followed by Carl Kimble, 25, of Fisher, W. Va.; James Baldwin, Frank Crites and Lawrence Zuber, all about 16, of Kessel.

When questioned by Trooper Baker, Kimble said he had his .30-30 rifle in his arms and was either looking at it or playing with the firearm when it accidentally discharged.

The slug struck Weatherholtz from the rear and passed through his heart. He stumbled forward a few steps and collapsed, said Trooper Baker. The other four called for a doctor.

Trooper Baker said Kimble has been charged with negligently shooting and killing a human being while hunting.

He was arraigned before Justice of the Peace P. W. Clark at Moorefield, waived a preliminary hearing and was released under $1,000 bond pending action of the January grand jury.

Farmer Is Killed

In another fatal shooting accident yesterday Mr. Stonestreet, well-known farmer and president of the Grant County Farm Bureau, was fatally wounded while placing a hunting party along an old logging road near Martin.

Conservation Commission authorities at first reported the man was shot by an unidentified hunter who ran after discovering what he had done.

Later in the day, Forrest Gaile Streets, 20, a farm worker who lives at Martin, reportedly admitted to Cpl. G. H. Phillips of Petersburg that he had shot the man.

Streets said he thought he saw a deer through a pine thicket, fired a round from his rifle, reloaded and fired again.

Admits Shooting

Streets, arraigned before Justice of Peace J. L. Boor in Petersburg on a charge of negligently shooting and killing a human being while hunting, waived a preliminary hearing and was released under $1,000 bond for action of the April grand jury.

Conservation Officer Harrison Shobe said Stonestreet was guiding a hunting party of about 10 men, and had begun placing them when the shooting occurred at about 8:30 a. m.

Members of the party included Dr. Joe N. Price, Cheverly, Md., dentist, and Rev. E. S. Price, Norton, Va. who administered first aid and then took Stonestreet to Grant Memorial Hospital in Petersburg.

Stonestreet apparently died from loss of blood shortly after being admitted to the hospital. He was pronounced dead by Dr. Lysle Veach.

Assisting Shobe were Robert Leeson and F. H. Kyer, of the Conservation Commission staff; Grant County Sheriff Harman Hartman, Prosecuting Attorney David E. Cuppett and Corporal Phillips.

Killed In Crossfire

Also killed yesterday was Harry G. Adams, 25, of Independence, Preston County, while hunting with nine other men near the intersection of U. S. 50 and W. Va. 92 in the southwestern part of the county.

Deputy Sheriff Darius Wild said the party came upon a deer in an open field and Adams was caught in the crossfire. A rifle slug hit him in the abdomen.

Later in the day a pathologist

Md. Assembly Unit Approves Teachers' Pay

Also Backs Changes In Roads Program

By LOUIS G. PANOS

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Legislative Council gave overwhelming approval Wednesday to a plan for moderate teachers-pay increases and to major revisions in the Maryland roads program.

Both actions came at the final meeting of the council, between-sessions screening arm of the General Assembly, which meets for 30 days beginning next February.

Informed sources said Gov. Tawes prefers the new teachers salary program over the more liberal one he endorsed in the 1959 Legislature. That one was approved by the Senate but was scuttled by premature adjournment of the House.

Would Cost $5 Million

Proposed by the Committee on Taxation and Fiscal Matters under Sen. William S. James (D-Harford), the new plan would cost an estimated five million dollars next year. It would stress raises for veteran teachers and raise the state-guaranteed minimum scale from $3,200-$5,000 to $3,500-$6,300.

Interested observers as the council backed the proposal by a 14-2 margin were representatives of the Department of Education and the Maryland State Teachers Assn. Both are on record in favor of the more liberal program which would boost the scale to $4,000-$6,000 at an estimated cost of 20 million dollars by its second year.

Also approved by the council was a James Committee recommendation to give classified state employes about 2½ million dollars in pay increases next year. The employes association has requested a 10 per cent across-the-board increase which would cost an estimated 5.6 million dollars.

Flexible Roads Program

The biggest changes in the roads program would be designed to give the State Roads Commission and county officials greater flexibility in highway planning than is now possible under the 12-year, 568-million-dollar program begun seven years ago.

Commission Chairman John B. Funk told the council his agency is hampered by a restriction which provides that, until at least 90 per cent of the mileage scheduled in the first four years of the plan is completed, no construction scheduled for the second four-year phase may be started.

Ballooned costs and changing traffic needs have made impractical some of the projects originally scheduled for the first four-year phases, Funk said, but the law still requires that they be given priority over more necessary projects scheduled for the second four-year phase.

Delay In West Md.

One result, the chairman said, has been a delay in completion of such major projects as U. S. 40 improvements in Western Maryland, the Baltimore Beltway in Baltimore County and U. S. 50 on the Eastern Shore.

The council backed the commission proposal to remove the 90 per cent restriction and to allow the agency to substitute any county project for one scheduled under the 12-year plan, provided the county commissioners or council and the county delegation to the Legislature agree to the substitution.

Other Action

In other actions at its last meeting, the council:

1. Approved recommendations which would give the state closer supervision over Blue Cross hospital insurance operations and require participating hospitals to adopt uniform cost accounting practices. The move is intended to keep a closer check on the ne-

Dad Shoots Son While Hunting

Daniel Smith, 16, of near Charleston, W. Va., who was accidentally wounded in the left leg yesterday morning while on a hunting trip with his father near Moorefield, was reported in "satisfactory" condition last night at Grant County Memorial Hospital in Petersburg.

Authorities said prompt action by the youth's father probably saved his life. The victim and his father were among a group of about 30 hunters in the South Branch area of Moorefield.

He and his father were on stand waiting for others to drive deer in their direction. The youth apparently left his stand and ran down the hill when a deer ran out of the woods about 10 a.m.

The father fired his 30.06 rifle at the deer and noticed his boy nearby at the same time. After wounding his son, the father applied pressure to halt the bleeding.

He shouted for help but none of the other hunters apparently heard him. The father instructed the youth how to apply pressure and went on foot to summon others in the party.

When he located some of the others, they rushed back to the youths side, made an improvised stretcher out of their coats, applied a tournequet and carried the wounded youth several miles to a station wagon. The father took his son to the hospital.

$100,000 Suit Is Settled Out Of Court

Attorneys Agree Just Before Trial

A $100,000 damage suit brought by a Keyser man against the owner of the Astor Cab Company, a local cab driver and another local motorist, was settled in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday morning shortly after the petit jury was impaneled.

Theodore F. Black of Keyser claims he was injured April 7, 1956, while he was a passenger in a taxi owned by Fred W. Jenkins trading as the Astor Cab Company and driven by Roy S. Cowgill, 23 Laing Avenue.

He was riding in the rear of the taxi which was going west on Williams Street near the intersection of Maryland Avenue and was being followed by a car operated by Eldon Sponaugle, 13 Willison Place, third defendant in the suit.

The cab and auto continued down Williams Street and without warning, according to the plaintiff, the cab driver stopped suddenly and the car rammed into the rear of the taxi.

Black claims he was thrown from his seat with force and sustained serious injuries, was confined to a hospital, incurred medical expenses and lost wages while not working due to the accident.

Attorneys for the plaintiff were Harry Stegmaier, city; James P. McCardle and Cyril D. Brain, Pittsburgh. William C. Walsh and William Walsh were counsel for the cab company and driver of the cab.

The case was to have been heard by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris.

Nee Gets Permit For New Dwelling

Bernard R. Nee of Cresaptown has obtained a permit from the Allegany County assessment department for construction of a new $7,200 dwelling on Winchester Road in Election District 7.

The 29 by 44 foot house will be constructed of stone veneer.

PTA Council Will Meet On Monday

Mrs. George Tullis of Baltimore, chairman of the Pedestrian Safety Commission, which is associated with the Maryland Traffic Safety Bureau will be guest speaker at the meeting of the Allegany County Council of Parent - Teacher Associations Monday at 8 p. m. at Northeast School, Bowman's Addition.

Arthur Howard, county council safety chairman, has arranged this program, according to Mrs. George Buckalew, president.

Mrs. Tullis, a blind woman, has been traveling over the state speaking to school children. Mr. Howard says she has done a great amount of work in promoting pedestrian safety.

The county safety committee will meet with Mr. Howard at 7:30 p. m. and the council health committee will meet with Mrs. Leland B. Ransom, county health chairman, at the same time. These county committees are composed of the chairman from each PTA.

Council officers and members of the executive board will meet with Mrs. Buckalew for a special executive meeting at 7 p. m. Mrs. Buckalew urges that all executive members attend, as this will be an important but brief session. Local presidents will meet with Mrs. Buckalew at 7:30.

Each PTA unit in the county is entitled to send five or more delegates to the council meeting. A program of special Christmas music will be presented during the entertainment period.

Celanese Acquires New Division

NEW YORK (AP)—The Celanese Corp. of America Wednesday reported acquisition of Royal Manufacturing Co. Inc. of Prescott, Ariz., maker of plastic bottles and containers.

Terms of the acquisition were not disclosed. Richard W. Kixmiller, president of Celanese Plastics Co., said Royal will be operated under the present management as a division of Celanese Plastics Co.

Kixmiller said the acquisition is part of his company's continuing expansion and diversification in chemicals and plastics.

NLRB To Carry PPG Case To Supreme Court

Will Seek Review Of Circuit Ruling

The National Labor Relations Board will ask the Supreme Court to review a federal court decision setting aside a NLRB ruling that an electrical workers local should be bargaining agent for electricians at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's plant here.

Plans for the appeal were received here last night by John Logue, president of Local 2001, IBEW, which claims bargaining rights for some 40 maintenance electricians at the company's Works 7.

Frank W. Adams, Lynchburg, Va., IBEW representative, forwarded to Mr. Logue a letter received from Stuart Rothman, general counsel of the NLRB.

Will Petition

The NLRB official told Mr. Adams that the board, as requested, will petition the Supreme Court to review the decision handed down by the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals in September.

Mr. Rothman said the petition for certiorari will be filed within a few days.

The NLRB policy permitting a craft union to create an independent bargaining unit in a firm which has plant-wide bargaining was termed discriminatory by the federal court in the case involving the United Glass and Ceramics Workers of North America and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, both AFL-CIO.
